Dear Ohioans,

The offices of the Attorney General and Auditor of State foster the spirit of open government by promoting Ohio’s Public Records Law and Open Meetings Law. Together, these laws are known as “Ohio Sunshine Laws” and are among the most comprehensive open government laws in the nation.

Along with this 2011 Ohio Sunshine Laws Manual, our offices provide Ohio Sunshine Laws training for elected officials throughout the state, as mandated by Ohio Revised Code Sections 109.43 and 149.43(E)(1). By providing elected officials and other public employees information concerning public records and compliance, we help ensure accountability and transparency in the conduct of public business.

The Attorney General’s Office and its Public Records Unit stand as one of the state’s foremost authorities on public records and open meetings law. The office provides training, guidance, and online resources. Additionally, the Attorney General has created a model public records policy. Local governments and institutions can use this model as direction for creating their own public records policies. This model policy and other online resources are available at www.OhioAttorneyGeneral.gov/Sunshine.

The Auditor of State’s Open Government Unit serves as a trusted resource for Ohio Sunshine Laws information and training. The Auditor of State website at www.auditor.state.oh.us features an Open Government page highlighting information concerning the Ohio Open Meetings Act, the Ohio Public Records Act, Records Retention and Ohio Certified Public Records Training.

This manual is intended as a guide, but because much of open government law comes from interpretation of the Ohio Sunshine Laws by the courts, we encourage local governments to seek guidance from their legal counsel when specific questions arise.

Thank you for your interest in promoting open government in Ohio.

Very respectfully yours,

Mike DeWine
Attorney General

Auditor of State Legal Division:

Chief Legal Counsel William Owen and Director of Policy and Public Affairs Mary Amos Augsburger.
Ohio Supreme Court Justice Charles Zimmerman:

“"The rule in Ohio is that public records are the people's records, and that the officials in whose custody they happen to be are merely trustees for the people; therefore anyone may inspect such records at any time, subject only to the limitation that such inspection does not endanger the safety of the record, or unreasonably interfere with the discharge of the duties of the officer having custody of the same. Patterson v. Ayers, 171 Ohio St. 369 (1960)."

Thomas Jefferson:

“"Information is the currency of democracy.""

Patrick Henry:

“"The liberties of a people never were, nor ever will be, secure, when the transactions of their rulers may be concealed from them . . . To cover with the veil of secrecy the common routine of business, is an abomination in the eyes of every intelligent man.""

James Madison:

“"A popular government without popular information, or the means of acquiring it, is but a prologue to a farce or a tragedy, or perhaps both. Knowledge will forever govern ignorance, and a people who mean to be their own governors must arm themselves with the power which knowledge gives.""

John Adams:

“"Liberty cannot be preserved without a general knowledge among the people, who have a right and a desire to know; but besides this, they have a right, an indisputable, divine right to that most dreaded and envied kind of knowledge, I mean of the characters and conduct of their rulers.""
Glossary

When learning about the Ohio Sunshine Laws, you may confront some legal terms that are unfamiliar to you. Below are the more common terms used in this handbook.

Charter
A charter is an instrument established by the citizens of a municipality, which is roughly analogous to a state’s constitution. A charter outlines certain rights, responsibilities, liberties, or powers that exist in the municipality.

Discovery
Discovery is a pre-trial practice by which parties to a lawsuit disclose to each other documents and other information in an effort to avoid any surprises at trial. The practice serves the dual purpose of permitting parties to be well-prepared for trial and enabling them to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of their case.

In Camera
In camera means "in chambers." A judge will often review records that are at issue in a public records dispute in camera to evaluate whether they are subject to any exceptions or defenses that may prevent disclosure.

Injunction
An injunction is a court order commanding or preventing a person from acting in a certain way. For instance, a person who believes a public body has violated the Open Meetings Act will file a complaint seeking injunctive relief. The court may then issue an order enjoining the public body from further violations of the act and requiring it to correct any damage caused by past violations.

Litigation
The term "litigation" refers to the process of carrying on a lawsuit, i.e., a legal action and all the proceedings associated with it.

Mandamus
The term means literally "we command." In this area of law, it refers to the legal action that a party files when they believe they have been wrongfully denied access to public records. The full name of the action is a petition for a writ of mandamus, if the party filing the action, or "relator," prevails, the court will issue a writ commanding the public office or person responsible for the public records, or "respondent," to release the records in dispute.

Pro se
The term means “for oneself,” and is used to refer to people who represent themselves in court, acting as their own legal counsel.

Ohio Public Records Act Summary

The Ohio Public Records Act is built on centuries of American legal tradition that the records of government are “the people’s records.” The Public Records Act provides the public with procedures to request records from any public office in Ohio, while protecting certain types of records from release. It also establishes a legal process to enforce compliance when a requester feels that a public office has failed to satisfy its obligations under R.C. 149.43(B).

Who can make a request for public records?
Any person can make a request for public records by simply asking a public office or person responsible for the public records. Usually, the request can be made in any manner the requester chooses: by phone, in person, or in an e-mail or letter. The requester cannot be required to identify him- or herself, or to explain why the records are being requested unless a specific law requires it. Often, however, a voluntary discussion about the requester’s purposes or interest in seeking certain information can aid the public office in locating and producing the desired records.

What does a public office have to do when a request is received?
A public office must organize and maintain its public records to meet its duty to respond to public records requests, and must keep a copy of its records retention schedule at a location readily available to the public. When a public office receives a proper public records request for specific, existing records, the public office must provide prompt inspection of the requested records (during regular business hours) or provide copies within a reasonable period of time. A requester is entitled to delivery of copies by any available means of delivery or transmission the requester selects at the actual cost of packaging and delivery.

The public office may withhold or redact specific records that are covered by an exception to the Public Records Act, but is required to give the requester an explanation for any part of a record withheld, including the legal authority that requires or permits that withholding. In addition to denials based on an exception, a public office may deny a request in the extreme circumstance where compliance would unreasonably interfere with the discharge of the office’s duties. A request can also be refused if the office no longer keeps the records, if the request is for items that are not records of the office, if the requester does not revise an ambiguous or overly broad request, or if the requester refuses to pay the cost of requested copies.

To whom does the Public Records Act apply?
The rights and duties set out in the Act apply only to a “public office or person responsible for public records,” which includes governmental subdivisions, private entities which are the “substantial equivalent” of public institutions, and other “persons responsible for public records.” The Act usually does not apply to purely private corporations or other organizations, and is also different from the federal Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), which applies only to federal governmental agencies.

What makes a “record” a “public record”?
While the right to access records under the Ohio Public Records Act applies to all records kept by an Ohio public office, the terms “records” and “public records” do not include every document or item found in a public office - only those that actually document the policies, operations, and other activities of the office. So, for example, the home addresses of office employees, supply catalogues, and purely personal communications may not be “records” of a public office.

Does a public office have to work with the requester to find public records?
If a requester makes an ambiguous or overly broad request that the public office denies, the Public Records Act provides for negotiation to help identify, locate, and deliver the requested records. Unless a specific law says otherwise, a requester does not have to give the reason for wanting the records or their name. In addition, a requester does not have to make a request in writing, but the request does have to be clear and specific enough for the public office to reasonably identify what public records are being requested.

Can some public records be withheld from a requester?
The General Assembly has passed a number of laws that protect certain records by either requiring or permitting a public office to withhold them from public release. Where a public office uses one of these “exceptions,” the office may only withhold a record or part of a record clearly covered by the exception, and must tell the requester what legal authority it is relying on to withhold the record. If only part of a page, audiotape, or image is protected by an exception, then the public office must redact (obscure or delete) only that part of the record, and provide the remainder of the record to the requester.

The General Assembly, through legislation, can change the preceding rights and duties for any particular records, for particular public offices, for particular requesters, or in specific situations. In other words, the general rules of public records law may be modified in a variety and combination of ways. In applying the Public Records Act, the courts interpret the Act and any claimed exceptions in favor of disclosure.

What can a person do if they are not given public records?
If a person believes they were wrongly denied disclosure of a public record that they requested, they can file a lawsuit, called a mandamus action, against the public office. The burden will be on the office to show the court that any record that it withheld was clearly protected by one or more valid exceptions under the law. If the public office cannot make this showing, it will be ordered to provide the record, and may be subject to a civil penalty and payment of attorney fees. The Public Records Act is a “self-help” statute, meaning that a person who believes the Act has been violated must independently pursue a remedy, rather than asking a public official such as the Ohio Attorney General to initiate the legal action on his or her behalf.
Ohio Open Meetings Act Summary

The Open Meetings Act requires public bodies in Ohio to conduct all public business in open meetings that the public may attend and observe. This means that if a public body is meeting to discuss and decide public business, the meeting must be open to the public.

What is a public body?
Public bodies are decision-making groups of state or local government agencies or institutions. Examples of these bodies include school boards, city councils, and boards of trustees. However, the Open Meetings Act does not apply to some public bodies, such as the Ohio General Assembly and grand juries.

What is a meeting?
In order for the Open Meetings Act to apply, the members of a public body must be meeting to discuss the public’s business. A meeting is a prearranged gathering of a majority of the members of a public body for the purpose of discussing public business. So, for example, if there are five members of a school board, and only two get together to discuss public business, this is not a meeting and the Open Meetings Act would not require it to be open to the public. However, if three members gather to discuss public business, this is a meeting and the Open Meetings Act would require it to be open to the public. Also, if there is a meeting, the public body must give prior public notice.

What kind of notice should be given to the public?
Public bodies must notify the public when and where each meeting will take place, and must sometimes say what will be discussed. Also, every public body must establish, by rule, a reasonable method for notifying the public in advance of meetings. There are three types of meetings, each requiring different types of notice.

“Regular meetings” are held at regular intervals, such as once a month. The notice required for this type of meeting includes letting the public know the time and place of the meeting.

A “special meeting” is any meeting other than a regular meeting. Public notice must be given of the time, place, and purpose of the special meeting. At least 24 hours notice must be given, and only topics related to the stated purpose of the meeting can be discussed.

“Emergency meetings” are special meetings that are needed because a situation requires immediate action. The public body must immediately notify certain media outlets and individuals of the time, place, and purpose of the emergency meeting. Like all other special meetings, only topics related to the stated purpose of the meeting can be discussed.

Must minutes be taken of all public meetings?
A public body must keep full and accurate minutes of its meetings, but those minutes do not have to be an exact transcript of every word said. Minutes must be promptly prepared, filed, and made available for public inspection.

What are executive sessions and when are they permitted?
Closed-door sessions, or executive sessions, are started when a member makes a motion and the members of the public body vote to go into closed session. These sessions are attended by only the members of the public body and persons they invite. Executive sessions may be held for only a few specific purposes, and no vote or other decision on the matter(s) discussed may take place during the executive session.
Ohio Open Meetings Act Summary

What can be done if there are violations of the Open Meetings Act?
If any person believes that a public body has violated the Open Meetings Act, that person may file an injunctive action in the common pleas court to compel the public body to obey the Act. If an injunction is issued, the public body must correct its actions and pay court costs, a fine of $500, and reasonable attorney fees, subject to possible reduction by the court. If the court does not issue an injunction, and the court finds that the lawsuit was frivolous, it may order the person who filed the suit to pay the public body’s court costs and reasonable attorney fees.

If someone is seeking access to a public body’s minutes, and the body is not turning them over, that person can file a mandamus action under the Public Records Act to force the creation of, or access to, meeting minutes. A mandamus action can also be used to order a public body to give notice of meetings to the person filing the action.

An action taken by a public body while that body is in violation of the Open Meetings Act may be invalid. A member of the public body who violates an injunction imposed for a violation of the Open Meetings Act may be subject to a court action removing that official from office.
Overview of the Ohio Public Records Act

Ohio law has long provided for public scrutiny of state and local government records.\(^1\)

Ohio’s Public Records Act details how to request public records. The Act also excludes some records from disclosure and enforces production when a proper public records request is denied. The pages that follow will explain the details of this process; below is an overview of the basic principles.

Any person may request to inspect or obtain copies of public records from a public office that keeps those records. A public office must organize and maintain its public records in a manner that meets its duty to respond to public records requests, and must keep a copy of its records retention schedule at a location readily available to the public. When it receives a proper public records request, and unless part or all of a record is exempt from release, a public office must provide inspection of the requested records promptly and at no cost, or provide copies at cost within a reasonable period of time.

Unless a specific law says otherwise, a requester does not have to give the reason for wanting the records, or give his or her name, or make the request in writing. However, the request does have to be clear and specific enough for the public office to reasonably identify what public records are being requested. A request can be refused if the office no longer keeps the records, if the request is for documents that are not records of the office, or if the requester does not revise an ambiguous or overly broad request.

The General Assembly has passed a number of laws that protect certain records by either requiring or permitting a public office to withhold them from public release. Where a public office invokes one of these exceptions, the office may only withhold a record or part of a record clearly covered by the exception, and must tell the requester what legal authority it is relying on to withhold the record.

A person who believes he or she was wrongly denied a public record may file a lawsuit against the public office, and the burden will be on the office to show the court that any record it withheld was clearly subject to one or more valid exceptions. If it cannot, the public office will be ordered to provide the record, and may be subject to a civil penalty and payment of attorney fees.

\(^1\) Ohio’s state and local government offices follow Ohio’s Public Records Act, found at R.C. 149.43. The federal Freedom of Information Act, 5 U.S.C. § 552, does not apply to state and local offices.
Chapter One: Public Records Defined

The Ohio Public Records Act applies only to “public records,” which the Act defines as “records kept by a public office.” When making or responding to a public records request, it is important to first establish whether the items sought are really “records,” and if so, whether they are currently being “kept by” an organization that meets the definition of a “public office.” This chapter will review the definitions of each of these key terms and how they have been applied by Ohio courts.

One of the ways that the Ohio General Assembly removes certain records from the operation of the Ohio Public Records Act is to simply remove them from the definition of “public record.” These exceptions and other ways in which exceptions to the Act are created are addressed in Chapter Three.

A. What is a “Public Office”?

1. Statutory Definition - R.C. 149.011(A)

“Public office” includes any state agency, public institution, political subdivision, or other organized body, office, agency, institution, or entity established by the laws of this state for the exercise of any function of government.

This definition includes all state and local government offices, but also many agencies not directly operated by a political subdivision. Examples of entities that have been determined to be “public offices” (prior to the Oriana House decision) include:

- Some public hospitals;
- Community action agencies;
- Private non-profit water corporations supported by public money;
- Private non-profit PASSPORT administrative agencies;
- Private equity funds that receive public money;
- Non-profit corporations that receive and solicit gifts for a public university and receive support from taxation;
- Private non-profit county ombudsman offices; and
- County emergency medical services organizations.

2. Private Entities Can Be “Public Offices”

If there is clear and convincing evidence that a private entity is the functional equivalent of a public office, that entity will be subject to the Ohio Public Records Act. Under the functional equivalency test, the court must analyze all pertinent factors, including: (1) whether the entity performs a governmental function, (2) the level of government funding, (3) the extent of government involvement or regulation, and (4) whether the entity was created by the government or to avoid the requirements of the Public Records Act.12 The functional equivalency test “is best suited to the overriding purpose of the Public Records Act, which is ‘to allow public scrutiny of public offices, not of all entities that receive funds that at one time were controlled by the government.’”13 In general, the more a private entity is funded, controlled, regulated and/or created by government, and the greater the extent that the entity is performing a governmental function, the more likely it is the private entity will be found to be a “public institution” and therefore a “public office” subject to the Ohio Public Records Act.

3. A Private Entity, Even if not a “Public Office,” Can Be “A Person Responsible for Public Records”

When a public office contracts with a private entity to perform government work, the resulting records may be public records, even if they are solely in the possession of the private entity.14 Resulting records are public records when three conditions are met: (1) the private entity prepared the records to perform responsibilities normally belonging to the public office, (2) the public office is able to monitor the private entity’s performance, and (3) the public office may access the records itself.15 Under these circumstances, the public office is subject to requests for these public records under its jurisdiction, and the private entity itself may have become a “person16 responsible for public records” for purposes of the Ohio Public Records Act.17 For example, a public office’s obligation to turn over application materials and resumes extends to records of private search firms the public office used in the hiring process.18 Even where the public office does not have control over or access to such records, the records may still be deemed public.19 A public office cannot avoid its responsibility for public records by transferring custody of records or the record-making function to a private entity.20 However, a public office may not be responsible for records of a private entity that performs related functions that are not activities of the public office,21 and a person who works in a governmental subdivision and discusses a request is not thereby a “person responsible” for records outside of their own public office within the governmental subdivision.23

B. What are “Records”?

1. Statutory Definition - R.C. 149.011(G)

The term “Records” includes any document, device, or item, regardless of physical form or characteristic, including an electronic record as defined in R.C. 1306.01, created or received by or coming under the jurisdiction of any public office of the state or its political subdivisions, which serves to document the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the office.

2. Records and Non-Records

If a document or other item does not meet all three parts of the definition of a “record,” then it is a non-record and is not subject to the Ohio Public Records Act or Ohio’s records retention requirements. The next paragraphs explain how items in a public office might meet or fail to meet the three parts of the definition of a record in R.C. 149.011(G).

“Any document, device, or item, regardless of physical form or characteristic, including an electronic record as defined in section 1306.01 of the Revised Code . . .”

This first element of the definition of a record focuses on the existence of a recording medium; in other words, something that contains information in fixed form. The physical form of an item does not matter so long as it can record information. A paper or electronic document, e-mail,24 video,25 map, blueprint, photograph, voice mail message, or item stored on any other medium could be a record. This element is fairly broad. With the exception of one’s thoughts and unrecorded verbal communication, most public office information is stored on a fixed medium of some sort. A request for unrecorded or not-currently-recorded information (a request for advice, interpretation, referral, or research)26 made to a public office, rather than a request for a specific existing document, device, or item containing such information, would fail this part of the definition of a “record.”27 A public office has discretion to determine the form in which it will keep its records.28

“. . . created, received by, or coming under the jurisdiction of a public office . . .”

It is usually clear when items are created or received by a public office. However, even if an item is not in the public office’s physical possession, it may still be considered a “record” of that office.29 If

“. . . which serves to document the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the office.”

In addition to obvious non-records such as junk mail and electronic “spam,” some items found in the possession of a public office do not meet the definition of a record because they do not “document the activities of a public office.”31 It is the message or content, not the medium, that makes a document a record of a public office.32 The Ohio Supreme Court has noted that “disclosure [of non-records] would not help to monitor the conduct of state government.”33 Some items that have been found not to “document the activities,” etc. of public offices include public employee home addresses kept by the employer solely for administrative (i.e. management) convenience,34 retired municipal government employee home addresses kept by the municipal retirement system,35 personal calendars and appointment books,36 juror contact information and other juror questionnaire responses,37 contact information of children who use public recreational facilities,38 and non-record items and information contained in employee personnel files.39 Similarly, proprietary software needed to access stored records on magnetic tapes or other similar format, which meets the first two parts of the definition, is a means to provide access, and not a record, as it does not itself document the activities, etc. of a public office.40 Finally, the Attorney General has opined that a piece of physical evidence in the hands of a prosecuting attorney (e.g., a cigarette butt) is not a record of that office.41

3. The Effect of “Actual Use”

An item received by a public office is not a record simply because the public office could use the item to carry out its duties and responsibilities.42 However, if the public office actually uses the item, it may thereby document the office’s activities and become a record.43 For example, where a school board invited job applications to be sent to a post office box, any applications received there did not become records of the office subject to a public records request until the board retrieved and reviewed, or otherwise used and relied on them.44

4. “Is This Item a Record?” - Some Common Applications

E-mail

E-mail messages must be analyzed like any other item to determine if they meet the definition of a record. As electronic documents, all e-mails are items containing information stored on a fixed medium (the first part of the definition). If an e-mail is received, created by, or comes under the jurisdiction of a public office (the second part of the definition), then its status as a record depends on the content of the message. If an e-mail created by, received by, or coming under the jurisdiction of a public office serves to document the organization, functions, etc. of the public office, then it meets the three parts of the definition of a record. If an e-mail does not serve to document the activities of the office, then it does not meet the definition of a record.

Although the Ohio Supreme Court has not ruled directly on whether communications of public employees to or from private e-mail accounts that otherwise meet the definition of a record are subject to the Ohio Public Records Act, the issue is analogous to mailing a record from one’s home, versus mailing it from the office - the location from which the item is sent does not change its status as a record. Records transmitted via e-mail, like all other records, must be maintained in accordance with the office’s relevant records retention schedules.

Notes

Not every piece of paper on which a public officer or employee writes something meets the definition of a record. Personal notes of public officials generally do not constitute public records. Employee notes have been found not to be public records if they are:

- kept as personal papers, not official records;
- kept for the employee’s own convenience (for example, to help recall events); and
- other employees did not use or have access to the notes.

Such personal notes do not meet the third part of the definition of a record because they do not document the organization, functions, etc. of the public office. The Ohio Supreme Court has held in several cases that, in the context of a public court hearing or administrative proceeding, personal notes that meet the above criteria need not be retained as records because no information will be lost.

Lake County Sheriff’s Dept.* (1998), 82 Ohio St.3d 37 (When an e-mail message does not serve to document the organization, functions, procedures, or other activities of the public office, it is not a “record,” even if it was created by public employees on a public office’s e-mail system).

The Ohio Public Records Act

to the public. However, if any one of these factors does not apply (for instance if the notes are circulated as a draft), then the notes are likely to be considered a record.

Drafts

If a draft document kept by a public office meets the defining criteria of a record, it is subject to both the Public Records Act and records retention law. For example, a written draft of an oral collective bargaining agreement submitted to city council for its approval was found to document the city’s version of the oral agreement and therefore met the definition of a record. A public office may address the length of time for which drafts must be kept in its records retention schedules.

The cases finding drafts to be records involve the sharing of the document with others, implying that an unfinished draft document held solely by one individual may constitute only personal notes that do not yet document the activities of the office.

Computerized Database Contents

A database is an organized collection of related data. A public office is not required to search a database for information and compile or summarize to create new records. However, if a computer program being used by the public office can perform the search and produce the compilation or summary described by the requester, that output is deemed to already “exist” as a record for the purposes of the Ohio Public Records Act.

Where the public office would have to reprogram its computer system to produce the requested output, it is deemed not to be an existing record of the office.

C. What is a “Public Record”

This short definition joins the previously detailed definitions of “records” and “public office,” with the words “kept by.”

52 Personal notes, if not physically “kept by” the public office, would also not fit that defining requirement of a “public record.” For additional discussion see, Chapter One: E. Public Record.
53 Kish v. City of Akron, 109 Ohio St.3d 162, 2006-Ohio-1244, at ¶20 (2006) (“document need not be in final form to meet the statutory definition of ‘record’”);
State ex rel. Cincinnati Enquirer v. Dupuis, 98 Ohio St.3d 126, 2002-Ohio-7041, at ¶20 (2002) (“even if a record is not in final form, it may still constitute a ‘record’ for purposes of R.C. 149.43 if it documents the organization, policies, functions, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of a public office.”); see also, State ex rel. Wadd v. City of Cleveland (1998), 81 Ohio St.3d 50, 53, 1998-Ohio-444 (granting access to preliminary, unnumbered accident reports not yet processed into final form);
State ex rel. Cincinnati Post v. Schweikert (1988), 38 Ohio St.3d 170 (granting access to preliminary work product that had not reached its final stage or official destination).
57 State ex rel. Scanlon v. Deters (1989), 45 Ohio St.3d 376, 379 (overruled on different grounds).
58 State ex rel. Kemper v. State Teachers Retirement Bd. (1998), 82 Ohio St.3d 273, 275, 1998-Ohio-242 (relator requested names and addresses of a described class of members in the STRS - the court found the agency would have had to reprogram its computers to create the requested records).
59 The definition goes on to expressly include specific entities, by title, as ‘public offices’, and specific records as ‘public records’, as follows: “…including, but not limited to, state, county, city, village, township, and school district units, and records pertaining to the delivery of educational services by an alternative school in this state kept by the nonprofit or for-profit entity operating the alternative school pursuant to section 3313.533 of the Revised Code.” R.C. 149.43(A)(1).
What “Kept By” Means

A record is only a public record if it is “kept by” a public office. Records that do not yet exist – future minutes of a meeting that has not yet taken place – are not records, much less public records, until actually in existence and “kept” by the public office. Similarly, if the office kept a record in the past, but has properly disposed of the record and no longer keeps it, then it is no longer a public record of that office. For example, where a school board first received and then returned superintendent candidates’ application materials to the applicants, those materials were no longer “public records” responsive to a newspaper’s request. But “so long as a public record is kept by a government agency, it can never lose its status as a public record.”

D. Exceptions

Both within the Ohio Public Records Act, and in separate statutes throughout the Ohio Revised Code, the General Assembly has identified items and information that are either removed from the definition of public record, or otherwise required or permitted to be withheld. (See, Chapter Three: Exceptions to the Required Release of Public Records, for definitions, application, and examples of exceptions to the Public Records Act).

61 Prior to July, 1985, the statute read, “records required to be kept by any public office,” which was a very different requirement, and which no longer applies to the Ohio definition of “public record.” State ex rel. Cincinnati Post v. Schweikert (1988), 38 Ohio St.3d 170, 173.

62 State ex rel. Hubbard v. Fuerst, 8th Dist. No. 94799, 2010-Ohio-2489 (A writ of mandamus will not issue to compel a custodian of public records to furnish records which are not in his possession or control.).

Cincinnati Bd. of Educ., 99 Ohio St.3d 6, 2003-Ohio-2250, at ¶12 (materials related to superintendent search were not “public records” where neither board nor search agency kept such materials); see also, State ex rel. Johnson v. Oberlin City School Dist. Bd. of Educ., 2009-Ohio-3526 (individual evaluations, used by board president to prepare a composite evaluation but not kept thereafter, were not “public records”).

66 R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(a-aa) (records, information, and other items that the General Assembly has determined are not public records or otherwise excepted).
II. Chapter Two: Requesting Public Records

The Ohio Public Records Act sets out procedures, limits, and requirements designed to maximize requester success in obtaining access to public records and minimize the burden on public offices where possible. When making or responding to a public records request, it is important to be familiar with these procedures, limits and requirements so it is a smooth and cooperative process.

A. Rights and Obligations of a Public Records Requester

Any person can make a request for public records by asking a public office or person responsible for public records for specific, existing records. Usually, the request can be made in any manner the requester chooses: by phone, in person, or in an e-mail or letter. The requester may not be required to identify him- or herself, or indicate why the records are being requested unless a specific law requires it. Often, however, a discussion about the requester’s purposes or interest in seeking certain information can aid the public office in locating and producing the desired records more efficiently.

1. “Any Person” May Make a Request

The requester need not be an Ohio or United States resident. In fact, in the absence of a law to the contrary, foreign individuals and individuals living in a foreign country are entitled to inspect and copy public records. The requester need not be an individual, but may be a corporation, government agency, or other body.

2. Proper Request for Specific, Existing Records

A requester must identify the records he or she is seeking “with reasonable clarity.” The request must not be overly broad, and must describe what is being sought “specifically and particularly.” A public office will not be compelled to produce public records when the underlying request is ambiguous or overly broad. For example, a request for “any and all records containing any reference whatsoever” to a particular person is an inappropriate public records request because it fails to identify the particular records sought.

A requester must also request a record that actually exists at the time of the request, not merely information the requester seeks to obtain. For example, if a person asks a public office for a list of cases pending against it, but the office does not keep such a list, the public office is under no duty to create a list to respond to the request.\(^76\) Additionally, there is no duty to provide records that were not in existence at the time of the request, but which later come into existence.\(^77\)

3. Unless a Specific Law Provides Otherwise, Requests can be for any Purpose, and Need not Identify the Requestor or be Made in Writing

A requester need not make a request for public records in writing, or identify him- or herself when making a request.\(^78\) Requesters are not required to inspect or retrieve the records themselves; they may designate someone to inspect or receive copies of the requested records.\(^79\) In most circumstances, the requester need not specify the reason for the request,\(^80\) nor is there any requirement in the Ohio Public Records Act that a requester use particular wording to make a request.\(^81\) Any requirement by the public office that the requester disclose his or her identity or the intended use of the requested public record constitutes a denial of the request.\(^82\)

However, the public office may ask requesters to provide their identity, or the intended use of the records, or make the request in writing, when the public office believes that any of these would help the public office identify, locate, or deliver the requested records. The public office must first let the requesters know that they may decline this option if they wish.\(^83\) (See Chapter Two: B. Rights and Obligations of Public Offices - 6. Clarifying the Request)

4. Requester Choices of Media on Which Copies are Made

A requester must specify whether he or she would like to inspect requested records or obtain copies.\(^84\) If copies are requested, the requester has the right to choose the medium (paper, film, electronic file, etc.) upon which he or she would like a record to be duplicated.\(^85\) The requester can choose to have the record: (1) on paper, (2) in the same medium as the public office keeps it\(^86\), or (3) on any medium upon which the public office or person responsible for the public record determines the record can “reasonably be duplicated as an integral part of the normal operations of the public office….\(^87\) The public office may charge the requester the actual cost of copies made, and may require payment of copying costs in advance.\(^88\)

5. Requester Choices of Delivery or Transmission of Copies

A requester may personally pick up requested copies of public records, or may send a designee. Upon request, a public office must transmit copies of public records via the U.S. mail “or by any other means of delivery or transmission,” at the choice of the requester. The public office may require prepayment of postage or other delivery cost, as well as the cost of supplies used in mailing, delivery, or transmission.

6. Other Rights and Obligations of Requesters

A requester is entitled to prompt inspection of public records at all reasonable times during the regular business hours of the public office, to receive copies of public records within a reasonable period of time, and to access the public office’s records retention schedules. A requester may be required to revise an ambiguous or overly broad request with the help of the public office, or be offered the choice of giving additional information necessary to identify, locate, or deliver the requested records. Also, remember that almost any general rights, obligations, or procedure in public records law can be changed by the General Assembly for specific types of requesters, records, offices, or situations. (These matters are explained in greater detail under the corresponding Rights and Obligations of a Public Office in the next section.)

B. Rights and Obligations of a Public Office

A public office must organize and maintain its records so that records may be made available in response to public records requests, and must provide the public access to its records retention schedule. On receiving a public records request for specific, existing records, the public office must provide prompt inspection at no cost during regular business hours, or provide copies at cost within a reasonable period of time. The public office may withhold or redact specific records that are covered by an exception to the Ohio Public Records Act, but is required to give the requester an explanation, including legal authority. If a requester makes an ambiguous or overly broad request, or the public office believes that asking for the request in writing, or the requester’s identity or the intended use of the requested information would enhance the ability of the public office to provide the records, the Ohio Public Records Act provides for negotiation to help identify, locate, and deliver the requested records. In addition to denials justified by exceptions, a public office may deny a request in the extreme circumstance where compliance would unreasonably interfere with the discharge of the office’s duties.

1. Organization and Maintenance of Public Records

The Ohio Public Records Act requires public offices to organize and maintain public records “in a manner that they can be made available for inspection or copying” in response to public records requests. The General Assembly has imposed this requirement in order to “facilitate broader access to public records.” A public office is not required to create new records to respond to a public records request, even if it is only a matter of compiling information from existing records.
A public office must have a copy of its current records retention schedule at a location readily available to the public. The records retention schedule can also be a valuable tool for the public office to use to show a requester how the records kept by the office are organized and maintained.

2. Request Must be for Specific, Existing Records

A public office need not fulfill requests that do not specifically and particularly describe what is being sought. (See the corresponding duty of requesters in subsection A.2. of this Chapter.)

3. Prompt Inspection, or Copies Within a Reasonable Period of Time

There is no set, required time period for responding to a public records request. Instead, the requirement to provide “prompt” production of records for inspection, and to make copies available in a “reasonable amount of time,” have both been interpreted by the courts as being “without delay” and “with reasonable speed,” with the reasonableness of the time taken in each case depending on the facts and circumstances of the particular request. These terms do not mean “immediately,” or “without a moment’s delay,” but the courts will find a violation of this requirement when an office cannot show that the time taken was reasonable. The following are factors may contribute to the calculation of what is “prompt” or “reasonable” in a given circumstance:

Identification of Responsive Records:
- Clarify or revise request;
- Identify records.

Location & Retrieval:
- Locate records and retrieve from storage location, e.g., file cabinet, branch office, off-site storage facility.

requester. The cost of employee time cannot be included in the cost of copies or delivery. One appellate court has held that a public office may choose to employ the services, and charge the requester the costs of, a private contractor to copy public records so long as the decision to do so is reasonable.

When a statute sets the cost of certain records or for certain requesters, the specific takes precedence over the general, and the requester must pay the cost set by the statute. For example, because R.C. 2301.24 requires that parties to a common pleas court action must pay court reporters the compensation rate set by the judges for court transcripts, a requester who is a party to the action may not use R.C. 149.43(B)(1) to obtain copies of the transcript at the actual cost of duplication. However, where a statute sets a fee for certified copies of an otherwise public record, and the requester does not request that the copies be certified, the office may only charge actual cost. There is no obligation to provide free copies to someone who indicates an inability or unwillingness to pay for requested records. The Ohio Public Records Act does not require that a public office allow those seeking a copy of the public record to make copies with their own equipment, nor does it prohibit the public office from allowing this.

6. Clarifying the Request
A public office must interpret the Ohio Public Records Act broadly in favor of disclosure. However, a requester must first describe the records he or she seeks with reasonable clarity so that the public office can identify responsive records based on the manner in which it ordinarily and accesses the public records it keeps. A public office is not required to produce records when the underlying request is ambiguous or overly broad.

When a request lacks the details the office needs to identify where to look for responsive materials, or seeks what amounts to a complete duplication of the office’s files, the Public Records Act promotes cooperation to produce a successful, revised request.

a. Mandatory Clarification in Response to Ambiguous or Overly Broad Request
The Ohio Public Records Act allows a public office to deny any overly broad or ambiguous records request. However, the public office is required to give the requester the opportunity to revise the request by explaining how it ordinarily maintains and accesses the records it keeps. The office’s records retention schedules can be a helpful starting point, because they categorize records based on how they are used and the purpose they serve.

Although a public office has a duty to facilitate broader access to public records by organizing and maintaining them so they are available for inspection or copying, using an organizational system different than, and inconsistent with, a given request does not mean that the public office has violated this duty. At least one court has held that the primary concern of a retrieval system is to accommodate the mission of the office, and that providing reasonable access for citizens is only secondary. For instance, if a person requests copies of all police service calls for a particular geographical area identified by street names, but the computer program cannot identify calls based on street names, the request does not match the method of retrieval and is not one that the office has a duty to fulfill. However, the office is mandated by R.C.149.43(B)(2) to enable revision of the request so it better comports with the organizational approach the office utilizes.

What is An Ambiguous or Overly Broad Request?

An ambiguous request is one that lacks the clarity a public office needs to ascertain what the requestor is seeking and where to look for records that might be responsive. The wording may be vague or subject to interpretation.

An overly broad request is one that is so inclusive that the public office is unable to identify the records sought based on the manner in which it routinely organizes and keeps records. Public records requests that are worded like legal discovery requests—for example, a request for "any and all" records that document a particular activity of the office or of a particular employee—are often overly broad for purposes of the Public Records Act because they lack the detail the office needs to identify what might be responsive. Examples of overly broad requests include requests for:

- All records containing particular names or words
- Any and all records kept by the office, including but not limited to, those having to do with a particular topic
- Every report filed with the public office for a particular time period (if the office does not organize records in that manner)

b. Optional Negotiation When Identity, Purpose, or Request in Writing Would Assist Identifying, Locating, or Delivering Requested Records

As noted elsewhere, a requester cannot be required to make a request in writing, or to reveal his or her identity and/or reasons for requesting records. In fact, requiring the requester to disclose identity or intended use constitutes a denial of the request. However, in the event that a public office believes that either a written request, the intended use of the information, or the requester's identity would benefit the requester by enhancing the ability of the public office to identify, locate, or deliver the requested records, the public office may inform the requester that giving this information is not mandatory, and then ask if they are willing to provide the requested information to assist the public office in fulfilling the request.142

7. Duty to Withhold Certain Records

Records subject to a mandatory, “must not release” exception to the Public Records Act must be withheld by the public office in response to a public records request. (See Chapter Three, Section A. Categories of Exceptions - 1. “Must Not Release.”)

8. Option to Withhold or Release Certain Records

Records subject to a discretionary exception give the public office the option to either withhold or release the record subject to that exception. (See Chapter Three, Section A. Categories of Exceptions – 2. “May Release, But May Choose to Withhold.”)

9. No Duty to Release Non-Records

The public office need not disclose or create items that are “non-records” or non-existent. A public office is not required to create new records to respond to a public records request, even if it is only a matter of compiling information from existing records.143 For example, if a person asks a public office for a list of cases pending against it, but the office does not keep such a list, the public office is under no duty to create a list to respond to the request.144 Nor must the office conduct a search for and retrieve records that contain described information that is of interest to the requester.145 As noted in Chapter One, there is no obligation to produce records that do not document the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, operations, or other activities of the office.146 In short, an item must document something that the office does.147 The Ohio Supreme Court expressly rejected the notion that an item is a “record” simply because the public office could use the item to carry out its duties and responsibilities.148 Instead, the public office must actually use the item; otherwise it is not a record.149 The Public Records Act does not restrict a public office from releasing non-records, but other laws may affect the confidentiality of non-records.150

10. Denial of a Request, Redaction, and a Public Office’s Duties of Notice

Both the withholding of an entire record and the redaction of any part of a record are considered a denial of the request to inspect or copy that particular item.151 Any requirement by the public office that the requester disclose the requester’s identity or the intended use of the requested public record also constitutes a denial of the request.

a. Redaction – Statutory Definition

“Redaction” means obscuring or deleting any information that is exempt from the duty to permit public inspection or copying from an item that otherwise meets the definition of a “record.”

For records on paper, redaction is the blacking or whiting out of non-public information in an otherwise public document. Audio, video, and other electronic records may be redacted by analogous technical processes that obscure or delete specific content. “If a public record contains information that is exempt from the duty to permit public inspection or to copy the public record, the public office or the person responsible for the public record shall make available all of the information within the public record that is not exempt.” Therefore, only that part of a record subject to an exception or other valid basis for withholding may be redacted. However, where excepted information is inextricably intertwined with the entire content of a particular record such that redaction cannot protect the excepted information, the entire record may be withheld.

A redaction will be considered to be a denial of a request to inspect or copy the redacted information, except if a federal or state law authorizes or requires the public office to make the redaction.

b. Requirement to Notify of and Explain Redactions and Withholding of Records

In 2007, the General Assembly amended the Ohio Public Records Act to require public offices to either “notify the requester of any redaction or make the redaction plainly visible.” In addition, if a request is denied, in part or in whole, the public office must “provide the requester with an explanation, including legal authority, setting forth why the request was denied.” If the initial request was made in writing, the explanation for the denial also must be provided in writing.

c. No Obligation to Respond to Duplicate Request

Where a public office denies a request, and the requester sends a follow-up letter reiterating a request for essentially the same records, the public office is not required to provide an additional response.

d. No Waiver of Unasserted Exceptions

If the requester later files a mandamus action against the public office, the public office is not limited to the explanation(s) previously given for denial, but may rely on additional reasons or legal authority in defending the mandamus action.
11. Burden or Expense of Compliance

A public office cannot deny or delay response to a public records request on the grounds that responding will interfere with the operation of the public office. However, when a request unreasonably interferes with the discharge of the public office’s duties, the office may not be obligated to comply. For example, a requester does not have the right to the complete duplication of voluminous files of a public office.

12. Other Rights and Obligations of Public Offices

A public records request may be made by any person, not just a citizen of Ohio. The requester is not generally required to give his or her identity, intended use of the information, or make the request in writing. If the request is oral, it is recommended that the recipient write down the details of and confirm them with the requester. The public office must provide requested records in any of the following media specified by the requester: (a) paper, (b) the same medium on which the public office keeps the record, or (c) any other medium on which the record can reasonably be duplicated “as an integral part of the normal operations of the public office.” The public office must also transmit requested copies to a requester by any available requested means of delivery or transmission, but the public office may require the requester to pay the cost of the selected means in advance. (See Chapter Two, Section B. Rights and Obligations of a Public Office.)

C. Statutes That Modify General Rights and Duties

The General Assembly can change the preceding rights and duties for particular records, for particular public offices, for particular requesters, or in specific situations. Be aware that the general rules of public records law may be modified in a variety and combination of ways. Below are a few examples of modifications to the general rule.

1. Particular Records

(a) Although most DNA records kept by the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation (BCI&I) are protected by exceptions, Ohio law requires that the results of DNA testing of an inmate who obtains post-conviction testing must be disclosed to any requester, which would include results of testing conducted by BCI&I.

(b) Certain Ohio sex offender records must be posted on a public website, without waiting for an individual public records request.

(c) Ohio law specifies that a public office’s release of an “infrastructure record” or “security record” to a private business for certain purposes does not waive these

Andrews (1976), 48 Ohio St.2d 283 (“[n]o pleading of too much expense, or too much time involved, or too much interference with normal duties, can be used by the [public office] to evade the public’s right to inspect and obtain a copy of public records within a reasonable amount of time.”).

163 State ex rel. Warren Newspapers, Inc. v. Hutson, 70 Ohio St.3d 619, 623, 1994-Ohio-5 (“unreasonable[ly] interfere[nce] with the discharge of the duties of the officer having custody” of public records creates an exception to the rule that public records should be generally available to the public). (d) Journalists may inspect, but not copy, some of the records to which they have special access, despite the general right to choose either inspection or copies.\textsuperscript{171}

2. Particular Public Offices

(a) The Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles is authorized to charge a non-refundable fee of four dollars for each highway patrol accident report for which it receives a request,\textsuperscript{172} and a coroner’s office may charge a record retrieval and copying fee of twenty-five cents per page, with a minimum charge of one dollar,\textsuperscript{173} despite the general requirement that a public office may only charge the “actual cost” of copies.\textsuperscript{174}

(b) Ohio’s courts are not subject to the Ohio Public Records Act. Rather, courts apply the records access rules of the Ohio Supreme Court Rules of Superintendence.\textsuperscript{175}

3. Particular Requesters or Purposes

(a) Directory information concerning public school students may not be released if the intended use is for a profit-making plan or activity.\textsuperscript{176}

(b) Journalists, commercial requesters, and incarcerated persons are subject to combinations of modified rights and obligations, discussed below.

4. Modified Records Access by Certain Requesters

The rights and obligations of the following requesters differ from those generally provided by the Ohio Public Records Act. The intended use of the records, or motive behind the request, may be relevant. Also, the requester may be required to provide more information or make his or her request in a specific fashion. Some requesters are given greater access to records than other persons, and some are more restricted. These are only examples. Changes to the law are constantly occurring, so be sure to check for any current law modifying access to the particular public records with which you are concerned.

a. Prison inmates

Prison inmates may request public records,\textsuperscript{177} but they are limited to a statutorily mandated process if requesting any public record concerning a criminal investigation or prosecution or a juvenile delinquency investigation that otherwise would be a criminal investigation or prosecution if the subject were an adult.\textsuperscript{178} The criminal investigation records that may be requested by an inmate using this process are broader than those defined under the Confidential Law Enforcement Investigatory Records (CLEIRs) exception, and include offense and incident reports. A public office is not required to produce such records in response to an inmate request unless the inmate obtains a finding from the judge who sentenced or otherwise adjudicated the inmate’s case that the information sought is necessary to support what appears to be a justiciable claim. The inmate’s request must be filed in the original criminal action against the inmate, not in a separate, subsequent forfeiture action involving the inmate. Unless an inmate requesting public records concerning a criminal prosecution has first followed these requirements, any suit to enforce his or her request will be dismissed. The appropriate remedy for an inmate to seek if he or she follows these requirements is an appeal of the sentencing judge’s findings, not a mandamus action. Any public records that were obtained by a litigant prior to the ruling in Steckman v. Jackson are not excluded for use in the litigant’s post-conviction proceedings.

b. Commercial Requesters

Unless a specific statute provides otherwise, it is irrelevant whether the intended use of requested records is for commercial purposes. However, if an individual or entity is making public records requests for commercial purposes, the public office receiving the requests can limit the number of records “that the office will transmit by United States mail to ten per month.”

While the Revised Code does not specifically define “commercial purposes” it does require that the term be narrowly construed, and lists specific activities excluded from the definition:

- Reporting or gathering news;
- Reporting or gathering information to assist citizen oversight or understanding of the operation or activities of government; or
- Nonprofit educational research.

c. Journalists

Several statutes grant “journalists” enhanced access to certain records that are not available to other requesters. This enhanced access is sometimes conditioned on the journalist providing information or representations not normally required of a requester.

187 R.C. 149.43(B)(7) (unless the person certifies to the office in writing that the person does not intend to use or forward the requested records, or the information contained in them, for commercial purposes”). NOTE: The limit only applies to requested transmission “by United States mail.”
188 The statute does not contain a general definition of “commercial purposes” but does define “commercial” in the context of requests to the Bureau of Motor Vehicles. There, “commercial” is defined as “profit-seeking production, buying, or selling of any good, service, or other product.” R.C. 149.43(F)(2)(c).
189 R.C. 149.43(B)(7).
190 R.C. 149.43(B)(9) states: “As used in [division (B) of R.C. 149.43], “journalist” means a person engaged in, connected with, or employed by any news medium, including a newspaper, magazine, press association, news agency, or wire service, a radio or television station, or a similar medium, for the purpose of gathering, processing, transmitting, compiling, editing, or disseminating information for the general public.”
For example, a journalist may obtain the actual residential address of a peace officer, parole officer, assistant prosecuting attorney, correctional employee, youth services employee, firefighter, or EMT, whereas other members of the public may not. If the individual’s spouse, former spouse, or child is employed by a public office, a journalist may obtain the name and address of that spouse or child’s employer in this manner, as well. 191

In order to obtain this information, however, the journalist must:

i) Make the request in writing;
ii) Identify himself or herself by name, title, and employer’s name and address; and
iii) State that disclosure of the information sought would be in the public interest, and sign the request. 192

5. Modified Access to Certain Public Offices’ Records

As with requesters, the rights and obligations of public offices can be modified by law. Some of these modifications include conditions on obtaining records in volume and permissible charges for copying. The following provisions are only examples. The law is subject to change, so be sure to check for any current law modifying access to the particular public records with which you are concerned.

a. Bulk Commercial Requests from Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles

“The bureau of motor vehicles may adopt rules pursuant to Chapter 119 of the Revised Code to reasonably limit the number of bulk commercial special extraction requests made by a person for the same records or for updated records during a calendar year. The rules may include provisions for charges to be made for bulk commercial special extraction requests for the actual cost of the bureau, plus special extraction costs, plus ten percent. The bureau may charge for expenses for redacting information, the release of which is prohibited by law.”193 The statute sets out definitions of “actual cost,” “bulk commercial extraction request,” “commercial,” “special extraction costs,” and “surveys, marketing, solicitation, or resale for commercial purposes.”194

b. Copies of Coroner’s Records

Generally, all records of a coroner’s office are public records subject to inspection by the public.195 A coroner’s office may provide copies to a requester upon a written request and payment by the requester of a retrieval and copying fee, at the rate of twenty-five cents per page or a minimum fee of one dollar.196 However, the following are not public records: preliminary autopsy and investigative notes and findings; photographs of a decedent made by the coroner’s office; suicide notes; medical and psychological records of the decedent provided to the coroner; records of a deceased individual that are party of a confidential enforcement investigatory record; and laboratory reports generated from analysis of physical evidence by the coroner’s laboratory that is discoverable under Criminal Rule 16.197 The following three classes of requesters may request the full coroner’s report, including the above materials that are otherwise excepted, pursuant to the guidelines in R.C. § 313.10(C)-(E): (1) next of kin of the decedent or the representative of the decedent’s estate; (2) journalists; and (3) insurers. Next of kin and insurers are able to request copies of the coroner’s full and complete record of the decedent.198 Journalists may only view the materials otherwise excluded from public records but may not make copies of materials.199 The coroner may contact decedent’s next of kin if a journalist or insurer has made a request pursuant to R.C. § 313.10(D), (E).200

III. Chapter Three: Exceptions to the Required Release of Public Records

While the Ohio Public Records Act presumes and favors public access to government records, the General Assembly has created exceptions to protect certain records from mandatory release. The Ohio Public Records Act does not define categories of exceptions, but the following guide may be useful in handling public records requests.

A. Categories of Exceptions

There are two types of exceptions, and they are almost always created by state or federal statutes or codes.

1. “Must Not Release”

The first type of exception prohibits a public office from releasing specific records or information to the public. Such records are prohibited from release in response to a public records request, often under civil or criminal penalty, and the public office has no choice but to deny the request. These mandatory restrictions are expressly included as exceptions to the Ohio Public Records Act by what is referred to as the “catch-all” exception in R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(v): “records the release of which is prohibited by state or federal law.” These laws can include constitutional provisions, statutes, common law, or authorized state or federal administrative codes. Local ordinances, however, cannot create public records exceptions.

A few “must not release” exceptions apply to public offices on behalf of, and subject to the decisions of, another person. For example, a public legal or medical office may be restricted by the attorney-client or physician-patient privileges from releasing certain records of their clients or patients. In such cases, if the client or patient chooses to waive the privilege, the public office would be released from the otherwise mandatory exception.

2. “May Release, But May Choose to Withhold”

The other type of exception is discretionary and gives a public office the choice of either withholding or releasing specific records often by excluding certain records from the definition of public records. This means that the public office does not have to disclose these records in response to a public records request; however, it may do so if it chooses without fear of punishment under the law. Such provisions, usually state or federal statutes, are sometimes referred to as “discretionary exceptions.” Some laws contain ambiguous titles or text such as “confidential” or “private,” but the test for public records purposes is whether a particular law applied to a particular requester actually prohibits release of a record or gives the public office the choice to withhold the record.

For purposes of this section only the term “exception” will be used to describe laws authorizing the withholding of records from public records requests. The term “exemption” is often used in this field, apparently interchangeably.

State ex rel. Lindsay v. Dwyer (10th Dist. 1996), 108 Ohio App.3d 462, 467 (STRS properly denied access to beneficiary form pursuant to Ohio Administrative Code); 2000 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 036 (federal regulation prohibits release of service member’s discharge certificate without service member’s written consent). But, compare, State ex rel. Gallon & Takacs Co. v. Conrad (10th Dist. 1997), 123 Ohio App.3d 554, 561 (if regulation was promulgated outside of agency’s statutory authority, the invalid rule will not constitute an exception to the public records act).

State ex rel. Nix v. City of Cleveland, 83 Ohio St.3d 379, 1998-Ohio-290.

See, State ex rel. Dreamer v. Mason, 115 Ohio St.3d 190, 2007-Ohio-4789 (illuminates the interplay of attorney-client privilege, waiver, public records law, and criminal discovery).

2000 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 021 (“R.C. 149.43 does not expressly prohibit the disclosure of items that are excluded from the definition of public record, but merely provides that their disclosure is not mandated.”); see also, 2001 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 041.
B. Multiple and Mixed Exceptions

Many records are subject to more than one exception. Some may be subject to both a discretionary exception (giving the public office the option to withhold), as well as a mandatory exception (which prohibits release), so it is important for public offices to find all exceptions that apply to a particular record, rather than acting on the first one that is found to apply.

C. Waiver of an Exception

If a valid exception applies to a particular record, but the public office discloses it anyway, the office is deemed to have waived (abandoned) that exception for that particular record, especially if the disclosure was to a person whose interests are antagonistic to those of the public office. However, “waiver does not necessarily occur when the public office that possesses the information makes limited disclosures [to other public officials] to carry out its business.” Under such circumstances, the information has never been disclosed to the public.

D. Applying Exceptions

In Ohio, the records of a public office belong to the people, not to the government officials holding them. Accordingly, the public records law must be liberally interpreted in favor of disclosure, and any exceptions in the law that permit certain types of records to be withheld from disclosure must be narrowly construed. The public office has the burden of establishing that an exception applies, and does not meet that burden if it has not proven that the requested records fall squarely within the exception. The Ohio Supreme Court has stated that “in enumerating very narrow, specific exceptions to the public records statute, the General Assembly has already weighed and balanced the competing public policy considerations between the public’s right to know how its state agencies make decisions and the potential harm, inconvenience or burden imposed on the agency by disclosure.”

A “well-settled principle of statutory construction [is] that when two statutes, one general and the other special, cover the same subject matter, the special provision is to be construed as an exception to the general statute which might otherwise apply.” Accordingly, where a statute permits a court to designate a fee, parties to an action must pay the court reporter for copies of court transcripts even though it may be in excess of the court’s “actual cost” to duplicate that record.\textsuperscript{219} (See Chapter Two: C. Statutes That Modify General Rights and Duties)

Carr v. City of Akron, 112 Ohio St.3d 351, 2006-Ohio-6714, at ¶30 (“Insofar as Akron asserts that some of the requested records fall within certain exceptions to disclosure under R.C. 149.43, we strictly construe exceptions against the public records custodian, and the custodian has the burden to establish the applicability of an exception.”).

217 State ex rel. James v. Ohio State Univ., 70 Ohio St.3d 168, 172, 1994-Ohio-246; Note: The Ohio Supreme Court has not authorized courts or other records custodians to create new exceptions to R.C. 149.43 based on a balancing of interests or generalized privacy concerns. State ex rel. WBNS TV, Inc. v. Dues, 101 Ohio St.3d 406, 2004-Ohio-1497, at ¶31.

Another rule of construction courts often apply when interpreting a statute is the maxim \textit{expressio unius est exclusio alterius} - “the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another.”\textsuperscript{220} Applying this maxim would mean that if a statute expressly states that particular records of a public office are public, the remaining records would not be public. However, Ohio’s Supreme Court has clearly stated that just the opposite is true: if a statute expressly states that specific records of a public office are public, it does not mean that all other records of that office are not public, i.e., that the other records are exempt from disclosure.\textsuperscript{221}

Simply put, if a record does not clearly fit into one of the exceptions listed by the General Assembly, and is not otherwise prohibited from disclosure by other state or federal law, it must be disclosed.

\textit{E. Exceptions Enumerated in the Public Records Act}

The Ohio Public Records Act contains a list of records and types of information removed from the definition of “public records.”\textsuperscript{222} The full text of those exceptions appears in R.C. 149.43(A)(1), a copy of which is included in Appendix A. Here, these exceptions (a-aa) are addressed in brief summaries. Note that although the language removing a record from the definition of “public records” gives the public office the choice of withholding or releasing the record, many of these records are further subject to other statutes that prohibit their release.\textsuperscript{223}

\begin{itemize}
  \item [(a)] Medical records, which are defined as any document or combination of documents that:
  \begin{itemize}
    \item 1) pertain to a patient’s medical history, diagnosis, prognosis, or medical condition, \item and
    \item 2) were generated and maintained in the process of medical treatment.\textsuperscript{224}
  \end{itemize}
  Records meeting this definition need not be disclosed.\textsuperscript{225} Birth, death, and hospital admission or discharge records are not considered medical records for purposes of Ohio’s public records law.\textsuperscript{226} Reports generated for reasons other than medical diagnosis or treatment, such as for employment or litigation purposes, are not “medical records” exempt from disclosure under the Public Records Act.\textsuperscript{227} However, other statutes or federal constitutional rights may prohibit disclosure,\textsuperscript{228} in which case the records or information are not public records under the “catch-all exception,” R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(v).

(b) Records pertaining to probation and parole proceedings or proceedings related to the imposition of community control sanctions and post-release control sanctions. Examples of records covered by this exception include:

- Pre-sentence investigation reports;
- Records relied on to compile a pre-sentence investigation report;
- Documents reviewed by the Parole Board in preparation for a parole hearing; and
- Records of parole proceedings.

(c) All records associated with the statutory process through which minors may obtain judicial approval for abortion procedures in lieu of parental consent. This exception includes records from both trial and appellate-level proceedings.

(d), (e), and (f): These three exceptions all relate to the confidentiality of adoption proceedings. Documents removed from the definition of “public record” include:

- Records pertaining to adoption proceedings;
- Contents of an adoption file maintained by the Department of Health;
- A putative father registry; and
- An original birth record after a new birth record has been issued.

In limited circumstances, release of adoption records and proceedings may be appropriate. For example:

- The Department of Job and Family Services may release a putative father’s registration form to the mother of the minor or to the agency or attorney who is attempting to arrange the minor’s adoption.
- Non-identifying social and medical histories may be released to an adopted person who has reached majority or to the adoptive parents of a minor.
- An adult adopted person may be entitled to the release of identifying information or access to his or her adoption file.

(g) Trial preparation records: “trial preparation record,” for the purposes of the Ohio Public Records Act, is defined as “any record that contains information that is specifically compiled in reasonable anticipation of, or in defense of, a civil or criminal action or proceeding, including the independent thought processes and personal trial preparation of an attorney.”

Documents that a public office obtains through discovery during litigation are considered trial preparation records. In addition, material compiled for a public attorney’s personal trial preparation constitutes a trial preparation record. The trial preparation exception does not apply to settlement agreements or settlement proposals.

(h) Confidential Law Enforcement Investigatory Records: CLEIRs are defined as records that (1) pertain to a law enforcement matter, and (2) have a high probability of disclosing any of the following:

- The identity of an uncharged suspect;
- The identity of an information source or witness to whom confidentiality has been “reasonably promised”;
- Information that would tend to reveal the identity of a source or witness, where the source or witness was “reasonably promised” confidentiality;
- Specific confidential investigatory techniques or procedures or specific investigatory work product; or
- Information that would endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel, a crime victim, a witness, or a confidential information source.

(i) Records containing confidential “mediation communications” (R.C. 2710.03) or records relating to the Ohio Civil Rights Commission’s discrimination complaint, investigation, and conciliation process (R.C. 4112.03).

(j) DNA records stored in the state DNA database pursuant to R.C. 109.573.

(k) Inmate records released by the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction to the Department of Youth Services or a court of record pursuant to R.C. 5120.21(E).

(l) Records of the Department of Youth Services (DYS) regarding children in its custody that are released to the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction (DRC) for the limited purpose of carrying out the duties of the DRC.

(m) Intellectual property records; while this exception sounds broad on its face, it has a specific definition for the purposes of the Ohio Public Records Act, and is limited to those records that are produced or collected: (1) by or for state university faculty or staff; (2) in relation to studies or research on an educational, commercial, scientific, artistic, technical, or scholarly issue; and (3) which have not been publicly released, published, or patented.
(n) Donor profile records. Similar to the intellectual property exception, the "donor profile records" exception is given a specific, limited definition for the purposes of the Public Records Act. First, it only applies to records about donors or potential donors to public colleges and universities. Second, the names and reported addresses of all donors and the date, amount, and condition of their donation(s), are all public information. The exception applies to all other donor or potential donor records.

(o) Records maintained by the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services on statutory employer reports of new hires.

(p) Peace officer, parole officer, prosecuting attorney, assistant prosecuting attorney, correctional employee, youth services employee, firefighter, EMT or investigator of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation residential and familial information.

(q) Trade secrets of certain county and municipal hospitals: “Trade secrets” are defined at R.C. 1333.61(D), the definitional section of Ohio’s Uniform Trade Secrets Act.

(r) Information pertaining to the recreational activities of a person under the age of eighteen. This includes any information that would reveal the person’s:

- Address or telephone number, or that of person’s guardian, custodian, or emergency contact person;
- Social Security Number, birth date, or photographic image;
- Medical records, history, or information; or
- Information sought or required for the purpose of allowing that person to participate in any recreational activity conducted or sponsored by a public office or obtain admission privileges to any recreational facility owned or operated by a public office.

(s) Listed records of a child fatality review board (except for the annual reports the boards are required by statute to submit to the Ohio Department of Health). The listed records are also prohibited from unauthorized release by R.C. 307.629(B).

(t) Records and information provided to the executive director of a public children services agency or prosecutor regarding the death of a minor from possible abuse, neglect, or other criminal conduct. Some of these records are prohibited from release to the public. Others may become public depending on the circumstances.

(u) Nursing home administrator licensing test materials, examinations, or evaluation tools.

(v) Records the release of which is prohibited by state or federal law; this is often called the catch-all exception. Although state and federal statutes can create both mandatory and discretionary exceptions by themselves, this provision also incorporates as exceptions by reference any statutes or administrative code that prohibit the release of specific records. An agency rule designating particular records as confidential that is properly promulgated by a state or federal agency will constitute a valid catch-all exception because such rules have the effect of law.
The Ohio Public Records Act
Chapter Three: Exceptions to the Required Release of Public Records

But, if the rule was promulgated outside the authority statutorily granted to the agency, the rule is not valid and will not constitute an exception to disclosure.263

(w) Proprietary information of or relating to any person that is submitted to or compiled by the Ohio Venture Capital Authority. 264

(x) All information and evaluations regarding the preparedness and capacity of trauma centers “to respond to disasters, mass casualties, and bioterrorism.”265

(y) Financial statements and data any person submits for any purpose to the Ohio Housing Finance Agency or the Controlling Board in connection with applying for, receiving, or accounting for financial assistance from the agency, and information that identifies any individual who benefits directly or indirectly from financial assistance from the agency.

(z) Records and information relating to foster caregivers and children housed in foster care, as well as children enrolled in licensed, certified, or registered child care centers. This exception applies only to records held by county agencies or the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services.266

(aa) Military discharges recorded with a county recorder.267

F. Exceptions Affecting Personal Privacy

Ohio has no general privacy law comparable to the federal Privacy Act.268 Accordingly, there is no general “privacy exception” to the Ohio Public Records Act. However, a public office is obligated to protect certain non-public record personal information from unauthorized dissemination.269 Though many of the exceptions to the Public Records Act apply to information people would consider “private,” this section focuses specifically on records and information that are protected by: (1) the right to privacy found in the United States Constitution; (2) House Bill 46, a recently-passed Ohio law designed to protect personal information on the internet; and (3) Ohio’s Personal Information Systems Act, Chapter 1347 of the Ohio Revised Code.”

1. Constitutional Right to Privacy

The U.S. Supreme Court recognizes a constitutional right to informational privacy under the Fourteenth Amendment’s Due Process Clause. This right protects people’s “interest in avoiding divulgence of highly personal information,”270 but must be balanced against the public interest in the information.271 Such information cannot be disclosed unless disclosure “narrowly serves a compelling state interest.”272

In Ohio, the U.S Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit has limited this right to informational privacy to interests that “are of constitutional dimension,” that are considered “fundamental rights” or rights implicit in the concept of ordered liberty.” That is, the consequence of disclosure must implicate some other right protected by the Constitution.

In the Sixth Circuit case of Kallstrom v. City of Columbus, several police officers sued the city for releasing their unredacted personnel files to an attorney for members of a criminal gang whom the officers had investigated and were testifying against in a major drug case. The personnel files contained the officers’ and their family members’ addresses and phone numbers, as well as banking information, Social Security Numbers, and photo IDs. The Court held that, because release of the information could lead to the gang members causing the officers bodily harm, the officers’ fundamental constitutional rights to personal security and bodily integrity were at stake. The Court also described this constitutional right as a person’s “interest in preserving [one’s] life.” The Court then found that the Ohio Public Records Act did not require release of the files in this manner, because the disclosure did not “narrowly [serve] the state’s interest in ensuring accountable government.”

Based on the Sixth Circuit’s holding in Kallstrom, the Ohio Supreme Court subsequently held that police officers have a constitutional right to privacy in the officers’ personal information that could be used by defendants in a criminal case to “achieve nefarious ends.” The Ohio Supreme Court has also suggested that the constitutional right to privacy would come into play where “release of personal information [would create] an unacceptable risk that a child could be victimized.”

In another Sixth Circuit case, a county sheriff held a press conference “to release the confidential and highly personal details” of a rape. The Sixth Circuit held that a rape victim has a “fundamental right of privacy in preventing government officials from gratuitously and unnecessarily releasing the intimate details of the rape,” where release of the information served no penalogical purpose. The Court indicated that release of some of the details may have been justifiable if the disclosure would have served “any specific law enforcement purpose,” including apprehending the suspect, but no such justification was offered in this case.

Neither the Ohio Supreme Court nor the Sixth Circuit have applied the constitutional right to privacy broadly. Public offices and individuals should thus be aware of this potential protection, but know that it is limited to circumstances involving fundamental rights, and that most personal information is not protected by it.

2. Personal Information Listed Online

A 2008 law, R.C. 149.45, requires public offices to redact, and permits certain individuals to request redaction of, specific personal information from any records made available to the general public on the internet. A person must make this request in writing on a form developed by the Attorney General, specifying the information to be redacted and providing any information that identifies the location of that personal information.\textsuperscript{286} In addition to the right of all persons to request the redaction of personal information defined above, persons in certain covered professions can also request the redaction of their actual residential address from any records made available by public offices to the general public on the internet.\textsuperscript{287} When a public office receives a request for redaction, it must act in accordance with the request within five business days, if practicable.\textsuperscript{288} If the public office determines that redaction is not practicable, it must explain to the individual why the redaction is impracticable within five business days.\textsuperscript{289}

R.C. 149.45 separately requires all public offices to redact, encrypt, or truncate the Social Security Numbers of individuals from any documents made available to the general public on the internet.\textsuperscript{290} If a public office becomes aware that an individual’s Social Security Number was not redacted, the office must redact the Social Security Number within a reasonable period of time.\textsuperscript{291}

The statute provides that a public office is not liable in a civil action for any alleged harm as a result of the failure to redact personal information or addresses on records made available on the internet to the general public, unless the office acted with a malicious purpose, in bad faith, or in a wanton or reckless manner.\textsuperscript{292}

In addition to the protections listed above, R.C. 319.28 allows a covered professional\textsuperscript{293} to submit a request, by affidavit, to remove his or her name from the general tax list of real and public utility property and insert initials instead.\textsuperscript{294} Upon receiving such a request, the county auditor shall act within five days in accordance with the request.\textsuperscript{295} If removal is not possible, the auditor’s office must explain why the removal and insertion is impracticable.\textsuperscript{296}

3. Ohio Personal Information Systems Act (PISA)\textsuperscript{297}

“Personal information” covered by PISA includes:

A personal information “system” is:

1. Any collection or group of related records that are kept in an organized manner and maintained by a state or local agency; and

2. from which personal information is retrieved by the name of the person or by some identifying number, symbol, or other identifier assigned to the person; including,

3. records that are stored manually and electronically. 300

The following are not “systems” for purposes of the PISA:

- Collected archival records in the custody of or administered under the authority of the Ohio Historical Society;
- Published directories, reference materials or newsletters; or
- Routine information that is maintained for the purpose of internal office administration, the use of which would not adversely affect a person. 301

PISA applies to those items to which the Ohio Public Records Act does not apply; that is, records that have been determined to be non-public, and items and information that are not “records” as defined by the Ohio Public Records Act. 302 The General Assembly has made clear that PISA is not designed to deprive the public of otherwise public information by incorporating the following provisions with respect to the Ohio Public Records and Open Meetings Acts:

- The provisions of this chapter shall not be construed to prohibit the release of public records, or the disclosure of personal information in public records, as defined in [the Ohio Public Records Act], or to authorize a public body to hold an executive session for the discussion of personal information if the executive session is not authorized under division (G) of [the Ohio Open Meetings Act]. 303

- The disclosure to members of the general public of personal information contained in a public record, as defined in section 149.43 of the Revised Code, is not an improper use of personal information under this chapter. 304

- As used in the Personal Information Systems Act, “confidential personal information” means personal information that is not a public record for purposes of [the Ohio Public Records Act]. 305

PISA generally requires accurate maintenance and prompt deletion of unnecessary personal information from “personal information systems” maintained by public offices, and protects personal information from unauthorized dissemination. 306 Based on provisions added to the law in 2009, state agencies 307 must adopt rules under Chapter 119 of the Revised Code regulating access to the confidential personal information the agency keeps, whether electronically or on paper. 308 No person shall knowingly access “confidential personal information” in violation of these rules, 309 and no person shall knowingly use or disclose “confidential personal information” in a manner prohibited by law. A state agency may not employ persons who have violated access, use, or disclosure laws regarding confidential personal information. In general, state and local agencies must “[t]ake reasonable precautions to protect personal information in the system from unauthorized modification, destruction, use, or disclosure.”

Sanctions for violations of PISA

The enforcement provisions of PISA can include injunctive relief, civil damages, and/or criminal penalties, depending on the nature of the violation(s).

Note: Because PISA concerns the treatment of non-records and non-public records, it is not set out in great detail in this Sunshine Law manual. Public offices can find more detailed guidance on implementing the provision of PISA concerning limitations on access to confidential personal information at http://privacy.ohio.gov/government, under the heading “ORC 1347.15 Guidance.”
Public offices should also consult with their legal counsel.

G. Exceptions Created by Other Laws (by Topic)

1. Attorney-Client Privilege, Discovery, and Other Litigation Items
   a. Attorney-Client Privilege

“The attorney-client privilege is one of the oldest recognized privileges for confidential communications.” Attorney-client privileged records and information must not be revealed without the client’s waiver. Such records are thus prohibited from release by both state and federal law for purposes of the catch-all exception to the Ohio Public Records Act.

The attorney-client privilege arises whenever legal advice of any kind is sought from a professional legal advisor in his or her capacity as such, and the communications relating to that purpose, made in confidence by the client, are at the client’s instance permanently protected from disclosure by the client or the legal advisor. Records or information within otherwise public records that meet those criteria must be withheld or redacted in order to preserve attorney-client privilege. For example, drafts of proposed bond documents prepared by an attorney are protected by attorney-client privilege, and are not subject to disclosure.

The privilege applies to records of communications between public office clients and their attorneys in the same manner that it does for private clients and their counsel. Communications between a client and his or her attorney’s agent may also be subject to the attorney-client privilege. The privilege also applies to “documents containing communications between members of . . . a represented . . . public entity . . . about the legal advice given.”

b. Criminal Discovery

The Ohio Supreme Court has determined that in a pending criminal proceeding, defendants may only seek records through discovery under the Rules of Criminal Procedure. However, this limitation does not extend to police initial incident reports, which must be made available immediately, even to the defendant.

Before 1994, many criminal defendants were circumventing the discovery process by using the Ohio Public Records Act to obtain more records than they would otherwise have been entitled to receive. This tactic was prohibited in the landmark case of State ex rel. Steckman v. Jackson. The Ohio Supreme Court found that allowing criminal defendants to use the Public Records Act in that manner, among other things, “unleveled” the playing field because prosecutors had no similar right to obtain additional discovery outside the criminal rules. However, when the records requested by criminal defendants are not related to their ongoing criminal case, the discovery limitation does not apply. Such requests must be analyzed in the same manner as any other public records request.

Note that when the prosecutor discloses materials to the defendant pursuant to the rules of criminal procedure, that disclosure does not mean those records automatically become available for public disclosure. The prosecutor does not waive applicable public records exceptions, such as trial preparation records or confidential law enforcement records, simply by complying with discovery rules.

c. Civil Discovery

Unlike in the criminal arena, in pending civil court proceedings, the parties to civil proceedings are not confined to the materials available under the civil rules of discovery. A civil litigant is permitted to use the Ohio Public Records Act in addition to the more restricted limits associated with civil discovery. The nature of a request as either discovery or request for public records will determine available enforcement.

As to the use of these public records as evidence in litigation, the Ohio Rules of Evidence govern. Justice Stratton’s concurring opinion in Gilbert v. Summit County, 104 Ohio St. 3d 660

The Ohio Public Records Act

Chapter Three: Exceptions to the Required Release of Public Records

(2004), noted that “trial courts have discretion to admit or exclude evidence.”

She stated more directly, “trial courts have discretion to impose sanctions for discovery violations, one of which could be exclusion of that evidence,” and concluded that, “even though a party may effectively circumvent a discovery deadline by acquiring a document through a public records request, it is the trial court that ultimately determines whether those records will be admitted in the pending litigation.”

d. Prosecutor and Government Attorney Files (Trial Preparation and Work Product)

R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(g) excepts from release any “trial preparation records,” which are defined as “any record that contains information that is specifically compiled in reasonable anticipation of, or in defense of, a civil or criminal action or proceeding, including the independent thought processes and personal trial preparation of an attorney.” Documents that a public office obtains as a litigant through discovery will ordinarily qualify as “trial preparation records” as would the material compiled for a specific criminal proceeding by a prosecutor or the personal trial preparation by a public attorney. Attorney trial notes and legal research are “trial preparation records,” which may be withheld from disclosure. Virtually everything in a prosecutor’s file during an active prosecution is either material compiled in anticipation of a specific criminal proceeding or personal trial preparation of the prosecutor, and is therefore exempt from public disclosure as “trial preparation” material. However, unquestionably non-exempt materials do not transform into “trial preparation records” simply by virtue of being held in a prosecutor’s file. For example, routine offense and incident reports are subject to release while a criminal case is active, including those in the files of the prosecutor.

The common law attorney work product doctrine also protects a broader range of materials that attorney-client privilege. The doctrine provides a qualified privilege, and is incorporated into Rule 26 of the Ohio and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Ohio Civ.R. 26(B)(3) protects material “prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial.” The rule protects the “notes or documents containing the mental impressions, conclusions, opinions, or legal theories of its attorney or other representative concerning the litigation.”

e. Settlement Agreements and Other Contracts

Where a governmental entity is party to a settlement, the trial preparation records exception will not apply to the settlement agreement. But the parties are entitled to redact any information within the settlement agreement that is subject to the attorney-client privilege. Any provision

2. Municipal Income Tax Returns

The issue of whether municipal income tax returns and W-2 federal tax forms are public records comes up frequently. Any information gained as a result of returns, investigations, hearings or verifications is confidential and no person may disclose the information except: (1) in accordance with a judicial order; (2) in the performance of that person’s official duties; or (3) as a part of the official business of the municipal corporation. Information obtained from municipal tax returns is confidential. One Attorney General Opinion found that W-2 federal tax forms prepared and maintained by a township as an employer are public records, but that W-2 forms filed as part of a municipal income tax return are confidential. W-4 forms are confidential pursuant to 26 U.S.C. 6103(b)(2)(A) as “return information,” which includes “data with respect to the determination of the existence of liability (or the amount thereof) of any person for any tax.” Finally, release of municipal income tax information to the Auditor of State is permissible for purposes of facilitating an audit.

3. Trade Secrets

Trade secrets are defined in R.C. 1333.61(D) and include “any information, including . . . any business information or plans, financial information, or listing of names” that:

1. Derives actual or potential independent economic value from not being generally known to, and not being readily ascertainable by proper means by, other persons who can obtain economic value from its disclosure or use;

and

2. Is the subject of efforts that are reasonable under the circumstances to maintain its secrecy.

“An entity claiming trade secret status bears the burden to identify and demonstrate that the material is included in categories of protected information under the statute and additionally must take some active steps to maintain its secrecy.” The Ohio Supreme Court has adopted the following factors in analyzing a trade secret claim: “(1) the extent to which the information is known outside the business; (2) the extent to which it is known to those inside the business, i.e., by the employees; (3) the precautions taken by the holder of the trade secret to guard the secrecy of the information; (4) the savings effected and the value to the holder in having the information as against competitors; (5) the amount of effort or money expended in obtaining and developing the information; and (6) the amount of time and expense it would take for others to acquire and duplicate the information.” The maintenance of secrecy is important, but does not require that the trade secret be completely unknown to the public in its entirety. If parts of the trade secret are in the public domain, but the value

\section{Juvenile Records}

Although it is a common misconception, there is no Ohio law that categorically excludes all juvenile records from public records disclosure.\footnote{State ex rel. Besser v. Ohio St. Univ., 89 Ohio St.3d 535, 543, 2000-Ohio-475 ("Besser I") (finding that a public entity can have its own trade secrets); State ex rel. Lucas County Bd. of Comm’rs v. Besser v. Ohio St. Univ., 87 Ohio St.3d 535, 543, 2000-Ohio-475 ("Besser I") (finding that a public entity can have its own trade secrets); State ex rel. Lucas County Bd. of Comm’rs v. Besser v. Ohio St. Univ., 87 Ohio St.3d 535, 543, 2000-Ohio-475 ("Besser I") (finding that a public entity can have its own trade secrets); State ex rel. Lucas County Bd. of Comm’rs v. Sch., 123 Ohio St.3d 410, 2009-Ohio-4762, at ¶¶ 32-33 (holding that a public school had proven that certain semester examination records met the statutory definition of “trade secret” in R.C. 1333.61(D)).} Thus, law enforcement agencies are not typically permitted by law to redact information about juveniles from their records based simply on the juvenile’s age. Further, most information held by local law enforcement offices may be shared with other law enforcement agencies and local schools.

When analyzing a public records request for juvenile records, a law enforcement agency must evaluate the applicability of the confidential law enforcement investigatory records exception.\footnote{See Chapter Six: A. “CLEIRs.”} In other words, law enforcement agencies should treat the suspect, victim, witness, or source as it would an adult in the same role, e.g., redact a suspect’s identity only if the suspect is “uncharged.”\footnote{R.C. 1990 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 101; see also Juv. R of Civ. Proc. 37(B); but compare State ex rel. Scripps Howard Broadcasting Co. v. Cuyahoga County Ct. of Common Pleas (1995), 73 Ohio St.3d 19, 21-22 (determining that the release of a transcript of a juvenile contempt proceeding was required when proceedings were open to the public).}

Additionally, the office must assess whether any state or federal laws require redaction of some or all information. For instance, one important state law exception applies after a juvenile has been fingerprinted and photographed on the basis of a covered arrest or custody.\footnote{1987 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 101; see also Juv. R of Civ. Proc. 37(B); but compare State ex rel. Scripps Howard Broadcasting Co. v. Cuyahoga County Ct. of Common Pleas (1995), 73 Ohio St.3d 19, 21-22 (determining that the release of a transcript of a juvenile contempt proceeding was required when proceedings were open to the public).} Once that happens, the fingerprints, photographs, and other records relating to the arrest or custody must not be disclosed, except as provided in the governing statute.\footnote{1987 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 101; see also Juv. R of Civ. Proc. 37(B); but compare State ex rel. Scripps Howard Broadcasting Co. v. Cuyahoga County Ct. of Common Pleas (1995), 73 Ohio St.3d 19, 21-22 (determining that the release of a transcript of a juvenile contempt proceeding was required when proceedings were open to the public).}

Another state law pertains to information regarding student drug or alcohol use from the public records of law enforcement agencies.\footnote{See Chapter Six: A. “CLEIRs.”}

An in camera inspection may be necessary to determine if disputed records contain trade secrets.\footnote{R.C. 149.43(A)(2)(a) (stating that “[i]n this section does not apply to a child to whom either of the following applies: (a) The child has been arrested or otherwise taken into custody for committing, or has been adjudicated a delinquent child for committing, an act that would be a felony if committed by an adult or has been convicted of or pleaded guilty to committing a felony. (b) There is probable cause to believe that the child may have committed an act that would be a felony if committed by an adult.”).} Signed non-disclosure agreements do not create trade secret status for otherwise publicly disclosable documents.\footnote{R.C. 2151.313(A)(3) (stating that “[t]his section does not apply to a child to whom either of the following applies: (a) The child has been arrested or otherwise taken into custody for committing, or has been adjudicated a delinquent child for committing, an act that would be a felony if committed by an adult or has been convicted of or pleaded guilty to committing a felony. related to alleged child abuse or neglect. The Ohio Supreme Court has held that the state law protecting the confidentiality of a child abuse report and the information contained therein applies to the records of law enforcement.365

Other examples of state law exceptions to public disclosure of juvenile records include: (1) records of social, mental and physical examinations conducted pursuant to a juvenile court order;370 (2) records held by the Department of Youth Services pertaining to juveniles in its custody;371 (3) reports regarding allegations of child abuse;372 (4) sealed or expunged juvenile records;373 (5) juvenile probation records;374 and (6) certain records of children’s services agencies.375

Federal laws prohibit disclosure of records associated with federal juvenile delinquency proceedings.376 Additionally, these laws restrict the disclosure of fingerprints and photographs of a juvenile found guilty in federal delinquency proceedings of committing a crime that would have been a felony if the juvenile were prosecuted as an adult.377

5. Social Security Numbers378

Social Security Numbers (SSNs) should be redacted before the disclosure of public records, including court records.379 The Ohio Supreme Court has held that while the federal Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. § 552a) does not expressly prohibit release of one’s SSN, the Act does create an expectation of privacy as to the use and disclosure of the SSN.380

Any federal, state, or local government agency that asks individuals to disclose their SSNs must advise the person: (1) whether that disclosure is mandatory or voluntary and, if mandatory, under what authority the SSN is solicited; and (2) what use will be made of it.381 In short, a SSN can only be disclosed if an individual has been given prior notice that the SSN will be publicly available.

Bond, 98 Ohio St.3d 146, 2002-Ohio-7117, at ¶25 (finding that the personal information of jurors was used only to verify identification, not to determine competency to serve on the jury, and SSNs, telephone numbers, driver’s license numbers, may be redacted); State ex rel. Att’y Gen. No. 045 (opining that court files may be redacted to conceal SSNs and other information the release of which would violate constitutional right to privacy; Lambert v. Hartman (6th Cir. 2008), 517 F.3d 433, 445 (determining that, as a policy matter, a clerk of court’s decision to allow public internet access to people’s SSNs was “unwise”).
380 State ex rel. Beacon Journal Publ’g v. City of Akron, 70 Ohio St.3d 605, 607, 1994-Ohio-6 (determining that city employees had an expectation of privacy of their SSNs such that they must be redacted before release of public records to newspapers); compare State ex rel. Cincinnati Enquirer v. Hamilton County, 75 Ohio St.3d 374, 378, 1996-Ohio-214 (finding that SSNs contained in 911 tapes are public records subject to disclosure); but see R.C. 4931.49(E), 4931.99(E) (providing that information from a database that serves public safety answering point of 911 system may not be disclosed); 1996 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen No. 034 (opining that a county recorder is under no duty to obliterate SSN before making a document available for public inspection where the recorder presented with the document was asked to file it).
However, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled that 911 tapes must be made immediately available for public disclosure without redaction, even if the tapes contain SSNs. The Court explained that there is no expectation of privacy when a person makes a 911 call. Instead, there is an expectation that the information will be recorded and disclosed to the public. Similarly, the Ohio Attorney General has opined that there is no expectation of privacy in official documents containing SSNs.

The Ohio Supreme Court’s interpretation of Ohio law with respect to release and redaction of SSNs is binding on public offices within the state. However, a narrower view expressed by a 2008 federal appeals court decision is worth noting, as it may impact future Ohio Supreme Court opinions regarding the extent of a person’s constitutional right to privacy in his or her SSN. In Lambert v. Hartman, the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals looked to its own past decisions to find a constitutional privacy right in personal information in only two situations: (1) where release of personal information could lead to bodily harm, and (2) where the information released was of a sexual, personal, and humiliating nature. The Court explained that it would only balance an individual’s right to control the nature and extent of information released about that individual against the government’s interest in disseminating the information when a fundamental liberty interest is involved. The interest asserted in Lambert - protection from identity theft and the resulting financial harm - was found not to implicate a fundamental right, especially when compared to the fundamental interests found in earlier cases; i.e., preserving the lives of police officers and their family members from “a very real threat” by a violent gang and withholding the “highly personal and extremely humiliating details” of a rape.

6. Student Records

The federal Family Education Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) prohibits educational institutions from releasing a student’s “education records” without the written consent of the eligible student or his or her parents, except as permitted by the Act. “Education records” are records directly related to a student that are maintained by an education agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. The term encompasses records such as school transcripts, attendance records, and student disciplinary records.

A record is considered to be “directly related” to a student if it contains “personally identifiable information.” The latter term is defined broadly: it covers not only obvious identifiers such as student and family member names, addresses, and Social Security Numbers, but also personal information such as school transcripts, attendance records, and student disciplinary records.

characteristics or other information that would make the student’s identity easily linkable.\textsuperscript{398} In evaluating records for release, an institution must consider what the records requester already knows about the student to determine if that knowledge, together with the information to be disclosed, would allow the requester to ascertain the student’s identity.

The federal FERPA law applies to all students, regardless of grade level. In addition, Ohio has adopted laws specifically applicable to public school students in grades K-12.\textsuperscript{399} Those laws provide that, unless otherwise authorized by law, no public school employee is permitted to release or permit access to personally identifiable information – other than directory information – concerning a public school student without written consent of the student’s parent, guardian, or custodian if the student is under 18, or of the student if the student is 18 or older.\textsuperscript{400}

“Directory information” is one of several exceptions to the requirement that an institution obtain written consent requirement prior to disclosure. “Directory information” is “information…that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed.”\textsuperscript{401} It includes a student’s name, address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in official recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, date of graduation, and awards achieved. Pursuant to federal law, post-secondary institutions designate what they will unilaterally release as directory information. For K-12 students, Ohio law leaves that designation to each school district board of education. Institutions at all levels must notify parents and eligible students and give them an opportunity to opt out of disclosure of their directory information.\textsuperscript{402}

7. Infrastructure & Security Records

In 2002, the Ohio legislature enacted an anti-terrorism bill. Among other changes to Ohio law, the bill created two new categories of records that are exempt from mandatory public disclosure: “infrastructure records” and “security records.”\textsuperscript{403} Other state and federal\textsuperscript{404} laws may create exceptions for the same or similar records.

\textit{a. Infrastructure Records}

An “infrastructure record” is any record that discloses the configuration of a public office’s “critical systems,” such as its communications, computer, electrical, mechanical, ventilation, water, plumbing, or security systems.\textsuperscript{405} Simple floor plans or records showing the spatial relationship of the public office are not infrastructure records.\textsuperscript{406}

Infrastructure records may be disclosed for purposes of construction, renovation, or remodeling of a public office without waiving the exempt status of that record.\textsuperscript{407}

\textit{b. Security Records}

A “security record” is “any record that contains information directly used for protecting or maintaining the security of a public office against attack, interference, or sabotage or to prevent, mitigate, or respond to acts of terrorism.”\textsuperscript{408} Security records may be disclosed for purposes of

8. Contractual Confidentiality

Parties to a public contract, including settlement agreements and collective bargaining agreements, cannot nullify the Ohio Public Records Act’s guarantee of public access to public records. Nor can an employee handbook confidentiality provision alter the status of public records. In other words, a contract cannot nullify or restrict the public’s access to public records. Absent a statutory exception, a “public entity cannot enter into enforceable promises of confidentiality with respect to public records.”

9. Protective Orders & Sealed/Expunged Court Records

When the release of court records would prejudice the rights of the parties in an ongoing criminal or civil proceeding, a court may impose a protective order prohibiting release of the records.

Similarly, where court records have been properly expunged or sealed, they are not available for public disclosure. Even absent statutory authority, trial courts, “in unusual and exceptional circumstances,” have the inherent authority to seal court records. When exercising this authority, however, courts should balance the individual’s privacy interest against the government’s legitimate need to provide public access to records of criminal proceedings.

10. Grand Jury Records

Ohio Criminal Rule 6 provides that “(E) [d]eliberations of the grand jury and the vote of any grand juror shall not be disclosed,” and provides for withholding of other specific grand jury matters by certain persons under specific circumstances. Materials covered by Criminal Rule 6 include transcripts, voting records, subpoenas, and the witness book. In contrast to those items that

11. Copyright Prohibitions to Disclosure

Public offices may be faced with the quandary of whether to release copyrighted materials in response to public records requests. Federal copyright law is designed to protect “original works of authorship,” which may exist in one of several specified categories. 423 Specifically, works of authorship include the following categories of materials: (1) literary works; (2) musical works (including any accompanying words); (3) dramatic works (including any accompanying music); (4) pantomimes and choreographic works; (5) pictorial, graphic, and sculptural works; (6) motion pictures and other audiovisual works; (7) sound recordings; and (8) architectural works. 424

Ohio’s Public Records Act does not contain any exceptions preventing a public office from responding to a valid public records request for copyrighted materials. However, federal copyright law provides certain copyright owners the exclusive right of reproduction, 425 which means public offices could expose themselves to legal liability if they reproduce copyrighted public records in response to a public records request. If a public record sought by a requestor is copyrighted material that the public office does not possess the right to reproduce or copy via a copyright ownership or license, the public office is not typically authorized to make copies of this material under federal copyright law. 426 However, there are some exceptions to this rule. For example, in certain situations, the copying of a portion of a copyrighted work may be permitted. 427 One possible solution to responding to requests for copyrighted material is for a public office to make the copyrighted material available for inspection rather than reproducing it.

12. EMS Run Sheets

When a run sheet created and maintained by a county emergency medical services (EMS) organization documents treatment of a living patient, the EMS organization may redact information that pertains to the patient’s medical history, diagnosis, prognosis, or medical condition. 428 The organization may not redact patients’ names, addresses, and other non-medical personal information as part of the medical records exception. 429

13. FOIA Does Not Apply to Ohio Public Offices

The federal Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) is a federal law that does not apply to state or local agencies or officers. 430 A request for government records from a state or local agency in Ohio is governed by the Ohio Public Records Act. Requests for records from a federal office located in Ohio (or anywhere else in the country or the world) are governed by FOIA. 431
14. Driver’s Privacy Protection

IV. Chapter Four: Enforcement and Liabilities

The Ohio Public Records Act is a “self-help” statute, in that a person who believes that the Act has been violated must independently pursue a remedy, rather than asking a public official such as the Ohio Attorney General to initiate legal action on his or her behalf. If a public office or person responsible for public records fails to produce requested records, or otherwise fails to comply with the requirements of division (B) of the Ohio Public Records Act, the requester can file a lawsuit to seek a writ of mandamus\(^\text{433}\) to enforce compliance, and may apply for various sanctions. This section discusses the basic aspects of a mandamus suit and the types of monetary awards available.

A. Public Records Act Statutory Remedies

1. Parties

A person allegedly “aggrieved by” a public office’s failure to comply with Division (B) of the Ohio Public Records Act may file an action in mandamus\(^\text{434}\) against the public office or any person responsible for the office’s public records.\(^\text{435}\) The person who files the suit is called the “relator,” and the named public office or person responsible for the records is called the “respondent.”

2. Where to File

The relator can file the mandamus action in any one of three courts: the common pleas court of the county where the alleged violation occurred, the court of appeals for the appellate district where the alleged violation occurred, or the Ohio Supreme Court.\(^\text{436}\) If a relator files in the Supreme Court, the Court may refer the case to mediation counsel for a settlement conference.\(^\text{437}\)

When an official responsible for records has denied a public records request, no administrative appeal to the official’s supervisor is necessary before filing a mandamus action in court.\(^\text{438}\)

3. When to File

Due to the recent addition of the civil forfeiture provisions, the likely statute of limitations for filing a public records mandamus action is within ten years after the cause of action accrues.\(^\text{439}\) However, if the respondent can show that unreasonable and inexcusable delay in asserting a known right cause material prejudice to the respondent, the defense of laches may apply.\(^\text{440}\)

4. Requirements to Prevail

To be entitled to a writ of mandamus, the relator must prove a clear legal right to the requested relief and that the respondent had a clear legal duty to perform the requested act.\(^\text{441}\) In a public records mandamus, this usually includes showing that, when the requester made the request, she specifically described the records being sought,442 and specified in the mandamus action the records withheld or other failure to comply.443 A person is not entitled to file a mandamus action to request public records unless a prior request for those records has already been made and was denied.444 Only those particular records that were requested from the public office can be litigated in the mandamus action.445 If these requirements are met, the respondent then has the burden of proving in court that any items withheld are exempt from disclosure,446 and of countering any other alleged violations of R.C. 149.43(B). The court, if necessary, will review in camera (in private) the materials that were withheld or redacted.447 To the extent any doubt or ambiguity exists as to the duty of the public office, the public records law will be liberally interpreted in favor of disclosure.448

Unlike most mandamus actions, a relator in a statutory public records mandamus action need not prove a lack of adequate remedy at law.449 Also note that, if a respondent provides requested records to the relator after the filing of a public records mandamus action, all or part of the case may be rendered moot, or concluded.450 However, even if the case is rendered moot, the relator may still be entitled to attorney fees.452

B. Liabilities of the Public Office

In a properly filed mandamus action, if a court determines that the public office or the person responsible for public records failed to comply with an obligation contained in R.C. 149.43(B), the relator shall be entitled to an award of all court costs,453 and may receive an award of attorney fees and/or statutory damages, as detailed below.

1. Attorney Fees

If the court renders a judgment ordering the respondent to comply with R.C. 149.43(B), then the court may award reasonable attorney fees.454 An award of attorney fees upon finding a violation is not mandatory,455 and litigation expenses, other than court costs, are not recoverable at all.456 A court shall award reasonable attorney fees if either: (1) the public office failed to respond to the public records request in accordance with the time allowed under R.C. 149.43(B),457 or (2) the public office promised to permit inspection or deliver copies within a specified period of time but failed to fulfill that promise. If attorney fees are awarded under either of these provisions, they may be reduced or eliminated at the discretion of the court (see Section 5, below). Attorney fee awards are generally reviewed on appeal under an abuse of discretion standard.

2. Amount of Fees

Only those attorney fees directly associated with the mandamus may be awarded, and the relator is entitled to fees only insofar as the requests had merit. Reasonable attorney’s fees also include reasonable fees incurred to produce proof of the reasonableness and amount of the fees and to otherwise litigate entitlement to the fees. The opportunity to collect attorney fees does not apply when the relator appears before the court pro se (without an attorney), even if the pro se relator is an attorney. Court costs and reasonable attorney’s fees awarded in public records mandamus actions are considered remedial rather than punitive.

3. Statutory Damages

A person who transmits a valid written request for public records by hand delivery or certified mail is entitled to receive statutory damages if a court finds that the public office failed to comply with its obligations under R.C. 149.43(B). The award of statutory damages is not considered a penalty, but is intended to compensate the requestor for injury arising from lost use of the requested information, and if lost use is proven, then injury is conclusively presumed. Statutory damages are fixed at $100 for each business day during which the respondent fails to comply with division (B), beginning with the day on which the relator files a mandamus action to recover statutory damages, up to a maximum of $1000. This means that a respondent may stop further accrual of statutory damages by fully complying with division (B) before the maximum is reached.

4. Recovery of Deleted E-mail Records

The Ohio Supreme Court has determined that if there is evidence showing that records in e-mail format have been deleted in violation of a public office’s records retention and disposition schedule, the public office has a duty to recover the contents of deleted e-mails and to provide access to them. The courts will consider the relief available to the requester based on the following factors:

a. There must be a determination made as to whether deleted e-mails have been destroyed, as there is no duty to create or provide non-existent records.

b. The requester must make a prima facie showing that the e-mails were deleted in violation of applicable retention schedules, unrebutted by defendant(s).

c. There must be some evidence that recovery of the e-mails may be successful.

5. Reduction of Attorney Fees and Civil Penalty 470

After any reasonable attorney’s fees and any civil penalty are calculated and awarded, the court may reduce or eliminate either or both such awards, if the court determines both of the following: 471

a. That, based on the law as it existed at the time, a well-informed person responsible for the requested public records reasonably would have believed that the conduct of the respondent did not constitute a failure to comply with an obligation in accordance with R.C. 149.43(B), and,

V. Chapter Five: Other Obligations of a Public Office

Public offices have other obligations with regard to the records that they keep. These include:

- Managing public records by organizing them such that they can be made available in response to public records requests, and ensuring that all records—public or not—are maintained and disposed of only in accordance with properly adopted applicable records retention schedules.
- Maintaining a copy of the office’s current records retention schedules at a location readily available to the public.
- Adopting and posting an office public records policy, and
- Ensuring that all elected officials associated with a public office, or their designees, obtain three hours of certified public records training through the Ohio Attorney General’s office once during each term of office.

A. Records Management

Records are a crucial component of the governing process. They contain information that supports functions affecting every person in government and within its jurisdiction. Like other important government resources, records and the information they contain need to be well managed to ensure accountability, efficiency, economy, and overall good government.

The term “records management” encompasses two distinct obligations of a public office, each of which furthers the goals of the Ohio Public Records Act. First, in order to facilitate broader access to public records, a public office must organize and maintain the public records it keeps in a manner such that they can be made available for inspection or copying in response to a public records request. Second, in order to facilitate transparency in government, Ohio’s records retention law, R.C. 149.351, prohibits unauthorized removal, destruction, mutilation, transfer, damage, or disposal of any record or part of a record, except as provided by law or under the rules adopted by the records commissions (i.e., pursuant to approved records retention schedules). Therefore, in the absence of a law or retention schedules permitting disposal of particular records, an office lacks the required authority to dispose of those records, and must maintain them until proper authority to dispose of them is obtained. In the meantime, the records remain subject to public records requests. Public offices at various levels of government, including state agencies, county boards and commission, and local political subdivisions, have different resources and processes for adopting records retention schedules. Those are described in this section.

A public office shall only create records that are “necessary for the adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, and essential transactions of the agency and for the protection of the legal and financial rights of the state and persons directly affected by the agency’s activities.” This standard only addresses the records required to be created by a public office, which may receive many records in addition to those it creates.

1. Records Management Programs

a. Local Government Records Commissions

Authorization for disposition of local government records is provided by applicable statutes, and by rules adopted by records commissions at the county, town, and municipal levels. Records commissions also exist for each library district, special taxing district, school district, and educational service center.

Records commissions are responsible for reviewing applications for one-time disposal of obsolete records, as well as records retention schedules submitted by government offices within their jurisdiction. Once a commission has approved an application or schedule, it is forwarded to the State Archives at the Ohio Historical Society for review and identification of records that the State Archives deems to be of continuing historical value. Upon completion of that process, the Ohio Historical Society will forward the application or schedule to the Auditor of State for approval or disapproval.

b. State Records Program

The Ohio Department of Administrative Services administers the records program for legislative and judicial branches of government and for all state agencies, with the exception of state-supported institutions of higher education. Among its other duties, the state records program is responsible for establishing “general schedules” for the disposal of certain types of records common to most state agencies. Once a general schedule has been officially adopted by a state agency, when the time specified in the general schedule has elapsed, the records identified should no longer have sufficient administrative, legal, fiscal, or other value to warrant further preservation by the state.

If a record series is not covered by a state general schedule, state agencies can submit retention schedules to DAS via the Records and Information Management System (RIMS) for approval by DAS, the Auditor of State and the State Archivist.

The state’s records program works in a similar fashion to local records commissions, except that applications and schedules are forwarded to the Ohio Historical Society and the Auditor of State for review simultaneously following the approval of DAS. The Auditor decides whether to approve, reject, or modify applications and schedules based on the continuing administrative and fiscal value of the state records to the state or to its citizens.

c. Records Programs for State-supported Colleges and Universities

State-supported institutions of higher education are unique, in that their records programs are established and administered by their respective boards of trustees.497 Through their records programs, these state offices are charged with applying efficient and economical management methods to the creation, utilization, maintenance, retention, preservation, and disposition of records.498

2. Records Retention and Disposition

a. Retention Schedules

Records of a public office may be destroyed, but only if they are destroyed in compliance with a properly approved records retention schedule.499 In a 2008 decision, the Ohio Supreme Court emphasized that, “in cases in which public records, including e-mails, are properly disposed of in accordance with a duly adopted records-retention policy, there is no entitlement to those records under the Ohio Public Records Act.”500 However, if the retention schedule does not address the particular type of record in question, the record must be kept until the schedule is properly amended to address that category of records. Also, if a public record is retained beyond its properly approved destruction date, it keeps its public record status until it is destroyed and is thus subject to public records requests.501

In crafting proposed records retention schedules, a public office must evaluate the length of time each type of record warrants retention for administrative, legal or fiscal purposes after it has been received or created by the office.502 Consideration should also be given to the enduring historical value of each type of record, which will be evaluated by the Ohio Historical Society when that office conducts its review. Local records commissions may consult with the Ohio Historical Society during this process;503 the state records program offers consulting services for state offices.504

b. Transient Records

Adoption of a schedule for transient records — that is, records containing information of short term usefulness — allows a public office to dispose of these records once they are no longer of administrative value.505 Examples of transient records include voice mail messages, telephone message slips, post-it notes, and superseded drafts.

c. Records Disposition

It is important to document this disposition of records after they have satisfied their approved retention periods. Local governments should file a Certificate of Records Disposal (RC-3) with the Ohio Historical Society at least fifteen business days prior to the destruction in order to allow the Historical Society to select records of enduring historical value. State agencies can document their records disposals on the RIMS system or in-house. It is important to be able to show what schedule the records were disposed under, the record series title, inclusive dates of the records, and the date of disposal.

504 R.C. 149.331(D).
3. Liability for Unauthorized Destruction of Records

All records are considered to be the property of the public office, and must be delivered by outgoing officials and employees to their successors in office. Improper destruction or damage of a record is a violation of R.C. 149.351.

a. Injunction and Civil Forfeiture

Ohio law allows “any person . . . aggrieved by” the unauthorized “removal, destruction, mutilation, transfer, or other damage to or disposition of a record,” or by the threat of such action, to file either or both of the following types of lawsuits:

- A civil action requesting an injunction to force the public office to comply with the records retention laws, as well as any reasonable attorney’s fees associated with the suit.
- A civil action to recover a forfeiture of $1,000 for each violation of the applicable records retention law or rules, as well as any reasonable attorney’s fees associated with the suit.

A person has one year from the date of the discovery of the violation to file the above actions, and has the burden of providing evidence that records were destroyed in violation of R.C. 149.351. Because the Ohio Supreme Court has held that both a single document in a file as well as the file itself can each be records, and the number of violations will relate in some way to the number of records involved, the fines can add up. In Kish et al. v. City of Akron, two former city employees sued the City of Akron, alleging the city inappropriately destroyed 860 records documenting compensatory time the employees had earned. The employees sued under R.C. 149.351(B)(2) and asked for $1,000 per record that they alleged had been destroyed in violation of records retention laws. The Supreme Court upheld an $860,000 fine for the unauthorized destruction of 860 city employee time sheets that had been kept in two separate files. The Court held that each individual time sheet was a record in and of itself, and that destruction of each time sheet constituted a violation for purposes of the civil penalty.

b. Attorney Fees

The aggrieved person may seek an award of reasonable attorney fees for either the injunctive action or an action for civil forfeiture. An award of attorney fees under R.C. 149.351 is discretionary.

4. Availability of Records Retention Schedules

All public offices must maintain a copy of all current records retention schedules at a location readily available to the public. 517

B. Records Retention - Practical Pointers

1. Fundamentals

Don’t be a Pack Rat

Every record, public or not, that is kept by a public office must be covered by a records retention schedule. Without an applicable schedule dictating how long a record must be kept and when it can be destroyed, a public office must keep that record forever. Apart from the inherent long-term storage problems and associated cost this creates for a public office, the office is also responsible for continuing to maintain the record in such a way that it can be made available at any time if it is responsive to a public records request. Creating and following schedules for all of its records allows a public office to dispose of records once they are no longer necessary or valuable.

Content - Not Medium - Determines How Long to Keep a Record

Deciding how long a record should be kept is based on the content of the record, not on the medium on which it exists. Not all paper documents are “records” for purposes of the Public Records Act; similarly, not all documents transmitted via e-mail are “records” that must be maintained and destroyed pursuant to a records retention schedule. Accordingly, in order to fulfill both its records management and public records responsibilities, a public office should categorize all of the items it keeps that are deemed to be records – regardless of the form in which they exist – based on content, and store them based on those content categories, or “records series,” for as long as the records have legal, administrative, fiscal, or historic value. (Note that storing e-mail records unsorted on a server does not satisfy records retention requirements, because the server does not allow for the varying disposal schedules of different categories of records.)

Practical Application

Creating and implementing a records management system might sound daunting. For most public offices, though, it is a matter of simple housekeeping. Many offices already have the scaffolding of existing records retention schedules in place, which may be augmented in the manner outlined below.

2. Managing Records in Five Easy Steps:

a. Conduct a Records Inventory

The purpose of an inventory is to identify and describe the types of records an office keeps. Existing records retention schedules are a good starting point for determining the types of records an office keeps, as well as identifying records that are no longer kept or new types of records for which schedules need to be created.

For larger offices, it is helpful to designate a staff member from each functional area of the office who knows the kinds of records their department creates and why, what the records document, and how and where they are kept.

b. Categorize Records by Record Series

Records should be grouped according to record series. A record series is a group of similar records that are related because they are created, received, or used for or result from the same purpose or activity. Record series descriptions should be broad enough to encompass all records of a particular type ("Itemized Phone Bills" rather than "FY07-FY08 Phone Bills" for instance), but not so broad that it fails to be instructive (such as "Finance Department e-mails") or leaves the contents open to interpretation or “squeezing.”

517 R.C. 149.43 (B)(2).

c. Decide How Long Each Records Series should be Kept

Retention periods are determined by assessing four values for each category of records: administrative, legal, fiscal, and historical.

Administrative Value: A record maintains its administrative value as long as it is useful and relevant to the execution of the activities that caused the record to be created. Administrative value is determined by how long the record is needed by the office to carry out – that is, to “administer” – its duties. Every record created by government entities should have administrative value, which can vary from being transient (a notice of change in meeting location), to long-term (a policies and procedures manual).

Legal Value: A record has legal value if it documents or protects the rights or obligations of citizens or the agency that created it, provides for defense in litigation, or demonstrates compliance with laws, statutes, and regulations. Examples include contracts, real estate records, retention schedules, and licenses.

Fiscal Value: A record has fiscal value if it pertains to the receipt, transfer, payment, adjustment, or encumbrance of funds or if it is required for an audit. Examples include payroll records and travel vouchers.

Historical Value: A record has historical value if it contains significant information about people, places, or events. The State Archives suggests that historical documents be retained permanently. Examples include board or commission meeting minutes and annual reports.

d. Dispose of Records on Schedule

Records retention schedules indicate how long particular record series must be kept and when and how the office can dispose of them. Records kept past their retention schedule are still subject to public records requests, and can be unwieldy and expensive to store. As a practical matter, it is helpful to designate a records manager or records custodian to assist in crafting retention schedules, monitoring when records are due for disposal, and ensuring proper completion of disposal forms.

e. Review Schedules Regularly and Revise, Delete, or Create New Ones as the Law and the Office’s Operations Change

Keep track of new records that are created as a result of statutory and policy changes. Ohio law requires all records to be scheduled within one year after the date that they are created or received.\(^{518}\)

C. In Summary: Practical Pointers for Public Offices

Practical Pointer #1: If you neglect to dispose of your records when your retention schedules say you can, they are fair game for a public records request.

Practical Pointer #2: If you don’t have a schedule that says how long you have to keep a particular kind of record, you can never throw that record away. There could be legal consequences if you cannot produce those unscheduled records.

\(^{518}\) R.C. 149.34(C).
Practical Pointer #3: Medium or format of an item is not determinative of whether that item is a "record." Rather, whether an item is a record is determined by its content. In fact, the use and retention period are factors in determining the best storage media.

Practical Pointer #4: Every record of your office must be covered by a retention schedule, not just the public records.

Practical Pointer #5: Taking inventory will help you identify records that haven’t been scheduled, locate unnecessary copies, and purge records that are being kept past their retention period.

Practical Pointer #6: Make sure you have a schedule for transient records that permits destruction of records that are temporary in nature – such as telephone messages, drafts, voice mail, and post-it notes – as soon as they are no longer of administrative value.

Practical Pointer #7: Designate a records manager/records custodian.

Practical Pointer #8: Keep track of new records that are created as a result of statutory/policy changes, because new records must be scheduled within one year after the date they are created or received.

Practical Pointer #9: Document the disposition of records.

D. Helpful Resources for Local Government Offices

Ohio Historical Society/State Archives - Local Government Records Program
The Local Government Records Program of the State Archives provides records-related advice and assistance to local governments in order to facilitate the identification and preservation of local government records with enduring historical value. Please direct inquiries and send forms to:

E. Helpful Resources for State Government Offices

1. Ohio Department of Administrative Services Records Management Program

Records are a crucial component of the governing process. They contain information that supports functions affecting every person in government or within its jurisdiction. Like other important government resources, records and the information they contain need to be managed well to ensure accountability, efficiency, economy, and overall good government.

The Ohio Department of Administrative Services’ State Records Administration can provide records management advice and assistance to state agencies, as well as provide training seminars on request. Information available on their website includes:

- Access to the Records Information Management System (RIMS) retention schedule database;
- RIMS User Manual;
- General Retention Schedules; and
- Records Inventory and Analysis template.

For more information, contact DAS at 614-466-1105 or visit www.das.ohio.gov.
2. The Ohio Historical Society, State Archives

The State Archives can assist state agencies with the identification and preservation of records with enduring historical value.

For more information or to schedule a records appraisal, contact State Archives at 614-297-2536.

F. Helpful Resources for All Government Offices

Ohio Electronic Records Committee

Electronic records present unique challenges for archivists and records managers. As society shifts from traditional methods of recordkeeping to electronic recordkeeping, the issues surrounding the management of electronic records become more significant. Although the nature of electronic records is constantly evolving, these records are being produced at an ever-increasing rate. As these records multiply, the need for leadership and policy becomes more urgent.

The goal of the Ohio Electronic Records Committee (OhioERC) is to draft guidelines for the creation, maintenance, long term preservation of and access to electronic records created by Ohio’s state government. Helpful documents available on the OERC’s website include:

- Hybrid Microfilm Guidelines;
- Digital Document Imaging Guidelines;
- Electronic Records Management Guidelines;
- Electronic Records Policy;
- General Schedules for Electronic Records;
- Managing Electronic Mail; and
- Trustworthy Information Systems Handbook.

For more information and to learn about ongoing projects, visit the Ohio Electronic Records Committee website at http://ohsweb.ohiohistory.org/ohioerc.

G. Public Records Policy

A public office must create and adopt a policy for responding to public records requests. The Ohio Attorney General’s office has developed a model public records policy, which may serve as a guide. The public records policy must be distributed to the records manager, records custodian, or the employee who otherwise has custody of the records of the office, and that employee must acknowledge receipt. In addition, a poster describing the policy must be posted in the public office in a conspicuous location, and in all branch offices. The public records policy must be included in the office’s policies and procedures manual, if one exists, and may be posted on the office’s website. Compliance with these requirements will be audited by the Auditor of State in the course of a regular financial audit.

519 R.C. 149.43(E)(1).
521 R.C. 149.43(E)(2).
522 R.C. 109.43(G).
A public records policy may . . .

- limit the number of records that the office will transmit by United States mail to a particular requester to ten per month, unless the requester certifies in writing that the requested records and/or the information those records contain will not be used or forwarded for commercial purposes. For purposes of this division, “commercial” shall be narrowly construed and does not include reporting or gathering of news, reporting or gathering of information to assist citizen oversight or understanding of the operation or activities of government, or nonprofit educational research.

A public records policy may not . . .

- limit the number of public records made available to a single person;
- limit the number of records the public office will make available during a fixed period of time; or
- establish a fixed period of time before the public office will respond to a request for inspection or copying of public records (unless that period is less than eight hours).

H. Required Public Records Training for Elected Officials

All local and statewide elected government officials or their designees must attend a three-hour public records training program during each term of elective office during which the official serves. The training must be developed and certified by the Ohio Attorney General’s Office, and presented either by the Ohio Attorney General’s Office or an approved entity with which the Attorney General’s Office contracts. The Attorney General shall ensure that the training programs and seminars are accredited by the Commission on Continuing Legal Education established by the Supreme Court. Compliance with the training provision will be audited by the Auditor of State, in the course of a regular financial audit.

524 R.C. 149.43(B)(7). In addition to a public records policy, a public office may adopt policies and procedures it will follow in transmitting copies of public records by U.S. mail or any other means of delivery or transmission. Note that a public office adopting these policies and procedures is deemed by statute to have created an enforceable duty on itself to comply with them.

525 R.C. 149.43(E)(1).

526 R.C. 109.43(A)(1) (definition of “elected official”); NOTE: the definition excludes justices, judges or clerks of the Supreme Court of Ohio, courts of appeals, courts of common pleas, municipal courts, and county courts.

527 R.C. 109.43(A)(1) (providing that training may be received by an “appropriate” designee, R.C. 109.43(B) (no definition of “appropriate” in the statute), and may be the designee of the sole elected official in a public office, or of all the elected officials if the public office includes more than one elected official).

528 R.C. 109.43(B) (providing that training shall be three hours for every term of office for which the elected official was appointed or elected to the public office involved).

529 R.C. 109.43(E)(1); R.C. 109.43(B) (providing that this training is intended to enhance an elected official’s knowledge of his or her duty to provide access to public records, and to provide guidance in developing and updating his or her office’s public records policies); R.C. 149.43(E)(1) (providing that another express purpose of the training is “[t]o ensure that all employees of public offices are appropriately educated about a public office’s obligations under division (B) of [the Public Records Act].”).

530 R.C. 109.43(B)-(D) (providing that the Attorney General’s Office may not charge a fee to attend the training programs it conducts, but outside contractors that provide the certified training may charge a registration fee that is based on the “actual and necessary” expenses associated with the training, as determined by the Attorney General’s Office).

531 R.C. 109.43(B).

VI. Chapter Six: Special Topics

A. CLEIRs: Confidential Law Enforcement Investigatory Records Exception

This exception is often mistaken as one that applies only to police investigations. In fact, the Confidential Law Enforcement Investigatory Records exception, commonly known as “CLEIRs,” applies to investigations of alleged violations of criminal, quasi-criminal, civil, and administrative law. It does not apply to most investigations conducted for purposes of public office employment matters, such as internal disciplinary investigations, pre-employment questionnaires and polygraph tests, or to public records that later become the subject of a law enforcement investigation.

1. CLEIRs Defined:

Under CLEIRs, a public office may withhold any records that both:

(1) Pertain to a law enforcement matter of a criminal, quasi-criminal, civil, or administrative nature;

and

(2) If released would create a high probability of disclosing any of the following five types of information:

- Identity of an uncharged suspect;
- Identity of a source or witness to whom confidentiality was reasonably promised;
- Specific confidential investigatory techniques or procedures;
- Specific investigatory work product; or
- Information that would endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel, a crime victim, a witness, or a confidential information source.

2. Determining whether the CLEIRs exception applies

Remember that the CLEIRs exception is a strict two-step test, and a record must first qualify as pertaining to a “law enforcement matter” under Step One before any of the exception categories in Step Two will apply to the record.

Step One: Pertains to “A Law Enforcement Matter”

An investigation is only considered a “law enforcement matter” if it meets each prong of the following 3-part test:

City of New Lexington, 112 Ohio St.3d 33, 42, 2006-Ohio-6365, at ¶51 (records "made in the routine course of public employment" that related to but preceded a law enforcement investigation are not confidential law enforcement investigatory records); State ex rel. Hamilton County, 75 Ohio St.3d 374, 377, 1996-Ohio-214 (because 911 tapes are not part of an investigation, "it does not matter that release of the tapes might reveal the identity of an uncharged suspect or contain information which, if disclosed, would endanger the life or physical safety of a witness."); State ex rel. James v. Ohio State Univ. (1994), 70 Ohio St.3d 168, 170 (respondent attempted to apply CLEIRs Step Two “confidential informant” exception to evaluator's notes in personnel records).
(a) Has an Investigation Been Initiated Upon Specific Suspicion of Wrongdoing?\(^{540}\)

Investigation records must be generated in response to specific alleged misconduct, not as the incidental result of routine monitoring.\(^{541}\) However, “routine” investigations of the use of deadly force by officers, even if the initial facts indicate accident or self-defense, are sufficient to meet this requirement.\(^{542}\)

(b) Does the Alleged Conduct Violate Criminal, Quasi-criminal, Civil, or Administrative Law?\(^{543}\)\(^{544}\)\(^{545}\)

So long as the conduct is prohibited by statute or administrative rule, whether the punishment is criminal, quasi-criminal, civil, or administrative in nature is irrelevant.\(^{546}\) “Law enforcement matter of a criminal, quasi-criminal, civil, or administrative nature” refers directly to the enforcement of the law, and not to employment or personnel matters ancillary to law enforcement matters.\(^{547}\)

Disciplinary investigations of alleged violations of internal office policies or procedures are not law enforcement matters,\(^{548}\) including disciplinary matters and personnel files of law enforcement officers.\(^{549}\)

(c) Does the Public Office Have the Authority to Investigate or Enforce the Law Allegedly Violated?

If the office does not have legally mandated investigative\(^{550}\) or enforcement authority over the alleged violation of the law, then the records it holds are not a law enforcement matter for that office.\(^{551}\) For example, if an investigating law enforcement agency obtains a copy of an otherwise public record of another public office as part of an investigation, the original record kept by the other public office is not covered by the CLEIRs exception.\footnote{State ex rel. Morgan v. Isaman, 92 Ohio St.3d 312, 316, 2001-Ohio-193 (finding that a records request of city's public works superintendent for specified street repair records were "unquestionably public records" and "[t]he mere fact that these records might have subsequently become relevant to Dillery's criminal cases did not transform them into records exempt from disclosure."); State ex rel. Cincinnati Enquirer v. Hamilton County, 75 Ohio St.3d 374, 378, 1996-Ohio-214 (find that a public record that "subsequently came into the possession and/or control of a prosecutor, other law enforcement officials, or event he grand jury has no significance" because "[o]nce clothed with the public records cloak, the records cannot be defrocked of their status.").}

Chapter Six: Special Topics

Step Two: High Probability of Disclosing Certain Information

If an investigative record does pertain to a "law enforcement matter", the CLEIRs exception applies if and only to the extent that release of the record would create a high probability of disclosing at least one of the following five types of information.\footnote{R.C. 149(A)(2); State ex rel. Multimedia v. Snowden, 72 Ohio St.3d 141, 1995-Ohio-248.}

(a) Identity of an Uncharged Suspect in Connection with the Investigated Conduct

An "uncharged suspect" is a person who at some point in the investigating agency’s investigation was believed to have committed a crime or offense,\footnote{State ex rel. Musial v. City of N. Olmsted, 106 Ohio St.3d 459, 2005-Ohio-5521, at ¶23 (providing that a "suspect" is a "person believed to have committed a crime or offense.").} but who has not been arrested\footnote{State ex rel. Outlet Commc’n v. Lancaster Police Dep’t (1998), 38 Ohio St.3d 324, 328 (stating that "it is neither necessary nor controlling to engage in a query as to whether or not a person who has been arrested or issued a citation for minor criminal violations and traffic violations […] has been formally charged. Arrest records and intoxilyzer records which contain the names of persons who have been formally charged with an offense, as well as those who have been arrested and/or issued citations but who have not been formally charged, are not confidential. Law enforcement investigatory records with the exception of R.C. 149.43(A)(2)(a).") (overruled on other grounds).} or charged\footnote{State ex rel. Musial v. City of N. Olmsted, 106 Ohio St.3d 459, 2005-Ohio-5521, at ¶23-24 (providing that a "charge" is a "formal accusation of an offense as a preliminary step to prosecution" and that a formal accusation of an offense requires a charging instrument, i.e., an indictment, information, or criminal complaint); see also Crim. R. 7; Black’s Law Dictionary 249 (8th ed. 2004); State ex rel. Master v. City of Cleveland, 75 Ohio St.3d 23, 30, 1996-Ohio-228 ("Master I"); State ex rel. Moreland v. City of Dayton (1993), 67 Ohio St.3d 129, 130.} for the offense to which the investigative record pertains. The purposes of this exception include: (1) protecting the rights of individuals to be free from unwarranted adverse publicity; and (2) protecting law enforcement investigations from being compromised.\footnote{State ex rel. Master v. City of Cleveland, 76 Ohio St.3d 340, 343, 1996-Ohio-300 ("Master II") (citing “avoidance of subjecting persons to adverse publicity where they may otherwise never have been identified with the matter under investigation” and a law enforcement interest in not “compromising subsequent efforts to reopen and solve inactive cases” as two of the purposes of the uncharged suspect exception).}

Only the particular information that has a high probability of revealing the identity of an uncharged suspect can be redacted from otherwise non-exempt records prior to the records’ release.\footnote{State ex rel. Master v. City of Cleveland, 75 Ohio St.3d 23, 30, 1996-Ohio-228 ("Master I") (providing that "when a government body asserts that public records are excepted from disclosure and such assertion is challenged, the court must make an individualized scrutiny of the records in question” and “if the court finds that these records contain excepted information, this information must be redacted and any remaining information must be released.”) citing State ex rel. Nat’l Broad. Co. v. City of Cleveland (1958), 38 Ohio St.3d 79, 85; State ex rel. White v. Watson (8th Dist.), 2006-Ohio-5234, at ¶9 (providing that “[t]he government has the duty to disclose public records, including the parts of a record which do not come within an exemption” and therefore, “if only part of a record is exempt, the government may redact the exempt part and release the rest.”).}

Where the contents of a particular record in an investigatory file are so “inextricably intertwined” with the suspect’s identity that redacting will fail to protect the person’s identity in connection with the investigated conduct, that entire record may be withheld.\footnote{State ex rel. McGee v. Ohio State Bd. of Psychology (1990), 49 Ohio St.3d 59, 60 (holding that where exempt information is so “intertwined” with the public information as to reveal the exempt information from the context, the record itself, and not just the exempt information, may be withheld).}

However, the application of this exception to some records in an investigatory file does not automatically create a blanket exception covering all other records in an investigatory file, and the public office must still release... any investigative records that do not individually have a high probability of revealing the uncharged suspect's identity.\textsuperscript{560}

The uncharged suspect exception applies even if:

- time has passed since the investigation was closed;\textsuperscript{561}
- the suspect has been accurately identified in media coverage;\textsuperscript{562} or
- the uncharged suspect is the person requesting the information.\textsuperscript{563}

\section*{(b) Identity of a Confidential Source}

For purposes of the CLEIRs exception, “confidential sources” are those who have been “reasonably promised confidentiality.”\textsuperscript{564} A promise of confidentiality is considered reasonable if it was made on the basis of the law enforcement investigator's individualized determination that the promise is necessary to obtain the information.\textsuperscript{565} Where possible, it is advisable - though not required - that the investigator document the specific reasons why promising confidentiality was necessary to further the investigation.\textsuperscript{566} Promises of confidentiality contained in policy statements or given as a matter of course during routine administrative procedures are not “reasonable” promises of confidentiality for purposes of the CLEIRs exception.\textsuperscript{567}

This exception exists only to protect the identity of the information source, not the information he or she provides.\textsuperscript{568} However, where the contents of a particular record in an investigatory file are so inextricably intertwined with the confidential source’s identity that redacting will fail to protect the person’s identity in connection with the investigated conduct, that entire record may be withheld.\textsuperscript{569}

\section*{(c) Specific Confidential Investigatory Techniques or Procedures}

Specific confidential investigatory techniques or procedures,\textsuperscript{570} including sophisticated scientific investigatory techniques or procedures such as forensic laboratory tests and their results, may be redacted pursuant to this exception.\textsuperscript{571} One purpose of the exception is to avoid compromising the effectiveness of confidential investigatory techniques.\textsuperscript{572} Routine investigative techniques are not covered under the exception.\textsuperscript{573}

(d) Investigative Work Product

Statutory Definition: Information, including notes, working papers, memoranda, or similar materials, assembled by law enforcement officials in connection with a probable or pending criminal proceeding is work product under R.C. 149.43(A)(2)(c). These materials may be protected even when they appear in a law enforcement office’s files other than the investigative file. "It is difficult to conceive of anything in a prosecutor’s file, in a pending criminal matter, that would not be either material compiled in anticipation of a specific criminal proceeding or the personal trial preparation of the prosecutor." However, there are some limits to the items in an investigative file covered by this exception.

Time Limits on Investigatory Work Product Exception: Once a law enforcement matter has commenced, the investigative work product exception applies until the matter has concluded. A law enforcement matter is concluded only when all potential actions, trials, and post-trial proceedings in the matter have ended. Thus, the investigatory work product exception remains available as long as any opportunity exists for direct appeal or post-conviction relief, including habeas corpus proceedings. Even if no suspect has been identified, "once it is evident that a crime has occurred, investigative materials developed are necessarily compiled in anticipation of litigation and so fall squarely within the Steckman definition of work product." However, the work product exception is not merely an "ongoing investigation" exception. The investigating agency must be able to show that work product is being assembled in connection with a pending or highly probable criminal proceeding, not merely the possibility of future criminal proceedings.

Where a criminal defendant who is the subject of the records agrees not to pursue appeal or post-conviction relief, the case is considered concluded, even if the time period for appeal or post-conviction relief has not expired.

Not Waived by Criminal Discovery: The work product exception is not waived when a criminal defendant is provided discovery materials as required by law.

(e) Information that Would Endanger Life or Physical Safety if Released

Information that, if released, would endanger the life or physical safety of law enforcement personnel, a crime victim, a witness, or a confidential informant may be redacted before public release of a record.\textsuperscript{586} The danger must be self-evident; bare allegations or assumed conclusions that a person’s physical safety is threatened are not sufficient reasons to redact information.\textsuperscript{587} Alleging that disclosing the information would infringe on a person’s privacy does not justify a denial of release under this exception.\textsuperscript{588}

\textbf{Note: Non-expiring Step Two exceptions:} When a law enforcement matter has concluded, only the work product exception expires. The courts have expressly or impliedly found that investigatory records which fall under the uncharged suspect,\textsuperscript{589} confidential source or witness,\textsuperscript{590} confidential investigatory technique,\textsuperscript{591} and information threatening physical safety\textsuperscript{592} exceptions apply despite the passage of time.

\textbf{Note: Law Enforcement Records not Covered by the CLEIRs Exception:} As noted above, personnel and other administrative records not pertaining to a law enforcement matter would not be covered by the CLEIRs exception. In addition, the courts have specifically ruled that the following records are not covered:

\textbf{Offense and Incident Reports:} Police offense or incident reports initiate investigations, but are not considered part of the investigation, and are therefore not a “law enforcement matter” covered by the CLEIRs exception.\textsuperscript{593} Therefore, none of the information explained in Step Two above can be redacted from an initial incident report.\textsuperscript{594} However, if an offense or incident report contains information that is otherwise exempt from disclosure under state or federal law, the exempt information may be redacted.\textsuperscript{595}

\textbf{911 Records:} Audio records of 911 calls are not considered to pertain to a “law enforcement matter,” or constitute part of an investigation, for the purposes of the CLEIRs exception.\textsuperscript{596} Further, the courts have determined that a caller has no reasonable expectation of privacy in matters communicated in a 911 call, and since there is no basis to find a constitutional right of privacy in such calls, even Social Security Numbers may not be redacted.\textsuperscript{597} As with other public records, a requester is entitled to access either the audio record, or a paper transcript.\textsuperscript{598} However, information concerning telephone numbers, addresses, or names obtained from a 911 database maintained

B. Employment Records\(^{602}\)

Public employee personnel records are generally regarded as public records.\(^{603}\) However, if any item contained in a personnel file or other employment records\(^{604}\) is not a “record” of the office, or is subject to an exception, it may be withheld. We recommend that Human Resource officers prepare a list of information and records in the office’s personnel files that are subject to withholding, including the explanation and legal authority related to each item. The office can then use this list for prompt and consistent responses to public records requests. A sample list can be found at the end of this chapter.

1. Non-Records

To the extent that any item contained in a personnel file is not a “record,” i.e., does not serve to document the organization, operations, etc., of the public office, it is not a public record and need not be disclosed.\(^{605}\) Based on this reasoning, the Ohio Supreme Court has found that in most instances the home addresses of public employees kept by their employers solely for administrative convenience are not “records” of the office.\(^{606}\) Although Ohio case law is silent on other specific non-record personnel items, a public office may want to evaluate emergency telephone numbers, employee banking information, insurance beneficiary designations, and other items maintained as employment records which may not serve to document the activities of the office. Non-record items may be redacted from materials which are otherwise records.

2. Names and Dates of Birth of Public Officials and Employees

“Each public office or person responsible for public records shall maintain a database or a list that includes the name and date of birth of all public officials and employees elected to or employed by that public office. The database or list is a public record and shall be made available upon a request made pursuant to section149.43 of the Revised Code.”\(^{607}\)

\(^{601}\) R.C. 149.57(D)(1)(b).

\(^{602}\) The following categories may not include all exceptions (or inclusions) which could apply to every public office’s personnel records.

\(^{604}\) The term “personnel file” has no single definition in public records law. See State ex rel. Morgan v. City of New Lexington, 112 Ohio St.3d 33, 2006-Ohio-6365, at ¶57 (inferring that “records that are the functional equivalent of personnel files exist and are in the custody of the city’ where a respondent claimed that no personnel files designated by the respondent existed); Cwyvar v. Jackson Twp. Bd. of Trs. (5th Dist.), 178 Ohio App.3d 345, 2006-Ohio-5011, at ¶31 (finding that, where the appellant requested only the complete personnel file and not the records relating to an individual’s employment, that “[i]t is the responsibility of the person making the public records request to identify the records with reasonable clarity.”).

\(^{605}\) State ex rel. McCleary v. Roberts, 88 Ohio St.3d 365, 367, 2000-Ohio-345; State ex rel. Fant v. Enright (1993), 66 Ohio St.3d 186, 188 (stating that “[t]o the extent that any item contained in a personnel file is not a ‘record,’ i.e., does not serve to document the organization, etc., of the public office, it is not a public record and need not be disclosed.”).

\(^{606}\) State ex rel. Dispatch Printing Co. v. Johnson, 106 Ohio St.3d 160, 200-Ohio-4384, at ¶39 (explaining that an employee’s home address may constitute a “record” when it documents an office policy or practice, as when the employee’s work address is also the employee’s home address).

\(^{607}\) R.C. 149.434.
3. Resumes and Application Materials

There is no public records exception which generally protects resumes and application materials obtained by public offices in the hiring process.\(^{608}\) The Ohio Supreme Court has found that the public has “an unquestioned public interest in the qualifications of potential applicants for positions of authority in public employment.”\(^{609}\) For example, when a city board of education used a private search firm to help hire a new treasurer, it was required to disclose the names and resumes of the interviewees.\(^{610}\) The fact that a public office has promised confidentiality to applicants is irrelevant.\(^{611}\) A public office’s obligation to turn over application materials and resumes extends to records in the sole possession of private search firms used in the hiring process.\(^{612}\) As with any other category of record, if an exception for home address, Social Security Number, or other specific item applies, it may be used to redact only the protected information.

Application Materials Not “Kept By” a Public Office: Application materials may not be public records if they are not “kept by”\(^{613}\) the office at the time of the request. In State ex rel. Cincinnati Enquirer v. Cincinnati Board of Education,\(^{614}\) the school board engaged a private search firm to assist in its search for a new superintendent. During the interview process, the school board members reviewed and then returned all application materials and resumes submitted by the candidates. The Enquirer made a public records request for any resumes, documents, etc., related to the superintendent search. Because no copies of the materials had been provided to the board at any time outside the interview setting and had never been “kept”, the court denied the writ of mandamus.\(^{614}\) Keep in mind that this case is limited to a narrow set of facts, including compliance with records retention schedules, in returning such materials.

4. Background Investigations

Background investigations are not subject to any general public records exception,\(^{615}\) although specific statutes may except defined background investigation materials kept by specific public offices.\(^{616}\)

However, criminal history “rap sheets” obtained from the federal National Crime Information Center system (NCIC) or through the state Law Enforcement Automated Data System (LEADS) are subject to a number of statutory exceptions.\(^{617}\)

5. Evaluations and Disciplinary Records

Employee evaluations are not subject to any general public records exception.\(^{618}\) Likewise, records of disciplinary actions involving an employee are not excepted.\(^{619}\) Specifically, the CLEIRs exception does not apply to routine office discipline or personnel matters,\(^{620}\) even when such matters are the subject of an internal investigation within a law enforcement agency.\(^{621}\)

6. Physical Fitness, Psychiatric, and Polygraph Examinations

As used in the Ohio Public Records Act, the term “medical records” is limited to records generated and maintained in the process of medical treatment (see “Medical Records” below). Accordingly, records of examinations performed for the purpose of determining fitness for hiring or for continued employment, including physical fitness,\(^{622}\) psychiatric,\(^{623}\) and psychological\(^{624}\) examinations, are not excepted from disclosure as “medical records.” Similarly, polygraph, or “lie detector,” examinations are not “medical records,” nor do they fall under the CLEIRs exception when performed in connection with hiring.\(^{625}\) Note, though, that a separate exception does apply to “medical information” pertaining to those professionals covered under R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(c).

While fitness for employment records do not fit within the definition of “medical records,” they may nonetheless be excepted from disclosure under the so-called “catch all” provision of the Public Records Act as “records the release of which is prohibited by state or federal law.”\(^{626}\) Specifically, the federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and its implementing regulations\(^{627}\) permit employers to require employees and applicants to whom they have offered employment to undergo medical examination and/or inquiry into their ability to perform job-related functions.\(^{628}\) Information regarding medical condition or history must be collected and kept on separate forms and in separate medical files, and must be treated as confidential, except as otherwise provided by the ADA. As non-public records, the examinations may constitute “confidential personal information” under Ohio’s Personal Information Systems Act.\(^{629}\)

7. Medical Records

“Medical records” are not public records,\(^{630}\) and a public office may withhold any medical records in a personnel file. As noted above, however, only those records that meet the definition of “medical records,” i.e., that are generated and maintained in the process of medical treatment,\(^{631}\) may be

8. School Records

Education records, which include but are not limited to school transcripts, attendance records, and discipline records, that are directly related to a student and maintained by the educational institution, as well as personally identifiable information from education records, are generally protected from disclosure by the school itself through the federal Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA). However, when a student or former student directly provides such records to a public office they are not protected by FERPA 635 and are considered public records.

9. Social Security Numbers and Taxpayer Records

Social Security Numbers (SSNs) should be redacted before the disclosure of public records. 636 The Ohio Supreme Court has held that although the Federal Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. §552a) does not expressly prohibit release of one’s SSN, the Act does create an expectation of privacy as to the use and disclosure of the SSN. Ohio statutes or administrative code may provide other exceptions for SSNs for specific employees 637 or in particular locations, 638 and/or upon request. 639 Information obtained from municipal tax returns is confidential. 640 One Attorney General Opinion found that W-2 federal tax forms prepared and maintained by a township as an employer are public records. However, W-2 forms filed as part of a municipal income tax return are confidential. 641 W-4 forms are confidential pursuant to 26 U.S.C. 6103(b)(2)(A) as “return information,” which includes “data with respect to the determination of the existence of liability (or the amount thereof) of any person for any tax.”

10. Residential and Familial Information of Listed Safety Officers

As detailed elsewhere in this book, the residential and familial information 642 of certain listed public employees may be withheld from disclosure. 643

Courts have held that collective bargaining agreements concerning the confidentiality of records cannot prevail over the Public Records Act. For example, a union may not legally bar the production of available public records through a provision in a collective bargaining agreement. 644

C. Residential and Familial Information of Covered Professions that are not Public Records

Residential and Familial Information Defined: The "residential and familial information" of peace officers, parole officers, prosecuting attorneys, assistant prosecuting attorneys, correctional employees, youth services employees, firefighters, or emergency medical technicians (EMTs), and investigators of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation is excepted from mandatory disclosure under the Ohio Public Records Act. "Residential and familial information" means any information that discloses any of the following about individuals in the listed employment categories (see following chart):

For purposes of this section, "covered professions" is the term used to describe all of the persons covered under the residential and familial exception (i.e. peace officer, firefighter, etc.).

R.C. 149.43(A)(7); For purposes of this statute, "peace officer" has the same meaning as in R.C. 109.71 and also includes the superintendent and troopers of the state highway patrol; it does not include the sheriff of a county or a supervisory employee who, in the absence of the sheriff, is authorized to stand in for, exercise the authority of, and perform the duties of the sheriff, R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(g).

State ex rel. Bardwell v. Rocky River Police Dept., 8th Dist. No. 91022, 2009-Ohio-727, at ¶¶31-46 (providing that the home address of an elected law director who at times serves as a prosecutor is not a public record, pursuant to R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(p) in conjunction with (7)(a)).

R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(g) (providing that "[a]s used in divisions (A)(7) and (B)(5) of this section, 'correctional employee' means any employee of the department of rehabilitation and correction who in the course of performing the employee's job duties has or has had contact with inmates and persons under supervision.").

R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(g) (providing that "[a]s used in divisions (A)(7) and (B)(5) of this section, 'youth services employee' means any employee of the department of youth services who in the course of performing the employee's job duties has or has had contact with children committed to the custody of the department of youth services.").

R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(g) (providing that "[a]s used in divisions (A)(7) and (B)(9) of this section, 'firefighter' means any regular, paid or volunteer, member of a lawfully constituted fire department of a municipal corporation, township, fire district, or village.").

R.C. 149.43(A)(7)(g): "[a]s used in divisions (A)(7) and (B)(9) of this section, 'EMT' means EMT's-basic, EMT's-I, and paramedic that provide emergency medical services for a public emergency medical service organization. 'Emergency medical service organization', 'EMT-basic', 'EMT-I,' and 'paramedic' have the same meanings as in section 4765.01 of the Revised Code."

D. Court Records

Although records kept by the courts of Ohio meet the definition of public records under the Ohio Public Records Act, most court records are subject to additional rules concerning access.

1. Courts’ Supervisory Power Over Their Own Records

Ohio courts are subject to the Rules of Superintendence for the Courts of Ohio, adopted by the Supreme Court of Ohio. The Rules of Superintendence establish rights and duties regarding court case documents and administrative documents, starting with the statement that “[c]ourt records are presumed open to public access.” Sup. R. 45(A). While similar to the Ohio Public Records Act, the Rules of Superintendence contain some additional or different provisions, including language:

- Allowing courts to adopt a policy limiting the number of records they will release per month unless the requestor certifies that there is no intended commercial use. Sup. R. 45(B)(3).
- For Internet records, allowing courts to announce that a large attachment or exhibit was not scanned but is available by direct access. Sup. R. 45(C)(1).
- Establishing definitions of “court record,” “case document,” “administrative document,” “case file,” and other terms. Sup. R. 44(A) through (M).
- A process for the sealing of part or all of any case document, including a process for any person to request access to a case document or information that has been granted limited public access. Sup. R. 45(F).
- Requiring that documents filed with the court omit or redact personal identifiers that might contribute to identity theft. The personal identifiers would instead be submitted on a separate standard form submitted only to the court, clerk of courts and parties. Sup. R. 45(D).

(this is a partial list – see Sup. Rules 44-47 for all provisions.)

The provisions of Rules 44 through 47 of the Rules of Superintendence apply to all court administrative documents, but only apply to court case documents in actions commenced on or after the effective date of the rule.

The Rules of Superintendence for the Courts of Ohio are currently available online at: http://www.sconet.state.oh.us/LegalResources/Rules/superintendence/Superintendence.pdf.

2. Rules of Court Procedure

Rules of Procedure, which are also adopted through the Ohio Supreme Court, can create exceptions to public record disclosure. Examples include certain records related to grand jury proceedings, and most juvenile court records.

3. Sealing Statutes

Where court records have been properly expunged or sealed, they are not available for public disclosure. Even absent statutory authority, trial courts have the inherent authority to seal court records.
records in unusual and exceptional circumstances.\textsuperscript{674} When exercising this authority, however, courts should balance the individual's privacy interest against the government's legitimate need to provide public access to records of criminal proceedings.\textsuperscript{675}

4. Non-Records

As with any public office, courts are not obligated to provide documents that are not "records" of the court. Examples include a judge's handwritten notes,\textsuperscript{676} completed juror questionnaires,\textsuperscript{677} Social Security Numbers in certain court records,\textsuperscript{678} and unsolicited letters sent to a judge.\textsuperscript{679}

5. General Court Records Retention

See Sup. R. 26 governing Court Records Management and Retention, and the following Rules setting records retention schedules for each type of court, Sup. R. 26.01 through Sup. R. 26.05.

Other Case Law Prior to Rules of Superintendence

Constitutional Right of Access: Based on constitutional principles, and separate from the public records statute, Ohio common law grants the public a presumptive right to inspect and copy court records.\textsuperscript{480} Both the United States and the Ohio Constitutions create a qualified right\textsuperscript{481} of public access to court proceedings that have historically been open to the public and in which the public's access plays a significantly positive role.\textsuperscript{682} This qualified right includes access to the live proceedings, as well as to the records of the proceedings.\textsuperscript{683}

Even where proceedings are not historically public, the Ohio Supreme Court has determined that "any restriction shielding court records from public scrutiny should be narrowly tailored to serve the competing interests of protecting the individual's privacy without unduly burdening the public's right of access."\textsuperscript{684} This high standard exists because the purpose of this common-law right "is to promote understanding of the legal system and to assure public confidence in the courts."\textsuperscript{685} But, the constitutional right of public access is not absolute, and courts have traditionally exercised "supervisory power over their own records and files."\textsuperscript{686}
The Ohio Public Records Act applies to court records.\(^687\) Once an otherwise non-public document is filed with the court (such as pretrial discovery material), that document becomes a public record when it becomes part of the court record.\(^688\)

However, in circumstances where the release of the court records would prejudice the rights of the parties in an ongoing criminal or civil proceeding, a narrow exception to public access exists.\(^689\) Under such circumstances, the court may impose a protective order prohibiting release of the records.\(^690\)

Constitutional Access and Statutory Access Compared: The Ohio Supreme Court has distinguished between (1) public records access and (2) constitutional access to jurors’ names and home addresses and other personal information contained in their responses to written juror questionnaires.\(^691\) While such information is not a “public record,”\(^692\) it is presumed to be subject to public disclosure based on constitutional principles.\(^693\) The Court explained that the personal information of these private citizens is not “public record” because it does nothing to “shed light” on the operations of the court.\(^694\) However, there is a constitutional presumption that this information will be publicly accessible in criminal proceedings.\(^695\) As a result, the jurors’ personal information will be publicly accessible unless there is an “overriding interest based on findings that closure is essential to preserve higher values and is narrowly tailored to serve that interest.”\(^696\)

Nevertheless, the Ohio Supreme Court also concluded, in a unanimous decision, that Social Security Numbers contained in criminal case files are appropriately redacted before public disclosure.\(^697\) According to the Court, permitting the court clerk to redact SSNs before disclosing court records “does not contravene the purpose of the Public Records Act, which is ‘to expose government activity to public scrutiny.’” Revealing individuals’ Social Security Numbers that are contained in criminal records does not shed light on any government activity.\(^698\)

E. HIPAA & HITECH

Regulations implementing the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 ("HIPAA") became fully effective in April 2003. Among the regulations written to implement HIPAA was the "Privacy Rule," which is a collection of federal regulations seeking to maintain the confidentiality of individually identifiable health information. For some public offices, the Privacy Rule and HITECH affect the manner in which they respond to public records requests.

1. HIPAA Definitions

The Privacy Rule protects all individually identifiable health information, which is called "protected health information" or "PHI." PHI is information that could reasonably lead to the identification of an individual, either by itself or in combination with other reasonably available information. The HIPAA regulations apply to the three "covered entities" listed below:

a. Healthcare provider: Generally, a "healthcare provider" is any entity providing mental or health services that electronically transmits individually identifiable health information for any financial or administrative purpose subject to HIPAA.

b. A health plan: A "health plan" is an individual or group plan that provides or pays the cost of medical care, such as an HMO.

c. Healthcare clearinghouse: A "healthcare clearinghouse" is any entity that processes health information from one format into another for particular purposes, such as a billing service.

Legal counsel should be consulted if there is uncertainty about whether or not a particular public office is a "covered entity" or "business associate" of a covered entity for purposes of HIPAA.

2. HIPAA Does Not Apply Where Ohio Public Records Act Requires Release

The Privacy Rule permits a covered entity to use and disclose protected health information as required by other law, including state law. Thus, where state public records law mandates that a covered entity disclose protected health information, the covered entity is permitted by the Privacy Rule to make the disclosure, provided the disclosure complies with and is limited to the relevant requirements of the public records law.

For this purpose, note that the Ohio Public Records Act only mandates disclosure when no other exception applies.

So, where public records law only permits, and does not mandate, the disclosure of protected health information - where exceptions or other qualifications apply to exempt the protected health information from the state law's disclosure requirement - then such disclosures are not "required by law" and would not fall within the Privacy Rule. For example, if state public records law includes an exception that affords a state agency discretion not to disclose medical or other information, the disclosure of such records is not required by the public records law, and therefore the Privacy Rule would cover those records.

In such cases, a covered entity only would be able to make the disclosure if permitted by another provision of the Privacy Rule. In a 2006 case where no other public records exception applied to the subject records, the Ohio Supreme Court held: "[a] review of HIPAA reveals a "required by law" exception to the prohibition against disclosure of protected health information. With respect to this position, Section 164.512(a)(1), Title 45, C.F.R., provides, "A covered entity may disclose protected health information to the extent that such disclosure is required by law. (Emphasis added). And the Ohio Public Records Act requires disclosure of records unless the disclosure or release is prohibited by federal law. R.C. 149.43(A (1)(v). The Court found the interaction of the federal and state law somewhat circular, but resolved it in favor of disclosure under the Ohio Public Records Act.

Based on the “required by law” exception described above, the remaining applications of HIPAA, below, are either HIPAA’s own exceptions to its application, or are conditioned on the existence of another non-HIPAA exception before HIPAA will apply to the subject records.

3. PHI in Personnel Files

HIPAA privacy restrictions do not affect the release of PHI in employment records held by a covered entity in its sole role as an employer. When handling a public records request, a covered entity need not necessarily redact PHI from the personnel file or obtain the employee’s authorization before releasing the records. However, other state and/or federal catch-all exceptions requiring redaction of the same information may still apply.

4. PHI in Law Enforcement Investigations

Basically, where the PHI is necessary to further a legitimate law enforcement purpose, a covered entity may release PHI to law enforcement officials without the patient’s prior authorization.

Specifically, the situations in which such release is permissible are as follows: (1) where state or federal law requires the release, including a valid court order, warrant, or subpoena; (2) to identify or locate a suspect, fugitive, material witness, or missing person; (3) when a crime victim is unable to consent, the PHI is needed to determine whether a crime has been committed, the PHI will not be used against the victim, the investigation will be materially and adversely affected by waiting for the victim to consent, and the covered entity determines, in its professional judgment, that release will serve the victim’s best interests; (4) when a crime is suspected in a person’s death; (5) where the PHI constitutes evidence of a crime that occurred on the covered entity’s premises; (6) in an emergency if necessary to alert law enforcement to the commission of a crime, the location of the crime or the victims, and the identity, description, or location of the alleged perpetrator.

5. PHI in Dispatch Calls

A covered entity, such as an EMS organization, may disclose PHI where disclosure is necessary to prevent or lessen a serious and imminent threat to the safety and health of an individual or the public and disclosure is made to persons reasonably able to prevent or lessen the threat, including the target of the threat if appropriate. For example, police and EMS calls that disclose a patient’s medical condition in order to dispatch appropriate medical or emergency assistance do not violate HIPAA’s Privacy Rule.

6. PHI Disclosure for Health Care Operations

A covered entity may disclose PHI for the purpose of performing its health care operations such as treatment of patients or collection of payments.\(^{716}\) But a covered entity must restrict the scope of any and all disclosures to the minimum necessary to accomplish the intended purpose.\(^ {717}\)

7. PHI in Directory Information

A covered entity may release directory information to members of the public who call and identify the patient by name, but the individual must be given the opportunity to restrict or opt out of such directory disclosures prior to the disclosure or use.\(^{718}\) “Directory information” includes a medical patient’s full name, location in the medical facility, and a description of the patient’s general condition that does not communicate specific information.\(^{719}\)

In an emergency situation, when patients are unable to object to disclosure of their directory information or it is not practicable to offer the patient the opportunity to do so, the covered entity may disclose directory information if it determines that disclosure is in the patient’s best interest.\(^{720}\) Any such disclosure must be consistent with the patient’s known preferences, and the patient must be given the opportunity to opt-out of the disclosure as soon as practicable.\(^ {721}\)

The Ohio Open Meetings Act

Overview of the Ohio Open Meetings Act

The Ohio Open Meetings Act requires public bodies in Ohio to conduct all official business in open meetings that the public may attend and observe. Public bodies must provide advance notice to the public indicating when and where each meeting will take place, and in the case of special meetings, the specific topics that will be discussed. Full and accurate minutes of the meetings must be taken and made available to the public, except in the case of permissible closed-door sessions.

Closed-door sessions, or executive sessions, are convened by a public body after a vote, and attended by only the members of the public body and persons they invite. Executive sessions may be held for only a few specific purposes, and no vote or other decision on the matter(s) discussed may take place during the executive session.

If any person believes that a public body has violated the Ohio Open Meetings Act, that person may file an injunctive action in the common pleas court to compel the public body to obey the Act. If an injunction is issued, the public body must correct its actions and pay court costs, a fine of $500, and reasonable attorney fees that are subject to possible reduction by the court. If the court does not issue an injunction, and the court finds that the lawsuit was frivolous, it may order the person who filed the suit to pay the public body’s court costs and reasonable attorney fees. Any action taken by a public body while that body is in violation of the Ohio Open Meetings Act is invalid. A member of a public body who violates an injunction imposed for a violation of the Ohio Open Meetings Act may be subject to removal from office.

Like the Ohio Public Records Act, the Ohio Open Meetings Act is intended to be read broadly in favor of openness. However, while they share an underlying intent and may both apply in a given set of circumstances, the terms and definitions of the two laws are not interchangeable: the Ohio Public Records Act applies to the records of public offices; the Ohio Open Meetings Act addresses meetings of public bodies.

A Note about Case Law

When the Ohio Supreme Court issues a decision interpreting laws passed by the General Assembly, that decision becomes part of a body of case law that must be followed by courts throughout the state. Ohio Supreme Court decisions involving the Ohio Public Records Act are plentiful, because a person aggrieved by an alleged violation may initiate a legal action at any level of the judicial system: common pleas court, court of appeals, or Ohio Supreme Court. By contrast, an action to enforce the Ohio Open Meetings Act must be initiated in a court of common pleas. Common pleas decisions in Open Meetings Act cases are often appeals, but rarely reach the Ohio Supreme Court. Consequently, the bulk of case law on this topic comes from courts of appeal. Their opinions are binding on lower courts within their district, and instructive to other courts in determining how to interpret the Ohio Open Meetings Act.
I. Chapter One: “Public Body” and “Meeting” Defined

Only a “public body” is required to comply with the Ohio Open Meetings Act and conduct its business in open “meetings.” A “meeting” is defined as any prearranged gathering of a public body by a majority of its members to discuss public business.\(^{722}\) We begin by defining which governmental entities are, and are not, “public bodies” under the Act.

A. “Public Body”

1. Statutory Definition – R.C. 121.22 (B)(1)

The Ohio Open Meetings Act defines a “public body” as:

a. Any board, commission, committee, council, or similar decision-making body of a state agency, institution, or authority, and any legislative authority or board, commission, committee, council, agency, authority, or similar decision-making body of any county, township, municipal corporation, school district, or other political subdivision or local public institution;\(^{723}\)

b. Any committee or subcommittee thereof;\(^{724}\) or

c. A court of jurisdiction of a sanitary district organized wholly for the purpose of providing a water supply for domestic, municipal, and public use when meeting for the purpose of the appointment, removal, or reappointment of a member of the board of directors of such a district or for any other matter related to such a district other than litigation involving the district.\(^{725}\)

2. Identifying Public Bodies

The term “public body” applies to many different decision-making bodies at the state and local level. Where it is unclear, Ohio courts have applied several factors in determining what constitutes a “public body” for purposes of the Ohio Open Meetings Act, including:

a. The name or official title of the entity;\(^{726}\)

b. The membership composition of the entity;\(^{727}\)

c. Whether the entity engages in decision-making;\(^{728}\)

d. Whom the entity advises or to whom it reports;\(^{729}\) and

e. The manner in which the entity was created.\(^{730}\)

\(^{725}\) R.C. 121.22(B)(1)(c). NOTE: R.C. 121.22(G) prohibits executive sessions for public bodies defined in R.C. 121.22(B)(1)(c).

(10th Dist.), 147 Ohio App.3d 460, 2001-Ohio-8751, at ¶62 (determining that, in its role of reviewing and evaluating proposals and making a recommendation to the Ohio Rail Development Commission, the Selection Committee made decisions).

3. Close-up - Applying the definition of “public body”

While there is limited Ohio Supreme Court case law interpreting the Ohio Open Meetings Act, decisions from Ohio courts of appeals are instructive in determining how to apply the Act’s provisions. Using the above factors, the following types of entities have been found to be public bodies:

- A selection committee established on a temporary basis by a state agency for the purpose of evaluating responses to a request for proposals and making a recommendation to a commission.\(^{731}\)
- An urban design review board that provides advice and recommendations to a city manager and city council about land development.\(^{732}\)
- A board of hospital governors of a joint township district hospital.\(^{733}\)
- A citizens’ advisory committee of a county children services board.\(^{734}\)
- A board of directors of a county agricultural society.\(^{735}\)

Courts have found that the Ohio Open Meetings Act does not apply to individual public officials (as opposed to public bodies) or to meetings held by individual officials.\(^{736}\) Moreover, if an individual public official creates a group solely pursuant to his or her executive authority or as a delegation of that authority, the Ohio Open Meetings Act probably does not apply to the group’s gatherings.\(^{737}\)

However, at least one court has determined that a selection committee whose members were appointed by the chair of a public body, not by formal action of the body, is nevertheless itself a public body and subject to the Open Meetings Act.\(^{738}\)

4. When the Open Meetings Act Applies to Private Bodies

Some otherwise private bodies are considered “public bodies” for purposes of the Open Meetings Act when they are organized pursuant to state statute and are statutorily authorized to receive and expend government funds for a governmental purpose.739 For example, an Equal Opportunity Planning Association was found to be a public body within the meaning of the Act based on: (1) its designation by the Ohio Department of Development as a community action organization pursuant to statute;740 (2) its responsibility for spending substantial sums of public funds in the operation of programs for the state welfare; and (3) its obligation to comply with state statutory provisions in order to keep its status as a community action organization.741

B. Entities to Which the Open Meetings Act Does Not Apply

1. Public Bodies that are NEVER Subject to the Ohio Open Meetings Act:742

- The Ohio General Assembly743
- Grand juries744
- An audit conference conducted by the State Auditor or independent certified public accountants with officials of the public office that is the subject of the audit745
- The Organized Crime Investigations Commission746
- Child fatality review boards747

2. Public Bodies that are SOMETIMES Subject to the Open Meetings Act:

a. Public Bodies Meeting for Particular Purposes

Some otherwise public bodies are not subject to the Ohio Open Meetings Act when they meet for particular purposes. Those are:

- The Adult Parole Authority, when its hearings are conducted at a correctional institution for the sole purpose of interviewing inmates to determine pardon or parole;748
- The State Medical Board,749 the State Board of Nursing,750 the State Board of Pharmacy,751 and the State Chiropractic Board,752 when determining whether to suspend a certificate without a prior hearing;753 and

b. Public Bodies Handling Particular Business

Other public bodies otherwise subject to the Ohio Open Meetings Act may close their meetings by unanimous vote of the members present in order to handle particular business. Those public bodies are:

- The Controlling Board;
- Development Financing Advisory Council;
- Industrial Technology and Enterprise Advisory Council;
- Tax Credit Authority;
- Community improvement corporations; and
- Minority Development Financing Advisory Board.

These public bodies may vote to close their meetings in order to protect the interest of applicants or the possible investment of public funds when considering “whether to grant assistance for purposes of community or economic development,” in order to evaluate:

- Marketing plans;
- Specific business strategies;
- Production techniques and trade secrets;
- Financial projections; and
- Personal financial statements, including tax records or other similar information not open to public inspection.

C. “Meeting”

1. Definition

The Ohio Open Meetings Act applies to members of a public body when they are conducting the public’s business, which they must do in the context of an open meeting. As stated previously, a “meeting” is: (1) a prearranged gathering; (2) a majority of members of a public body; (3) for the purpose of discussing public business.

a. Prearranged

The Open Meetings Act addresses prearranged discussions, but does not prohibit impromptu encounters between members of public bodies, such as hallway discussions. One court has found that an unsolicited and unexpected e-mail sent from one board member to other board members may qualify as a prearranged discussion.

members is clearly not a prearranged meeting, nor is a spontaneous one-on-one telephone conversation between two board members.

b. Majority of Members

For there to be a “meeting” as defined under the Open Meetings Act, “a majority of a public body’s members must come together.” The term “majority” applies not only to the whole body, but also to a committee or subcommittee of that body. For instance, if a council is comprised of seven members, four would constitute a majority for purposes of this requirement. However, if the council appoints a three-member finance committee, two of those members would constitute a majority of the finance committee. In other words, the finance committee is a “public body” in and of itself, and must also comply with the Ohio Open Meetings Act in all respects.

1) Attending in Person

A member of a public body must be present in person at a meeting in order to be considered present, vote, or be counted as part of a quorum, unless a specific law permits otherwise. The Ohio Board of Regents, for example, is specifically authorized by law to meet via videoconferencing. In the absence of comparable statutory authority, other public bodies may not meet via electronic or telephonic conferencing.

2) “Round-robin” or “Serial” Meetings

Some courts have concluded that one-on-one conversations between individual members of a public body, either in person or by telephone, do not violate the Ohio Open Meetings Act. However, conducting back-to-back discussions of the same public business with less than a majority of members participating in each discussion is viewed as a single meeting attended by a majority of the members. Such “round-robin” or “serial” meetings violate the Ohio Open Meetings Act.

c. Discussing Public Business

With narrow exceptions, the Ohio Open Meetings Act requires the members of a public body to discuss and deliberate on official business only in open meetings. In this context, “discussion” is the exchange of words, comments or ideas by the members of a public body; “deliberation” means the act of weighing and examining reasons for and against a choice. One court describes “deliberation” as a thorough discussion of all factors involved a careful weighing of

In evaluating whether particular gatherings of public officials constituted “meetings,” several courts have opined that the Ohio Open Meetings Act “is intended to apply to situations where there has been actual formal action taken; to wit, formal deliberation concerning the public business.”\footnote{Holeski v. Lawrence (11th Dist. 1993), 85 Ohio App.3d 824, 829 (finding that where the majority of members of a public body meet at a prearranged gathering in a “ministerial, fact-gathering capacity,” the third characteristic of a meeting is not satisfied – i.e., there are no discussions or deliberations occurring in which case, no open meeting is required; Theile v. Harris (June 11, 1986), 1st Dist. No. C-860103, unreported (finding that a prearranged discussion between prosecutor and majority of board was not violation where conducted for investigative and information-seeking purposes); Piekutowski v. S. Cent. Ohio Educ. Serv. Ctr. Governing Bd. (4th Dist.), 161 Ohio App.3d 372, 379, 2005-Ohio-2868, at ¶¶14-18 (finding that it is permissible for a board to gather information on proposed school district in private, but it cannot deliberate privately in the absence of specifically authorized purposes).} By contrast, gatherings strictly of an investigative and information-seeking nature which do not involve actual deliberations of public business would not be “meetings” for purposes of the Ohio Open Meetings Act.\footnote{Theile v. Harris (June 11, 1986), 1st Dist. No. C-860103, unreported.}

d. Gatherings Deemed Not to be Discussions or Deliberations

Courts have evaluated whether particular gatherings or exchanges are “discussions” or “deliberations” that must take place in public, in accordance with the Ohio Open Meetings Act. The following have been found by some courts not to constitute “discussions” or “deliberations”:

- Question-and-answer sessions between board members and others who were not public officials, unless a majority of the board members also entertain a discussion of public business with one another;\footnote{Holeski v. Lawrence (11th Dist. 1993), 85 Ohio App.3d 824, 830 (noting that “[t]he Sunshine Law is instead intended to prohibit the majority of a board from meeting and discussing public business with one another”).}
- Conversations between employees of a public body;\footnote{Kandell v. City Council of Kent (Aug. 2, 1991), 11th Dist. No. 90-P-2255, unreported; State ex rel. Bd. of Educ. for Fairview Park Sch. Dist. v. Bd. of Educ. for Rocky River Sch. Dist. (1988), 40 Ohio St.3d 136, 140 (determining that an employee’s discussions with a superintendent did not amount to secret deliberations within the meaning of R.C. 121.221(H)).}
- A presentation to a public body by its legal counsel when the public body receives legal advice;\footnote{Theile v. Harris (June 11, 1986), 1st Dist. No. C-860103, unreported.}
- A press conference.\footnote{Holeski v. Lawrence (11th Dist. 1993), 85 Ohio App.3d 824.}

2. Close-up: Applying the Definition of “Meeting”

When a gathering satisfies all three elements of a meeting, it is a “meeting,” regardless of whether the public body initiated the gathering itself, or whether it was initiated by another entity. Further, if the meeting is attended by majorities of multiple public bodies, the gathering may be construed to be separate “meetings” of each public body.\footnote{State ex rel. Fairfield Leader v. Ricketts (1990), 56 Ohio St.3d 97.}

a. Work Sessions

“Work sessions” or “workshops” are “meetings” when public business is discussed among a majority of the members of a public body at a prearranged time.\footnote{State ex rel. Singh v. Schoenfeld (May 4, 1993), 10th Dist. No. 92AP-188, 92AP-193, unreported.} These work sessions must be open to the public, properly noticed, and minutes must be maintained, just as with any other meeting.\footnote{State ex rel. Fairfield Leader v. Ricketts (1990), 56 Ohio St.3d 97.}
b. Quasi-judicial Hearings

Public bodies whose responsibilities include adjudication duties, such as boards of tax appeals and state professional licensing boards, are referred to as “quasi-judicial” bodies. The Ohio Supreme Court has determined that public bodies conducting quasi-judicial hearings, “like all judicial bodies, [require] privacy to deliberate, i.e., to evaluate and resolve the disputes.” Accordingly, quasi-judicial hearings and the deliberations of public bodies when acting in their quasi-judicial capacities are not “meetings,” and are not subject to the Open Meetings Act.

c. County Political Party Central Committees

The convening of a county political party central committee for the purpose of conducting purely internal party affairs, unrelated to the committee’s duties of making appointments to vacated public offices, is not a “meeting” as defined by R.C. 121.22(B)(2). Thus, R.C. 121.22 does not apply to such a gathering.

d. Collective Bargaining

Collective bargaining meetings between public employers and employee organizations are private, and are not subject to the Ohio Open Meetings Act.

II. Chapter Two: Duties of a Public Body

The Ohio Open Meetings Act requires public bodies to provide: (A) openness; (B) notice; and (C) minutes.

A. Openness

The Open Meetings Act mandates that all meetings of a public body be open at all times. The Act is liberally construed requiring that public officials take official action and "conduct all deliberations upon official business only in open meetings unless the subject matter is specifically excepted by law."

1. Where Meetings May be Held

A public body must conduct its meetings in a venue that is open to the public. Although the Ohio Open Meetings Act does not specifically address where meetings must be held, some authority suggests that meetings must be held in a public meeting place that is within the geographical jurisdiction of the public body. Clearly, a meeting is not "open" where the doors to the meeting facility are locked.

Where space in the facility is too limited to accommodate all interested members of the public, closed circuit television may be an acceptable alternative. Although federal law requires that a meeting place be accessible to individuals with disabilities, this requirement has no Ohio Open Meetings Act ramifications.

2. Method of Voting

Unless a particular statute requires a specified method of voting, the public cannot insist on a particular form of voting. The body may use its own discretion in determining the method it will use, such as voice vote, show of hands, or roll call. The Open Meetings Act only defines a method of voting and requires a vote by roll call when a public body is adjourning into executive session. The Act does not specifically address the use of secret ballots; however, their use has only been addressed as it pertains to county political party central committees, which are uniquely hybrid private/public bodies. The Ohio Open Meetings Act declares that it shall be liberally construed to require public officials to take official action and conduct all deliberations only in open meetings unless the subject matter is officially excepted by law. Voting by secret ballot contradicts the openness requirement by hiding the decision-making process from public view.
3. Right to be Heard

Openness requires that a person be permitted to attend and observe a public meeting; however, it does not bestow the right to be heard at that meeting.\(^\text{802}\) A disruptive person waives the right to attend and may be removed.\(^\text{803}\)

4. Audio and Video Recording

Audio and video recording of a public meeting cannot be prohibited,\(^\text{804}\) but public bodies are permitted to establish reasonable rules regulating the use of recording equipment, such as requiring equipment to be silent, unobtrusive, self-contained, and self-powered to limit interference with the ability of others to hear, see, and participate in the meeting.\(^\text{805}\)

5. Executive Sessions

Executive sessions, which are discussed in detail below, are an exception to the openness requirement; however, public bodies may not vote or take official action in an executive session.\(^\text{806}\)

B. Notice

Every public body must establish, by rule, a reasonable method for notifying the public in advance of its meetings.\(^\text{807}\) The requirements for proper notice vary depending upon the type of meeting a public body is conducting.

1. Types of Meetings

   a. Regular Meetings

   “Regular meetings” are those held at prescheduled intervals,\(^\text{808}\) such as monthly or annual meetings. A public body must establish, by rule, a reasonable method that allows the public to determine the time and place of regular meetings.\(^\text{809}\)

\(^{803}\) Forman v. Blaser (Aug. 8, 1988), 3rd Dist. No. 13-87-12, unreported (stating that “[w]hen an audience becomes so uncontrollable that the public body cannot deliberate, it would seem that the audience waives its right to, or is estopped from claiming a right under the Sunshine Law to continue to observe the proceedings.”); see also Jones v. Heyman (11th Cir. 1989), 888 F.2d 1328, 1333 (finding no violation of 1st and 14th Amendments where disruptive person was removed from a public meeting).

\(^{806}\) R.C. 121.22(A); Mansfield City Counsel v. Richland City Council AFL-CIO (Dec. 24, 2003), 5th Dist. No. 03CA55, unreported (finding that that reaching a consensus to take no action on a pending matter, as reflected by members’ comments, is impermissible during an executive session).

\(^{807}\) R.C. 121.22(F).

\(^{809}\) See also Wyse v. Rupp (Sept. 15, 1995), 6th Dist. No. F-94-19, unreported (finding that a public body must specifically identify the time at which a public meeting will commence).
b. Special Meetings

A “special meeting” is any meeting other than a regular meeting. A public body must establish, by rule, a reasonable method that allows the public to determine the time, place, and purpose of special meetings.

- Public bodies must provide at least 24 hours advance notification of special meetings to all media outlets that have requested such notification.
- When a special meeting is held to discuss particular issues, the statement of the meeting’s purpose must specifically indicate those issues, and only those issues may be discussed at that meeting. When a special meeting is simply a rescheduled “regular” meeting occurring at a different time, the stated purpose may be noticed to the public as “general purposes.” Discussing matters not disclosed in the purpose statement of a special meeting, either in open session or executive session of the special meeting is a violation of the Open Meetings Act.

c. Emergency Meetings

An emergency meeting is a special meeting that is convened when a situation requires immediate official action. When an emergency meeting is scheduled, the public body must immediately notify all media outlets that have specifically requested such notice of the time, place and purpose of the emergency meeting. The purpose statement must comport with the specificity requirements discussed above.

2. Rules Requirement

The Ohio Open Meetings Act specifically requires public bodies to adopt rules establishing methods for notification. Those rules must include a provision for any person, upon request and payment of a reasonable fee, to obtain reasonable advance notification of all meetings at which any specific type of public business is to be discussed. The statute suggests that provisions for advance notification may include mailing the agenda of meetings to all subscribers on a mailing list or mailing notices in self-addressed, stamped envelopes provided by the person requesting notice.

Ricketts (1990), 56 Ohio St.3d 97, 100 (stating that “[t]he council either meets in a regular session or it does not, and any session that is not regular is special.”). 1988 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 029 (opining that “[w]hile the term ‘special meeting’ is not defined in R.C. 121.22, its use in context indicates that reference to all meetings other than ‘regular’ meetings was intended.”).

Of Educ., 74 Ohio St.3d 113, 119-120, 1995-Ohio-266 (policy adopted pursuant to R.C. 121.22(F) that required notice of “specific or general purposes” of special meeting was not violated when general notice was given that nonrenewal of contract would be discussed, even though ancillary matters were also discussed).

No. 95CA611, unreported (finding that although specific agenda items may be listed, use of agenda term “personnel” is sufficient for notice of special meeting).
815 Hoops v. Jerusalem Twp. Bd. of Tr. (Apr. 10, 1998), 6th Dist. No. L-97-1240, unreported (determining that business transacted at special meetings exceeded scope of published purpose and thus violated R.C. 121.22(F)).
816 Compare Neuvirth v. Bd.s. of Tr. of Bainbridge Twp. (June 29, 1981), 11th Dist. No. 919, unreported (determining that the subject matter of “emergency meeting” was not an emergency just because the Trustees postponed discussion until the last minute).
817 R.C. 121.22(F).
818 R.C. 121.22(F).
819 These requirements notwithstanding, many courts have found that actions taken by a public body are not invalid simply because the body failed to adopt notice rules. These courts reason that the purpose of the law’s invalidation section (R.C. 121.22(H)) is to invalidate actions taken where insufficient notice of the meeting was provided. See Doran v. Northmont Bd. of Educ. (2nd Dist.), 147 Ohio App.3d 268, 271, 2002-Ohio-386 (“Doran I”); Hoops v. Jerusalem Twp. Bd. of Tr. (Apr. 10, 1998), 6th Dist. No. L-97-1240, unreported; Barber v. Twinsburg Twp. (9th Dist. 1992), 73 Ohio App.3d 567.
3. Notice by Publication

Many public bodies routinely notify their local media of all regular, special, and emergency meetings, whether by rule or simply by practice. If the media misprints the meeting information, the public body will not be held responsible for violating the notice requirement so long as it transmitted accurate information to the media as required by its rule. Notice must be consistent and “actually reach the public” to satisfy the statute.

821 Doran v. Northmont Bd. Of Educ. (2nd Dist.), 147 Ohio App.3d 268, 272, 2002-Ohio-386 (“Doran I”) (concluding that where publication of the notice is at the newspaper’s discretion, such notice is not “reasonable notice” to the public).

822 White v. Clinton County Bd. of Cmm’r (1996), 76 Ohio St.3d 416, 420 (stating that “[k]eeping full minutes allows members of the public who are unable to attend the meetings in person to obtain complete and accurate information about the decision-making process of their government […] Accurate minutes can reflect the difficult decision-making process involved, and hopefully bring the public to a better understanding of why unpopular decisions are sometimes necessary”).

C. Minutes

1. Content of Minutes

A public body must keep full and accurate minutes of its meetings. Those minutes are not required to be a verbatim transcript of the proceedings, but must include enough facts and information to permit the public to understand and appreciate the rationale behind the public body’s decisions. Because executive sessions are not open to the public, the meeting minutes need to reflect only the general subject matter of the executive session via the motion to convene the session for a permissible purpose or purposes.

2. Making Minutes Available

A public body must promptly prepare, file, and make available its minutes for public inspection. The final version of the official minutes approved by members of the public body is a public record. Note that a draft version of the meeting minutes that is being circulated for approval is also a public record.

3. Medium on Which Minutes are Kept

The medium on which the official meeting minutes are kept is not addressed in either the Ohio Open Meetings Act or the Ohio Public Records Act, and may thus be determined by the public body itself. Some public bodies document that choice by adopting a formal rule or by passing a resolution or motion at a meeting that is reflected in the minutes. Many public bodies make a contemporaneous audio recording of the meeting to use as back-up in preparing written official minutes. The Ohio Attorney General has opined that such a recording constitutes a public record that must be made available for inspection upon request.

823 See generally State ex rel. Citizens for Open, Responsive & Accountable Gov’t v. Register (2007), 116 Ohio St.3d 88 (construing R.C. 121.22, 149.43, and 507.04 together, a township fiscal officer has a duty to maintain full and accurate minutes and records of the proceedings as well as the accounts and transactions of the board of township trustees); White v. Clinton County Bd. of Cmm’r (1996), 76 Ohio St.3d 416, 423 (determining that the minutes of board of county commissioners meetings are required to include more than a record of roll call votes); State ex rel. Ricketts (1990), 56 Ohio St.3d 97 (finding that because the members of a public body had met as a majority group, R.C. 121.22 applied, and minutes of the meeting were therefore necessary); State ex rel. Long v. Cardington Vill. Council, 92 Ohio St.3d 54, 57, 2001-Ohio-130 (finding that audiotapes that are later erased do not meet requirement to maintain).

827 2008 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 019 (opining that an audio tape recording of a meeting that is created for the purpose of taking notes to create an accurate record of the meeting is a public record for purposes of R.C. 149.43. The audio tape recording must be made available for public inspection and copying, and retained in accordance with the terms of the records retention schedule for such a record).
D. Modified Duties of Public Bodies Under Special Circumstances

1. Declared Emergency

During a declared emergency, R.C. 5502.24(B) provides a limited exception to fulfilling the requirements of the open meetings law. If, due to a declared emergency, it becomes “imprudent, inexpedient, or impossible to conduct the affairs of local government” at the regular or usual place, the governing body may meet at an alternate site previously designated (by ordinance, resolution, or other manner) as the emergency location of government. Further, the public body may exercise its powers and functions in the light of the exigencies of the emergency without regard to or compliance with time-consuming procedures and formalities of the Ohio Open Meetings Act. Even in an emergency, however, there is no exception to the “in person” meeting requirement of R.C. 121.22(C) and does not permit the public body to meet by teleconference.

2. Municipal Charters

The Ohio Open Meetings Act applies to public bodies at both the state and local government level. However, because the Ohio Constitution permits “home rule” (self-government), municipalities may adopt a charter under which their local governments operate. A charter municipality has the right to determine by charter the manner in which meetings will be held. Charter provisions take precedence over the Ohio Open Meetings Act where the two conflict. If a municipal charter includes specific guidelines regarding the conduct of meetings, the municipality must abide by those guidelines. In addition, if a charter expressly requires that all meetings of the public bodies must be open, the municipality may not adopt ordinances that permit executive session.

Wooster (9th Dist. 1982), 4 Ohio App.3d 240, 242-43 (find that a charter municipality, in the exercise of its sovereign powers of local self-government as established by the Ohio Constitution need not adhere to the strictures of R.C. 121.22, and noting that “i[we find nothing in the Wooster Charter which mandates that all meetings of the city council and/or the city planning commission must be open to the public”).
832 State ex rel. Lightfield v. Indian Hill (1994), 69 Ohio St.3d 441, 442 (determining that “[i]n matters of local self-government, if a portion of a municipal charter expressly conflicts with parallel state law, the charter provisions will prevail”).

III. Chapter Three: Executive Session

A. General Principles

An "executive session" is a conference between members of a public body from which the public is excluded. The public body, however, may invite anyone it chooses to attend an executive session. The Ohio Open Meetings Act strictly limits the use of executive sessions and places several limitations on their use, because they do not take place in public. First, there are limited reasons for which an executive session may be called. Second, there is a specific procedure that must be followed when a public body adjourns into an executive session. Finally, the public body may not take any formal action in an executive session; any formal action taken in an executive session is invalid.

Only matters specifically identified in R.C. 121.22(G) may be discussed in executive session, and executive session may be held only at a regular and special meetings. Other, intertwined issues may be discussed only if they have a direct bearing on the permitted matter(s). If a public body is challenged in court for discussions or deliberations held in executive session, the burden of proof lies with the public body to establish that one of the statutory exceptions permitted the executive session.

The Ohio Open Meetings Act does not prohibit the public body or one of its members from disclosing the information discussed in executive session. However, other provisions of law may prohibit such disclosure.

Note: The confidentiality afforded to executive session discussions does not affect the public records status of any documents that may be discussed. If a document is a "public record" and is not otherwise exempt under one of the exceptions to the Ohio Public Records Act, the record will still be subject to public disclosure notwithstanding the appropriateness of confidential discussions about it in executive session. For instance, if a public body properly discusses pending litigation in executive

B. Permissible Discussion Topics

There are very limited topics that the members of a public body may consider in executive session:

1. Certain Personnel Matters\(^{847}\)

A public body may adjourn into executive session:

- To consider the appointment, employment, dismissal, discipline, promotion, demotion, or compensation of a public employee or official; and
- To consider the investigation of charges or complaints against a public employee, official, licensee, or regulated individual, unless the employee, official, licensee, or regulated individual requests a public hearing;\(^{849}\) but
- A public body may not hold an executive session to consider the discipline of an elected official for conduct related to the performance of the official’s duties or to consider that person’s removal from office.

Appellate courts disagree on whether the discussion of personnel in an executive session must be limited to a specific individual, or may include broader discussion of employee matters. At least two appellate courts have held that the language of the Ohio Open Meetings Act clearly limits discussion in executive session to consideration of a specific employee’s employment, dismissal, etc.\(^{850}\) These decisions are based on the premise that the plain language in the Act requires that “all meetings of any public body are declared to be open to the public at all times”;\(^{851}\) thus, any exceptions to openness are to be drawn narrowly. A separate appellate court, however, looked to a different provision in the same statute that permits the public body to exclude the name of any person to be considered during the executive session as allowing general personnel discussions.\(^{852}\)

2. The Purchase of Property

A public body may adjourn into executive session to consider the purchase of property of any sort—real, personal, tangible, or intangible.\(^{853}\) A public body may also adjourn into executive session to consider the sale of real or personal property by competitive bid if disclosure of the information would result in a competitive advantage to the person whose personal, private interest is adverse to the general public interest. No member of a public body may use this exception as subterfuge to provide covert information to prospective buyers or sellers.

NOTE: This exception does not grant a substantive right to a public hearing. Such a right must exist elsewhere in Ohio or federal law before a person may demand a public hearing under this exception. See Davidson v. Sheffield-Sheffield Lake Bd. of Educ (May 23, 1990), 9th Dist. No. 89-Ca004624, unreported (citing Matheny v. Bd. of Educ. (1980), 62 Ohio St.2d 362, 368 (providing that “the term ‘public hearing’ in subdivision (G)(1) of this statute refers only to the hearings elsewhere provided by law”)); State ex rel. Harris v. Indus. Comm’n of Ohio (Dec. 14, 1996), 10th Dist. No. 96APE07-891, unreported.

3. Pending or Imminent Litigation

A public body may adjourn into executive session with the public body’s attorney to discuss a pending or imminent court action. Court action is "pending" if a lawsuit has been commenced or is "imminent" if it is on the point of happening. A public body may not use this exception to adjourn into executive session for discussions with a board member who also happens to be an attorney. The attorney should be the duly appointed counsel for the public body.

4. Collective Bargaining Matters

A public body may adjourn into executive session to prepare for, conduct, or review a collective bargaining strategy.

5. Matters Required to be Kept Confidential

A public body may adjourn into executive session to discuss matters required to be kept confidential by federal law, federal rules, or state statutes.

6. Security Matters

A public body may adjourn into executive session to discuss details of security arrangements and emergency response protocols where disclosure could be expected to jeopardize the security of the public body or public office.

7. Hospital Trade Secrets

A public body may adjourn into executive session to discuss trade secrets of a county hospital, a joint township hospital, or a municipal hospital.

8. Veterans Service Commission Applications

A Veterans Service Commission must hold an executive session when considering an applicant’s request for financial assistance, unless the applicant requests a public hearing. Note that, unlike the previous seven discussion topics, discussion of Veterans Service Commission applications in executive session is mandatory.

C. Proper Procedures for Executive Session

An executive session may only be held at a regular or special meeting, and must always begin and end in an open meeting. In order to begin an executive session, there must be both a proper motion, and a roll call vote.

1. The Motion

A motion for executive session must specifically identify “which one or more of the approved matters listed . . . are to be considered at the executive session.” Thus, if the purpose of the executive session is to discuss one of the matters included in the personnel exception, the motion must specify which of those specific matters will be discussed; e.g., “I move to go into executive session to consider the promotion or compensation of a public employee.” It is not sufficient to simply state “personnel” as a reason for executive session, though the motion does not need to specify by name the person who is to be discussed. Similarly, listing every permitted executive session topic in the motion, regardless of whether that specific topic will actually be discussed, is equally vague and would likely be viewed by the courts as improper.

2. The Roll Call Vote

Members of a public body may adjourn into executive session only after a majority of a quorum of the public body approves the motion by a roll call vote. The vote may not be by acclamation or by show of hands, and the vote must be recorded in the minutes.

Although a proper motion is required before entering executive session, a motion to end the executive session and return to public session is not necessary because the closed-door discussion is “off the record.” Similarly, no minutes are taken during executive session. The minutes of the meeting need only document a motion to go into executive session that properly identifies the permissible topic or topics that will be discussed, as well as the return to open session (e.g., “We are now back on the record.”).

No. 92-T-4692, unreported (determining that “a reference to ‘police personnel issues’ does not technically satisfy [the R.C. 121.22(G)(1)] requirement because it does not specify which of the approved purposes was applicable in this instance”); 1988 Ohio Op. IV. Chapter Four: Enforcement & Remedies

In Ohio, no state or local government official has the authority to enforce the Ohio Open Meetings Act. Rather, if any person believes a public body has violated or intends to violate the Ohio Open Meetings Act, that person may file suit in common pleas court to enforce the law’s provisions.\(^{872}\)

Courts reviewing alleged violations will strictly construe the Ohio Open Meetings Act in favor of openness.\(^{873}\) In practice, this has included the courts looking beyond the express reason stated by a public body for an executive session to find an implied or circumstantial violation of the Act.\(^{874}\)

A. Enforcement

1. Injunction

The type of court action that must be filed for an alleged violation of the Ohio Open Meetings Act is called an injunction.\(^{875}\) This action must be “brought within two years after the date of the alleged violation or threatened violation.”\(^{876}\) If granted by a court, an injunction compels the members of the public body to comply with the law by either refraining from the prohibited behavior or by conducting their meetings in accordance with law where they previously failed to do so.

a. Who May File

“Any person” may have standing to file for an injunction to enforce the Ohio Open Meetings Act.\(^{877}\) The person need not demonstrate a personal stake in the outcome of the lawsuit.\(^{878}\)

b. Where to File

Unlike the Ohio Public Records Act, which permits an aggrieved person to initiate a legal action directly with a common pleas court, a district court of appeals, or the Ohio Supreme Court, the Ohio Open Meetings Act requires that an action for injunction be filed only in the court of common pleas in the county where the alleged Act violation took place.\(^{879}\)

No. CA-90-11, unreported (finding a violation where county commission emerged from executive session held “to discuss legal matters” and announced decision to remove Smith from Board of Mental Health, where there was no county attorney present in executive session and a request for public hearing on removal decision was pending).

The Ohio Open Meetings Act

Chapter Four: Enforcement & Remedies

c. Finding a Violation

Upon proof of a violation or threatened violation of the Ohio Open Meetings Act, the court will conclusively and irrefutably presume harm and prejudice to the person who brought the suit and will issue an injunction. Once an injunction is issued, members of the public body who later commit a “knowing” violation of the injunction may be removed from office through a court action that may only be brought by the county prosecutor or the Ohio Attorney General.

d. Curing a Violation

Once a violation is proven, the court must grant the injunction, regardless of the public body’s intervening or subsequent attempts to cure the violation. Indeed, Ohio courts have differing views as to whether an invalid action can ever be cured by new, compliant discussions followed by official action taken in an open session. However, if the action at issue is removal of a public official that was decided during a meeting allegedly not open to the public, the proper vehicle to challenge that action is a quo warranto action.

2. Mandamus

Where a person seeks access to the public body’s minutes, that person may also file a mandamus action under the Ohio Public Records Act to compel the creation of or access to meeting minutes. Mandamus is also an appropriate action to order a public body to give notice of meetings to the person filing the action.

Notes

- [885] State ex rel. Newell v. City of Jackson (2008), 118 Ohio St.3d 138, 2008-Ohio-1965, at ¶14-15 (finding that to be entitled to a writ of quo warranto to oust a good-faith appointee, a relator must take affirmative action by either filing a quo warranto action or an injunction challenging the appointment before the appointee completes the probationary period and becomes a permanent employee; further, this duty applies to alleged violations of the open meeting provisions of R.C. 121.22); Randles v. Hill, 66 Ohio St.3d 32, 1993-Ohio-204.
B. Remedies

1. Invalidity

A resolution, rule, or formal action of any kind is invalid unless adopted in an open meeting of the public body. Even in the absence of a formal vote or poll, a formal action may have occurred. For instance, while council members properly deliberated in executive session about whether to take action on a union request, they improperly took formal action during the executive session when they decided not to take action on the request and to announce as much via a press release. Those decisions were deemed invalid and of no effect. In addition, even if the formal action is taken in an open meeting, it is still invalid if it results from deliberations that improperly occurred outside of an open meeting, e.g., at an informal, private meeting or in an executive session that was held for other than an authorized purpose.

a. Formal Action

A “formal action” occurs via any mechanism by which members make their views known about a matter pending before them. Even in the absence of a formal vote or poll, a formal action may have occurred. For instance, while council members properly deliberated in executive session about whether to take action on a union request, they improperly took formal action during the executive session when they decided not to take action on the request and to announce as much via a press release. Those decisions were deemed invalid and of no effect. In addition, even if the formal action is taken in an open meeting, it is still invalid if it results from deliberations that improperly occurred outside of an open meeting, e.g., at an informal, private meeting or in an executive session that was held for other than an authorized purpose.

b. Improper Notice

A formal action taken in a meeting for which notice was not properly given is invalid.

c. Minutes

At least one court has found that minutes are merely the record of actions; they are not actions in and of themselves, and minutes that were not properly approved do not invalidate the actions recorded in the minutes.

2. Mandatory Civil Forfeiture

If the court issues an injunction, the court will order the public body to pay a civil forfeiture of $500 to the person who filed the action. Further, where a public body is found to have violated the law on repeated occasions, courts have awarded a $500 civil forfeiture for each violation.

(2nd Dist.), 2003-Ohio-7097, at ¶18 (“Doran III”) (determining that the failure to adopt rule is one violation with one $500 fine—fine not assessed for each meeting conducted in absence of rule where meetings were, in fact, properly noticed and held in an open forum); Weisbarth v. Geauga (11th Dist.), 2007-Ohio-6726, at ¶30 (finding that the only violation alleged was Board’s failure to state a precise statutory reason for going into executive session; this “technical violation entitled appellant to only one statutory injunction and one civil forfeiture.”).
3. Court Costs and Attorney Fees

If the court issues an injunction, it will order the public body to pay all court costs and the reasonable attorney’s fees of the person who filed the action. Courts have discretion to reduce or completely eliminate attorney’s fees, however, if they find that: (1) based on the state of the law when the violation occurred, a well-informed public body could have reasonably believed it was not violating the law; and (2) it was reasonable for the public body to believe its actions served public policy.

If the court does not issue an injunction and deems the lawsuit to have been frivolous, the court will order the person who filed the suit to pay all of the public body’s court costs and reasonable attorney’s fees as determined by the court.

(2) To facilitate broader access to public records, a public office or the person responsible for public records shall organize and maintain public records in a manner that they can be made available for inspection or copying in accordance with division (B) of this section. A public office also shall have available a copy of its current records retention schedule at a location readily available to the public. If a requester makes an ambiguous or overly broad request or has difficulty in making a request for copies or inspection of public records under this section such that the public office or the person responsible for the requested public record cannot reasonably identify what public records are being requested, the public office or the person responsible for the requested public record may deny the request but shall provide the requester with an opportunity to revise the request by informing the requester of the manner in which records are maintained by the public office and accessed in the ordinary course of the public office's or person's duties.

(3) If a request is ultimately denied, in part or in whole, the public office or the person responsible for the requested public record shall provide the requester with an explanation, including legal authority, setting forth why the request was denied. If the initial request was provided in writing, the explanation also shall be provided to the requester in writing. The explanation shall not preclude the public office or the person responsible for the requested public record from relying upon additional reasons or legal authority in defending an action commenced under division (C) of this section.

(4) Unless specifically required or authorized by state or federal law or in accordance with division (B) of this section, no public office or person responsible for public records may limit or condition the availability of public records by requiring disclosure of the requester's identity or the intended use of the requested public record. Any requirement that the requester disclose the requester's identity or the intended use of the requested public record constitutes a denial of the request.

(5) A public office or person responsible for public records may ask a requester to make the request in writing, may ask for the requester's identity, and may inquire about the intended use of the information requested, but may do so only after disclosing to the requester that a written request is not mandatory and that the requester may decline to reveal the requester's identity or the intended use and when a written request or disclosure of the identity or intended use would benefit the requester by enhancing the ability of the public office or person responsible for public records to identify, locate, or deliver the public records sought by the requester.

(6) If any person chooses to obtain a copy of a public record in accordance with division (B) of this section, the public office or person responsible for the public record may require that person to pay in advance the cost involved in providing the copy of the public record in accordance with the choice made by the person seeking the copy under this division. The public office or the person responsible for the public record shall permit that person to choose to have the public record duplicated upon paper, upon the same medium upon which the public office or person responsible for the public record keeps it, or upon any other medium upon which the public office or person responsible for the public record determines that it reasonably can be duplicated as an integral part of the normal operations of the public office or person responsible for the public record. When the person seeking the copy makes a choice under this division, the public office or person responsible for the public record shall provide a copy of it in accordance with the choice made by the person seeking the copy. Nothing in this section requires a public office or person responsible for the public record to allow the person seeking a copy of the public record to make the copies of the public record.

(7) Upon a request made in accordance with division (B) of this section and subject to division (B)(6) of this section, a public office or person responsible for public records shall transmit a copy of a public record to any person by United States mail or by any other means of delivery or transmission within a reasonable period of time after receiving the request for the copy. The public office or person responsible for the public record may require the person making the request to pay in advance the cost of postage if the copy is transmitted by United States mail or the cost of delivery if the copy is transmitted other than by United States mail, and to pay in advance the costs incurred for other supplies used in the mailing, delivery, or transmission.
Any public office may adopt a policy and procedures that it will follow in transmitting, within a reasonable period of time after receiving a request, copies of public records by United States mail or by any other means of delivery or transmission pursuant to this division. A public office that adopts a policy and procedures under this division shall comply with them in performing its duties under this division.

In any policy and procedures adopted under this division, a public office may limit the number of records requested by a person that the office will transmit by United States mail to ten per month, unless the person certifies to the office in writing that the person does not intend to use or forward the requested records, or the information contained in them, for commercial purposes. For purposes of this division, "commercial" shall be narrowly construed and does not include reporting or gathering news, reporting or gathering information to assist citizen oversight or understanding of the operation or activities of government, or nonprofit educational research.

(8) A public office or person responsible for public records is not required to permit a person who is incarcerated pursuant to a criminal conviction or a juvenile adjudication to inspect or to obtain a copy of any public record concerning a criminal investigation or prosecution or concerning what would be a criminal investigation or prosecution if the subject of the investigation or prosecution were an adult, unless the request to inspect or to obtain a copy of the record is for the purpose of acquiring information that is subject to release as a public record under this section and the judge who imposed the sentence or made the adjudication with respect to the person, or the judge's successor in office, finds that the information sought in the public record is necessary to support what appears to be a justiciable claim of the person.

(9) Upon written request made and signed by a journalist on or after December 16, 1999, a public office, or person responsible for public records, having custody of the records of the agency employing a specified peace officer, parole officer, prosecuting attorney, assistant prosecuting attorney, correctional employee, youth services employee, firefighter, EMT, or investigator of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation shall disclose to the journalist the address of the actual personal residence of the peace officer, parole officer, prosecuting attorney, assistant prosecuting attorney, correctional employee, youth services employee, firefighter, EMT, or investigator of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation and, if the peace officer's, parole officer's, prosecuting attorney's, assistant prosecuting attorney's, correctional employee's, youth services employee's, firefighter's, EMT's, or investigator of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation's spouse, former spouse, or child is employed by a public office, the name and address of the employer of the peace officer's, parole officer's, prosecuting attorney's, assistant prosecuting attorney's, correctional employee's, youth services employee's, firefighter's, EMT's, or investigator of the bureau of criminal identification and investigation's spouse, former spouse, or child. The request shall include the journalist's name and title and the name and address of the journalist's employer and shall state that disclosure of the information sought would be in the public interest.

As used in this division, "journalist" means a person engaged in, connected with, or employed by any news medium, including a newspaper, magazine, press association, news agency, or wire service, a radio or television station, or a similar medium, for the purpose of gathering, processing, transmitting, compiling, editing, or disseminating information for the general public.

(C) (1) If a person allegedly is aggrieved by the failure of a public office or the person responsible for public records to promptly prepare a public record and to make it available to the person for inspection in accordance with division (B) of this section or by any other failure of a public office or the person responsible for public records to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section, the person allegedly aggrieved may commence a mandamus action to obtain a judgment that orders the public office or the person responsible for the public record to comply with division (B) of this section, that awards court costs and reasonable attorney's fees to the person that instituted the mandamus action, and, if applicable, that includes an order fixing statutory damages under division (C)(1) of this section. The mandamus action may be commenced in the court of common pleas of the county in which division (B) of this section allegedly was not complied with, in the supreme court pursuant to its original jurisdiction under Section 2 of Article IV, Ohio Constitution, or in the court of appeals for the appellate district in which division (B) of this section allegedly was not complied with pursuant to its original jurisdiction under Section 3 of Article IV, Ohio Constitution.

If a requestor transmits a written request by hand delivery or certified mail to inspect or receive copies of any public record in a manner that fairly describes the public record or class of public records to the public office or person responsible for the requested public records, except as otherwise provided in this section, the requestor shall be entitled to recover the amount of statutory damages set forth in this division if a court determines that the public office or the person responsible for public records failed to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section.

The amount of statutory damages shall be fixed at one hundred dollars for each business day during which the public office or person responsible for the requested public records failed to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section, beginning with the day on which the requester files a mandamus action to recover statutory damages, up to a maximum of one thousand dollars. The award of statutory damages shall not be construed as a penalty, but as compensation for injury arising from lost use of the requested information. The existence of this injury shall be conclusively presumed. The award of statutory damages shall be in addition to all other remedies authorized by this section.

The court may reduce an award of statutory damages or not award statutory damages if the court determines both of the following:

(a) That, based on the ordinary application of statutory law and case law as it existed at the time of the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records that allegedly constitutes a failure to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section and that was the basis of the mandamus action, a well-informed public office or person responsible for the requested public records reasonably would believe that the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records did not constitute a failure to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section;

(b) That a well-informed public office or person responsible for the requested public records reasonably would believe that the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records would serve the public policy that underlies the authority that is asserted as permitting that conduct or threatened conduct.

(2) If the court issues a writ of mandamus that orders the public office or the person responsible for the public record to comply with division (B) of this section and determines that the circumstances described in division (C)(1) of this section exist, the court shall determine and award to the relator all court costs.

(b) If the court renders a judgment that orders the public office or the person responsible for the public record to comply with division (B) of this section, the court may award reasonable attorney's fees subject to reduction as described in division (C)(2)(c) of this section. The court shall award reasonable attorney's fees, subject to reduction as described in division (C)(2)(c) of this section when either of the following applies:

(i) The public office or the person responsible for the public records failed to respond affirmatively or negatively to the public records request in accordance with the time allowed under division (B) of this section.

(ii) The public office or the person responsible for the public records promised to permit the relator to inspect or receive copies of the public records requested within a specified period of time but failed to fulfill that promise within that specified period of time.

(c) Court costs and reasonable attorney's fees awarded under this section shall be construed as remedial and not punitive. Reasonable attorney's fees shall include reasonable fees incurred to produce proof of the reasonableness and amount of the fees and to otherwise litigate entitlement to the fees. The court may reduce an award of attorney's fees to the relator or not award attorney's fees to the relator if the court determines both of the following:

(i) That, based on the ordinary application of statutory law and case law as it existed at the time of the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records that allegedly constitutes a failure to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section and that was the basis of the mandamus action, a well-informed public office or person responsible for the requested public records reasonably would believe that the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records did not constitute a failure to comply with an obligation in accordance with division (B) of this section;

(ii) That a well-informed public office or person responsible for the requested public records reasonably would believe that the conduct or threatened conduct of the public office or person responsible for the requested public records as described in division (C)(2)(c)(i) of this section would serve the public policy that underlies the authority that is asserted as permitting that conduct or threatened conduct.

(D) Chapter 1347 of the Revised Code does not limit the provisions of this section.

(E) (1) To ensure that all employees of public offices are appropriately educated about a public office’s obligations under division (B) of this section, all elected officials or their appropriate designees shall attend training approved by the attorney general as provided in section 109.43 of the Revised Code. In addition, all public offices shall adopt a public records policy in compliance with this section for responding to public records requests. In adopting a public records policy under this division, a public office may obtain guidance from the model public records policy developed and provided to the public office by the attorney general under section 109.43 of the Revised Code. Except as otherwise provided in this section, the policy may not limit the number of public records that the public office will make available to a single person, may not limit the number of public records that it will make available during a fixed period of time, and may not establish a fixed period of time before it will respond to a request for inspection or copying of public records, unless that period is less than eight hours.

(2) The public office shall distribute the public records policy adopted by the public office under division (E)(1) of this section to the employee of the public office who is the records custodian or records manager or otherwise has custody of the records of that office. The public office shall require that employee to acknowledge receipt of the copy of the public records policy. The public office shall create a poster that describes its public records policy and shall post the poster in a conspicuous place in the public office and in all locations where the public office has branch offices. The public office may post its public records policy on the internet web site of the public office if the public office maintains an internet web site. A public office that has established a manual or handbook of its general policies and procedures for all employees of the public office shall include the public records policy of the public office in the manual or handbook.

(F) (1) The bureau of motor vehicles may adopt rules pursuant to Chapter 119. of the Revised Code to reasonably limit the number of bulk commercial special extraction requests made by a person for the same records or for updated records during a calendar year. The rules may include provisions for charges to be made for bulk commercial special extraction requests for the actual cost of the bureau, plus special extraction costs, plus ten per cent. The bureau may charge for expenses for redacting information, the release of which is prohibited by law.

(2) As used in division (F)(1) of this section:

(a) "Actual cost" means the cost of depleted supplies, records storage media costs, actual mailing and alternative delivery costs, or other transmitting costs, and any direct equipment operating and maintenance costs, including actual costs paid to private contractors for copying services.
Appendix A - Statutes

(b) "Bulk commercial special extraction request" means a request for copies of a record for information in a format other than the format already available, or information that cannot be extracted without examination of all items in a records series, class of records, or database by a person who intends to use or forward the copies for surveys, marketing, solicitation, or resale for commercial purposes. "Bulk commercial special extraction request" does not include a request by a person who gives assurance to the bureau that the person making the request does not intend to use or forward the requested copies for surveys, marketing, solicitation, or resale for commercial purposes.

(c) "Commercial" means profit-seeking production, buying, or selling of any good, service, or other product.

(d) "Special extraction costs" means the cost of the time spent by the lowest paid employee competent to perform the task, the actual amount paid to outside private contractors employed by the bureau, or the actual cost incurred to create computer programs to make the special extraction. "Special extraction costs" include any charges paid to a public agency for computer or records services.

(3) For purposes of divisions (F)(1) and (2) of this section, "surveys, marketing, solicitation, or resale for commercial purposes" shall be narrowly construed and does not include reporting or gathering news, reporting or gathering information to assist citizen oversight or understanding of the operation or activities of government, or nonprofit educational research.

(F) Every public body, by rule, shall establish a reasonable method whereby any person may determine the time and place of all regularly scheduled meetings and the time, place, and purpose of all special meetings. A public body shall not hold a special meeting unless it gives at least twenty-four hours' advance notice to the news media that have requested notification, except in the event of an emergency requiring immediate official action. In the event of an emergency, the member or members calling the meeting shall notify the news media that have requested notification immediately of the time, place, and purpose of the meeting.

The rule shall provide that any person, upon request and payment of a reasonable fee, may obtain reasonable advance notification of all meetings at which any specific type of public business is to be discussed. Provisions for advance notification may include, but are not limited to, mailing the agenda of meetings to all subscribers on a mailing list or mailing notices in self-addressed, stamped envelopes provided by the person.

(G) Except as provided in division (J) of this section, the members of a public body may hold an executive session only after a majority of a quorum of the public body determines, by a roll call vote, to hold an executive session and only at a regular or special meeting for the sole purpose of the consideration of any of the following matters:

(1) To consider the appointment, employment, dismissal, discipline, promotion, demotion, or compensation of a public employee or official, or the investigation of charges or complaints against a public employee, official, licensee, or regulated individual, unless the public employee, official, licensee, or regulated individual requests a public hearing. Except as otherwise provided by law, no public body shall hold an executive session for the discipline of an elected official for conduct related to the performance of the elected official's official duties or for the elected official's removal from office. If a public body holds an executive session pursuant to division (G)(1) of this section, the motion and vote to hold that executive session shall state which one or more of the approved purposes listed in division (G)(1) of this section are the purposes for which the executive session is to be held, but need not include the name of any person to be considered at the meeting.

(2) To consider the purchase of property for public purposes, or for the sale of property at competitive bidding, if premature disclosure of information would give an unfair competitive or bargaining advantage to a person whose personal, private interest is adverse to the general public interest. No member of a public body shall use division (G)(2) of this section as a subterfuge for providing covert information to prospective buyers or sellers. A purchase or sale of public property is void if the seller or buyer of the public property has received covert information from a member of a public body that has not been disclosed to the general public in sufficient time for other prospective buyers and sellers to prepare and submit offers.

If the minutes of the public body show that all meetings and deliberations of the public body have been conducted in compliance with this section, any instrument executed by the public body purporting to convey, lease, or otherwise dispose of any right, title, or interest in any public property shall be conclusively presumed to have been executed in compliance with this section insofar as title or other interest of any bona fide purchasers, lessees, or transferees of the property is concerned.

(3) Conferences with an attorney for the public body concerning disputes involving the public body that are the subject of pending or imminent court action;

(4) Preparing for, conducting, or reviewing negotiations or bargaining sessions with public employees concerning their compensation or other terms and conditions of their employment;

(5) Matters required to be kept confidential by federal law or regulations or state statutes;

(7) In the case of a county hospital operated pursuant to Chapter 339. of the Revised Code, a joint township hospital operated pursuant to Chapter 513. of the Revised Code, or a municipal hospital operated pursuant to Chapter 749. of the Revised Code, to consider trade secrets, as defined in section 1333.61 of the Revised Code.

If a public body holds an executive session to consider any of the matters listed in divisions (G)(2) to (7) of this section, the motion and vote to hold that executive session shall state which one or more of the approved matters listed in those divisions are to be considered at the executive session.

A public body specified in division (B)(1)(c) of this section shall not hold an executive session when meeting for the purposes specified in that division.

(H) A resolution, rule, or formal action of any kind is invalid unless adopted in an open meeting of the public body. A resolution, rule, or formal action adopted in an open meeting that results from deliberations in a meeting not open to the public is invalid unless the deliberations were for a purpose specifically authorized in division (G) or (J) of this section and conducted at an executive session held in compliance with this section. A resolution, rule, or formal action adopted in an open meeting is invalid if the public body that adopted the resolution, rule, or formal action violated division (F) of this section.

(I) (1) Any person may bring an action to enforce this section. An action under division (I)(1) of this section shall be brought within two years after the date of the alleged violation or threatened violation. Upon proof of a violation or threatened violation of this section in an action brought by any person, the court of common pleas shall issue an injunction to compel the members of the public body to comply with its provisions.

(2) (a) If the court of common pleas issues an injunction pursuant to division (I)(1) of this section, the court shall order the public body that it enjoins to pay a civil forfeiture of five hundred dollars to the party that sought the injunction and shall award to that party all court costs and, subject to reduction as described in division (I)(2) of this section, reasonable attorney's fees. The court, in its discretion, may reduce an award of attorney's fees to the party that sought the injunction or not award attorney's fees to that party if the court determines both of the following:
(i) That, based on the ordinary application of statutory law and case law as it existed at the time of violation or threatened violation that was the basis of the injunction, a well-informed public body reasonably would believe that the public body was not violating or threatening to violate this section;

(ii) That a well-informed public body reasonably would believe that the conduct or threatened conduct that was the basis of the injunction would serve the public policy that underlies the authority that is asserted as permitting that conduct or threatened conduct.

(b) If the court of common pleas does not issue an injunction pursuant to division (I)(1) of this section and the court determines at that time that the bringing of the action was frivolous conduct, as defined in division (A) of section 2323.51 of the Revised Code, the court shall award to the public body all court costs and reasonable attorney's fees, as determined by the court.

(3) Irreparable harm and prejudice to the party that sought the injunction shall be conclusively and irrebuttably presumed upon proof of a violation or threatened violation of this section.

(4) A member of a public body who knowingly violates an injunction issued pursuant to division (I)(1) of this section may be removed from office by an action brought in the court of common pleas for that purpose by the prosecuting attorney or the attorney general.

(J) (1) Pursuant to division (C) of section 5901.09 of the Revised Code, a veterans service commission shall hold an executive session for one or more of the following purposes unless an applicant requests a public hearing:

   (a) Interviewing an applicant for financial assistance under sections 5901.01 to 5901.15 of the Revised Code;

   (b) Discussing applications, statements, and other documents described in division (B) of section 5901.09 of the Revised Code;

   (c) Reviewing matters relating to an applicant's request for financial assistance under sections 5901.01 to 5901.15 of the Revised Code.

(2) A veterans service commission shall not exclude an applicant for, recipient of, or former recipient of financial assistance under sections 5901.01 to 5901.15 of the Revised Code, and shall not exclude representatives selected by the applicant, recipient, or former recipient, from a meeting that the commission conducts as an executive session that pertains to the applicant's, recipient's, or former recipient's application for financial assistance.

(3) A veterans service commission shall vote on the grant or denial of financial assistance under sections 5901.01 to 5901.15 of the Revised Code only in an open meeting of the commission. The minutes of the meeting shall indicate the name, address, and occupation of the applicant, whether the assistance was granted or denied, the amount of the assistance if assistance is granted, and the votes for and against the granting of assistance.

The disclosure described in this division may be made pursuant to any provision of a contract entered into by the state agency or agency of a political subdivision with any person or another state agency or agency of a political subdivision prior to the date the breach of the security of the system occurred if that contract does not conflict with any provision of this section. (D) The state agency or agency of a political subdivision may delay the disclosure or notification required by division (B), (C), or (F) of this section if a law enforcement agency determines that the disclosure or notification will impede a criminal investigation or jeopardize homeland or national security, in which case, the state agency or agency of a political subdivision shall make the disclosure or notification after the law enforcement agency determines that disclosure or notification will not compromise the investigation or jeopardize homeland or national security.

(E) For purposes of this section, a state agency or agency of a political subdivision may disclose or make a notification by any of the following methods:

(2) Electronic notice, if the state agency's or agency of a political subdivision's primary method of communication with the resident to whom the disclosure must be made is by electronic means;

(a) Electronic mail notice if the state agency or agency of a political subdivision has an electronic mail address for the resident to whom the disclosure must be made;

Substitute notice under this division shall consist of all of the following:

(a) Notification by a paid advertisement in a local newspaper that is distributed in the geographic area in which the state agency or agency of a political subdivision is located, which advertisement shall be of sufficient size that it covers at least one-quarter of a page in the newspaper and shall be published in the newspaper at least once a week for three consecutive weeks;

(b) Conspicuous posting of the disclosure or notice on the state agency's or agency of a political subdivision's web site, if the agency maintains one;

(c) Notification to major media outlets in the geographic area in which the state agency or agency of a political subdivision is located.

(F) If a state agency or agency of a political subdivision discovers circumstances that require disclosure under this section to more than one thousand residents of this state involved in a single occurrence of a breach of the security of the system, the state agency or agency of a political subdivision shall notify, without unreasonable delay, all consumer reporting agencies that compile and maintain files on consumers on a nationwide basis of the timing, distribution, and content of the disclosure given by the state agency or agency of a political subdivision to the residents of this state. Statutory Provisions Excepting Records from the Ohio Public Records Act or Declaring Records Confidential

This chart is based on one previously created by the Ohio Legislative Service Commission, which was current through October 23, 2008. The editors of this publication searched for amendments to the existing list and any new statutes, but do not represent this to be an exhaustive list. Independent legal research to determine whether there are additional applicable exceptions elsewhere in Ohio or Federal law that may apply to records being requested is still recommended.

The exceptions listed in this Appendix include those addressed in R.C. 149.43 itself. If an exception is contained in both R.C. 149.43 and a specific area of law, the specific area of law is cited first, with the R.C. 149.43 citation following. Some of the listed exceptions are qualified exceptions. The statutes enumerated in the first column should be examined to determine whether there are qualifications that operate to remove or qualify any confidentiality provision or other exception from the topical description in the second column.

Interpreting Ohio’s Public Records Act

The following are summaries of the Opinions of the Ohio Attorney General that have addressed or interpreted the Ohio Public Records Act. Be aware that the validity of any one opinion may have been affected by a subsequent court opinion or statutory change. The full text of these opinions can be found at http://www.ohioattorneygeneral.gov.

2010-016
Ohio Revised Code § 1347.15 requires every state agency to adopt rules regulating access to its confidential personal information systems, but excepts any judicial agency from such requirements. A judicial agency is part of the judicial branch of government or renders judgments in quasi-judicial proceedings. The Board of Tax Appeals renders judgments to resolve justiciable disputes arising under Ohio's tax laws and its proceedings are quasi-judicial in nature. The BTA is therefore not subject to the requirements of R.C. 1347.15.

2008-019
An audio tape recording of a meeting of a board of township trustees that is created by the township fiscal officer for the purpose of taking notes to create an accurate record of the meeting, as required by R.C. 507.04(A), is a public record for purposes of R.C. 149.43. The audio tape recording must be made available for public inspection and copying, and retained in accordance with the terms of the township records retention schedule for such a record.

2008-003
Depending on the manner in which it is formed and operated, a nonprofit corporation formed under R.C. 183.061 might be subject to the public records law in R.C. 149.43, the open meetings law in R.C. 121.22, or particular contracting controls governing state agencies.

A county coroner who performs an autopsy and forensic examination, pursuant to contract with the coroner who has jurisdiction over the case, is not required by R.C. 313.09 to keep the autopsy and examination reports he prepares, but he must keep copies of the reports in conformance with his office’s records retention schedule, as filed and approved in accordance with R.C. 149.38.

1 Only opinions after 1994 are available electronically. When searching the full text of these opinions on the AG website use the numbers found in bold above each body of text. If using another search method (such as LexisNexis or Westlaw) the citation format needed will be different. For example, if trying to locate the first opinion listed on this page, the format used would be: 2008 Ohio Op. Att’y Gen. No. 019.
A county coroner who performs an autopsy and forensic examination, pursuant to contract with the coroner who has jurisdiction over the case, is required by R.C. 149.43 to make available to any person for inspection and copying the copies of the autopsy and forensic examination reports that he prepared for the jurisdictional coroner, unless a report is not a public record under a statutorily defined or constitutionally mandated exception.

A county coroner who performs an autopsy and forensic examination, pursuant to contract with the coroner who has jurisdiction over the case, has no duty under R.C. 313.10(D) or (E), or R.C. 149.43, to make available to journalists or insurers copies of any records that his office has retained in connection with performance of the contract if the records are not public records.

2007-039

In the context of R.C. 2923.129, which concerns the powers and duties of a county sheriff with respect to information kept pertaining to licenses to carry concealed handguns, a journalist is prohibited from making a reproduction by any means, other than through his own mental processes, of the information the journalist is permitted to view under that statute. A sheriff may exercise his discretion in determining a reasonable manner by which a journalist may view, but not copy, that information so long as the confidentiality of other information relative to licenses to carry concealed handguns is maintained. Subject to the journalist exception, revealing, disclosing, or otherwise making known any of the information made confidential by the statute is prohibited except as required by a court order, or unless a statute specifically authorizes or requires other uses of such information. R.C. 2923.129(B) (1) does not prohibit a newspaper from publishing information that a journalist has viewed in accordance with the statute.

2007-034

A piece of physical evidence collected by law enforcement in connection with a criminal investigation and held by a county prosecuting attorney following conclusion of the trial, appeals, and post conviction proceedings to which the evidence pertains is not a public record for purposes of R.C. 149.43.

2007-026

Article II, Section 34a of the Ohio Constitution and Am. Sub HB690, 126th Gen. A. (2006) (eff. April 4, 2007) do not render confidential information about a public employee’s rate of pay, the number of hours worked by the employee, or the amount of compensation paid to the employee, nor do they otherwise exempt this information from inspection and copying under R.C.149.43. Therefore, any person, including any co-worker of the public employee, has the right under R.C. 149.43 to inspect and copy information about a public employee’s pay rate, hours worked and amounts paid.

The “good cause” standard described in 1991 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 91-003, under which the executive director of a public children services agency (PCSA) determines whether to grant access to child abuse or neglect investigation records included as confidential records under R.C. 5153.17, is applicable to all PCSA records described in R.C. 5153.17, including records pertaining to matters other than child abuse or neglect investigations. (1991 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 91-003, approved and clarified.)
A PCSA is responsible for keeping records described in R.C. 5153.17 confidential and may disclose them only as authorized by statute, in accordance with the “good cause” standard described in 1991 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 91-003. If, in conjunction with a criminal proceeding or investigation or a civil proceeding, a PCSA received a subpoena requesting the disclosure of information that is confidential under R.C. 5153.17, the PCSA, in order to preserve the confidentiality prescribed by statute, may file a motion to quash the subpoena, thereby seeking from the court an in camera review of the PCSA’s records and a determination as to whether and to what extent the information may be disclosed.

2006-038
In the absence of a statute to the contrary, foreign individuals and entities domiciled in a foreign country are “persons” who are entitled to inspect and copy public records pursuant to R.C. 149.43.

2006-037
Except as provided in R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(a)-(y) and R.C. 1724.11, information kept in the records of a community improvement corporation designated as an agency of a county under R.C. 1724.10 is a public record for purposes of R.C. 149.43.

2005-047
Because individuals possess a constitutionally protected privacy right in their social security numbers, such numbers when contained in a court's civil case files are not public records for purposes of R.C. 149.43.

Prior to releasing information from a court’s civil case files, the clerk of court has a duty to redact social security numbers included in those files. An individual’s personal financial information contained in a court’s civil case files is a public record for purposes of R.C 149.43 unless the information is not a “record” of the court or the information falls within one of the exceptions to the definition of the term “public record” set forth in R.C. 149.43(A)(1).

Under Ohio law, a board of elections has a duty to preserve ballots in sealed containers until any possible recount or election contest is completed. Ballots are therefore not “public records” for purposes of R.C. 149.43 while they remain under seal or where they are subject to a court order prohibiting their release. In addition, they are not subject to inspection under R.C. 3501.13 during such time.

However, once the time within which a possible recount or election contest may occur has passed, pursuant to R.C. 3501.13, such ballots are subject to public inspection “under such reasonable regulations as shall be established by the board.” Nonetheless, the board of elections remains under a duty to “carefully preserve” ballots used in an election for the remainder of the preservation period prescribed by R.C. 3505.31.

In addition, following the completion of the canvass of election returns under R.C. 3505.32, poll books used in an election are public records of a board of elections and are subject to public inspection in accordance with any reasonable regulations the custodian board of elections has established under R.C. 3501.1.
2004-045
Information within a criminal case file is subject both to Ohio's public records law and a constitutional right of access. Therefore, whether information within a criminal case file may be withheld depends on whether the information meets or is exempt from the definition of a “public record” under the Public Records Act, R.C. 149.43(A) (1), and whether the qualified constitutional right has been overridden.

2004-033
A county recorder who makes available in her office a photocopying machine for use by the public may not charge the two-dollar per page fee set forth in R.C. 317.32(I) where the public without the assistance of the recorder or her staff operates the photocopier. The recorder is, instead, subject to R.C. 149.43(B), which requires a public office to provide copies of public records “at cost.”

2004-011
A county recorder may not impose a fee upon a requester to inspect records or make copies using their own equipment. However, the county recorder may impose reasonable rules governing the use and operation of such equipment.

2003-030
R.C. 2303.26 requires the clerk of courts to carry out her duties “under the direction of [her] court.” Once the judges of a court of common pleas have delegated to the judges of a division of that court authority to determine whether to make that division’s records available to the public through the Internet, and the judges of that division have ordered that its records are not to be accessible to the public through the Internet, the clerk of courts must obey that order, unless a court of competent jurisdiction reverses that order or prohibits its enforcement.

2003-025
Information within investigatory work product of a law enforcement office that pertains to case the records of which have been ordered sealed or expunged pursuant to R.C. 2953.31-2953.61 or R.C. 2151.358 may not be publicly disclosed pursuant to Ohio's Public Records Act. However, the information may be discoverable under Ohio R. Crim. P. 16.

2002-040
Except as provided in R.C. 149.43(A)(1) and R.C. 2950.081(B), sex offender registration information submitted to a county sheriff by a sex offender who is required to register with the sheriff under R.C. Chapter 2950 may be made available to the general public on the Internet through the sheriff's web site, provided such access to the public records does not endanger the safety and integrity of the records or interfere with the discharge of the sheriff's duties.
A county sheriff that provides sex offender registration information to the general public on the Internet through a web site must provide a written notice containing the information set forth in R.C. 2950.11(B) to all the persons listed in R.C. 2950.11(A).

Except for the persons listed in R.C. 2950.11(A)(1) and Ohio Admin. Code 109:5-2-03(A)(1)(c), a county sheriff may use e-mail to electronically transmit the written notice required by R.C. 2950.11(A). The persons listed in R.C. 2950.11(A)(1) and Rule 109:5-2-03(A)(1)(c) must receive the written notice required by R.C. 2950.11(A) by regular mail or by personal delivery to their residences.

2002-030

In the absence of facts indicating that the names and addresses of a county sewer district’s customers fall within one of the exceptions to the definition of “[p]ublic record” contained in R.C. 149.43(A)(1), such names and addresses are public records that are subject to disclosure by the sewer district in accordance with R.C. 149.43.

2002-014

Transcripts prepared pursuant to R.C. 2301.23 by a court reporter of the court of common pleas are public records under R.C. 149.43, unless the transcripts include or comprise a record that is excepted from the definition of “public record” in R.C. 149.43(A)(1). (1989 Op. Att'y Gen. No. 89-073, syllabus, paragraph two, approved and followed.) A party in a trial of a civil or criminal action in the court of common pleas that requests a photocopy of a transcript previously prepared pursuant to R.C. 2301.23 in the action is required to pay the compensation fixed by the judges of the court of common pleas under R.C. 2301.24 in order to obtain the photocopy of the transcript from the court.

Each party in a trial of a civil or criminal action in the court of common pleas that requests a transcript pursuant to R.C. 2301.23 is required to pay the court reporter of the court of common pleas who prepares the transcript the compensation fixed by the judges of the court of common pleas in accordance with R.C.2301.24.

Each time that a party in a trial of a civil or criminal action in the court of common pleas requests a transcript pursuant to R.C. 2301.23, the court reporter of the court of common pleas who prepares the transcript is entitled to the entire compensation fixed by the judges of the court of common pleas in accordance with R.C. 2301.24, unless the party requests at the same time more than one transcript of the same testimony or proceeding. In such a situation, pursuant to R.C. 2301.25, the court reporter is entitled to the entire compensation fixed by the judges of the court of common pleas in accordance with R.C. 2301.24 for the first copy and to one-half the compensation allowed for the first copy for each additional copy.

A prosecuting attorney in a trial of a civil or criminal action in the court of common pleas or the court of appeals may not obtain a photocopy of a transcript previously prepared in the action from the court’s file without paying the court reporter of the court of common pleas or the court of appeals, respectively, the compensation fixed by the judges of the court of common pleas in accordance with R.C. 2301.24 or the judges of the court of appeals in accordance with R.C.2501.17, R.C. 9.92(E) and 2933.41(G) respectively.

Information on a run sheet created and maintained by a county emergency medical services (EMS) organization that documents medication or other treatment administered to a patient by an EMS unit, diagnostic procedures performed by an EMS unit, or the vital signs and other indicia of the patient’s condition or diagnosis satisfies the “medical records” exception of R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(a), and thus is not a “public record” that must be released to the public pursuant to R.C. 149.43(B). (1999 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-006, approved and followed.)

Information on a run sheet created and maintained by a county emergency medical services organization that documents medication or other treatment administered to a patient by an EMS unit, diagnostic procedures performed by an EMS unit, or the vital signs and other indicia of the patient’s condition or diagnosis, and is relied upon by a physician for diagnostic or treatment purposes, is a communication covered by the physician-patient testimonial privilege of R.C. 2317.02(B), and thus is confidential information, the release of which is prohibited by law for purposes of R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(v). (1996 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 96-005 and 1999 Op. Att’y Gen. No. 99-006, approved and followed.) If a physician authorizes an emergency medical technician (EMT) to administer a drug or perform other emergency medical services, documentation of the physician’s authorization and administration of the treatment or procedure by the EMS unit may also fall within the physician-patient testimonial privilege.

A written protocol, developed pursuant to R.C. 4765.41, without reference to a particular patient, for use by emergency squad personnel in cases where communication with a physician is not possible and the patient’s life is in danger, does not establish, for purposes of R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(v), a physician-patient testimonial privilege between the physician who prepared the protocol and a patient who is treated by an EMS unit pursuant to that protocol, where there is no further communication by the EMS unit with the physician about the condition or treatment of the patient.

If an EMS unit administers a controlled substance to a patient, the patient’s name and address documented on the run sheet will, pursuant to 11 Ohio Admin. Code 4729-9-14(A)(3) (Supp. 2000-2001), be deemed to meet a portion of the record keeping requirements of R.C. 3719.07, and thus will be confidential under the terms of R.C. 3719.13, if the run sheet becomes a permanent part of the patient’s medical record. However, information on the run sheet that pertains to the administration of a drug that is not a controlled substance is not required by R.C.3719.07 or other provision of R.C. Chapter 3719, and thus does not fall within the confidentiality requirements of R.C. 3719.13.

Data, photographs, maps, and other information created, collected, prepared, maintained, and published pursuant to R.C. 1504.02(A)(6) by the Department of Natural Resources’ Division of Real Estate and Land Management are public records for purposes of R.C. 149.43.

If the Department of Natural Resources stores, produces, organizes, or compiles public records in such a manner that enhances the value of data or information included therein, it may charge for copies an amount that includes the additional costs of copying the information in such enhanced or “value-added” format.

R.C. 1501.01, which authorizes the director of the Department of Natural Resources to “publish and sell” data, reports, and information, does not authorize the director to charge an amount in excess of its actual cost for providing copies of the records created and maintained pursuant to R.C. 1504.02(A)(6).

2000-046

A county recorder may make indexed public records available through the Internet, provided this does not endanger the records or interfere with the recorder’s duties; a fee cannot be charged or collected to inspect or copy records from the Internet when a person does not use equipment maintained by the recorder; Internet access cannot be limited to real estate title companies.
Appendix C

2000-036
Governor’s Office of Veterans Affairs is prohibited by 32 C.F.R. § 45.3(e)(4) from releasing a copy of a Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty (DD Form 214) without the written consent of the service member who is the subject of the DD Form 214.

R.C. 149.43, as amended by Am. Sub. S.B. 78, 123rd Gen. A. (1999) (eff. Dec. 16, 1999), imposes no duty upon any particular individual or office to notify public offices of a peace officer’s residential and familial information or to update the database. For purposes of R.C. 149.43, a child of a peace officer includes a natural or adopted child, a stepchild, and a minor or adult child.

Under the definition in R.C. 149.43(A)(7), peace officer residential and familial information encompasses only records that both contain the information listed in the statute and disclose the relationship of the information to a peace officer or a spouse, former spouse, or child of the peace officer, and those are the only records that come within the statutory exception to mandatory disclosure provided by R.C. 149.43(A)(1)(p). The exception for peace officer residential and familial information applies only to information contained in a record that presents a reasonable expectation of privacy, and does not extend to records kept by a county recorder or other public official for general public access. The general provisions of R.C. 149.43 excluding peace officer residential and familial information from mandatory disclosure do not operate to impose requirements or limitations on systems of public records that have been designed and established for general public access, where there is no reasonable basis for asserting a privacy interest and no expectation that the information will be identifiable as peace officer residential and familial information.

R.C. 149.43 provides no liability for disclosing information that comes within an exception to the definition of “public record.” Liability may result, however, from disclosing a record that is made confidential by a provision of law other than R.C. 149.43.

When county office chooses to create customized document from existing public record it may only charge its actual cost, which does not include employee time or computer programming fees.

1999-006
Information on a county EMS run sheet that does not satisfy either the medical records exception or the “catch-all” exception is a public record and must be disclosed pursuant to R.C. 149.43(B). HIV testing information contained in run sheets must not be disclosed.

1997-038
Information submitted to county sheriff pursuant to R.C. Chapter 2950 by an individual who has been convicted of or pleaded guilty to a sexually oriented offense is a public record that must be made available for inspection to any person, except to the extent that such information comprises “records the release of which is prohibited by state or federal law.”
1997-001
Information in workers’ compensation claim file that indicates that an individual has been diagnosed as having AIDS or an AIDS-related condition is not a public record that the Bureau of Workers’ Compensation must disclose to the public.

1996-034
County recorder not required removing or obliterating Social Security Numbers from documents before recording those instruments.

1996-005
Records collected for trauma system registry or emergency medical services incidence reporting system that constitute medical records or physician/patient privilege do not constitute public records; the State Board of Emergency Medical Services is not required to disclose such records; and the Board is required to maintain confidentiality of any patient identifying information contained therein.

1995-001
PASSPORT administrative agency operated by a private non-profit agency is a public office for purposes of Ohio Public Records Act and public body for purposes of Ohio Open Meetings Act.

1994-089
Clerk of court cannot remove from a court file a pleading that is stricken from the record or an original pleading when a substitute pleading is filed in place of the original unless permitted by law or appropriate records commission.

1994-084
A county human services department may release the address of a current recipient of aid to dependent children, general assistance, or disability assistance to a law enforcement agency that has authority to apprehend an individual under an outstanding felony warrant.

1994-058
A township clerk is authorized to have access to estate tax returns or other records or information made confidential by R.C. 5731.90 in connection with the duties and responsibilities of the clerk; county treasurer who reports collection of estate tax to a township clerk is permitted to reveal the identity of taxpayer to the township clerk in the course of making the report.
1994-046
All information pertaining to LEADS is not public record subject to disclosure.

1994-006
If a person requesting copies of public records stored by the county recorder on microfiche or film presents a legitimate reason why paper copies are insufficient or impracticable and assumes the expense of making the copies in that medium, the county recorder is required to make available in the same medium a copy of the portions of the microfiche or film containing the public records.

1993-038
When a court orders official records of a case sealed and such order does not require sealing of the pertinent official records of an administrative licensing agency, the agency is not required to seal its records; the agency may seal its records containing information prohibited from disclosure pursuant to R.C. 2953.35(A).

1993-010
Blueprints submitted to a county building inspection department for approval under 3791.04 are public records while in possession of the department.

1992-076
